Allies Ask Quick, Firm Red Reply To POW Exchange Talk Proposal

Communists Using Prisoners As Club, General Declares

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Dec. 10 (AP) — Allied truce negotiators bluntly asked the Communists today to make a quick decision on the U. N. proposal for immediate discussion of prisoners exchange.

The Reds were told:

1. An allied subcommittee would be ready at 1 p. m. tomorrow (11 p. m., EST, Monday) to discuss the problem of exchanging prisoners.

2. An Allied liaison officer would be at Panmunjom two and one-half hours earlier "to receive your answer."

Maj. Gen. Howard Turner, who handed them the statement, pointed out that it had been seven days since the Allies proposed a second subcommittee to discuss item four on the armistice agenda—exchange of prisoners.

He said the Communists had yet to give the U. N. command a firm answer.

Before the meeting, Allied and Red staff officers signed an argeement fixing specific boundaries of a provisional buffer zone. The agreement must be approved by the full delegations.

The subcommittee session Monday lasted only 35 minutes.

Red refusal to talk about prisoners caused the Sunday afternoon session at Panmunjom to adjourn 12 minutes after it convened.

Afterwards, the official U. N. spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, icily declared the Communists were "holding our captured men not only as prisoners but as hostages."

"We think it pretty obvious all they are doing is to use it as a bludgeon....They repeat that the reply will come in due time," he added.

The subcommittees of two delegates from each side have wrangled over the supervision issue since Nov. 27. Each apparently has run out of things to say.

Asked about the prospects of reaching an armistice settlement by Christmas, the Allied spokesman replied;

"I don't believe they attach the same significance to the season as we do."

Five Minor Red Probing Attacks Are Repulsed

SEOUL, Korea, Monday, Dec. 10 (AP) — Five minor Red probing attacks marked the only spark of activity on the frigid Korean war front Sunday.

The U. S. Eighth Army said all were repulsed readily, three on the central front and one each in the east and west.

Average Wholesale Price Of Meat Drops

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — The average wholesale price of all kinds and grades of meats throughout the United States has dropped six per cent in two months, the American Meat Institute said today.

"The seasonal increase in supplies for consumers is apparently catching up with the demand," the organization said in a statement.

"Top grades of beef in the basic New York market and elsewhere now have dropped one cent to four cents a pound below OPS wholesale ceiling prices. The lower grades of beef also are down by several cents a pound."

The institute said virtually all pork is selling well below the wholesale ceilings.

Diplomatic Ties With Britain May Be Cut By Egypt

British Raze Town, Meet No Resistance

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 9 (AP)—Acting Foreign Minister Ibrahim Farag Pasha announced today that Egypt is considering severing diplomatic relations with Britain.

Farag Pasha said study of the question was the "direct result of British forces' aggression in Suez" presumably because the British army levelled an Egyptian village yesterday to make way for a road. Egyptian police failed to carry out government orders to resist the demolition.

Early Decision Expected

The acting foreign minister said he expected the ministry would make its decision soon.

After a three-hour session, the cabinet recessed tonight until Tuesday without announcing any decision, however. Interior Minister Fouad Serag El Din Pasha told reporters only that the discussion concerned Anglo-Egyptian relations.

At an earlier meeting today, informants said, the cabinet approved issuance of a royal decree confiscating the lands of the 78-year-old British-founded Gezira Sporting Club of Cairo, the center of much of the capital's social life which includes a race course, a polo field and a golf course.

Two British Soldiers Killed

The cabinet also decided, the informants said, to discharge all Britons employed by Egyptian government departments, including teachers and technical experts. The order is believed to affect about 250 British employes of the government.

Two British soldiers were stabbed, beaten and killed and a third was critically wounded in the Arab quarters of Ismailia Saturday night. The British army said all three were robbed.

Teen-Aged Girl Kills Stepfather

LONDON, O., Dec. 9 (AP) — "I looked up and he was choking my mother, and it scared me, and I reached into my pocket and pulled the gun out and shot him."

That's how blonde Barbara Ann Neville, 18, described the fatal shooting of her stepfather, Russell Baird, 26, in their home seven miles southwest of London early today, Sheriff Harold R. Bidwell reported.

The slender, blue-eyed girl admitted she shot Baird through the chest with an old frontier type revolver, Bidwell said.

She is in the Madison County jail. Prosecutor Forrest E. Sidener said she will be charged with second-degree murder.

London, a town of about 5,000 persons, is in Central Ohio, about 24 miles southwest of Columbus.

Barbara told officers she had put the pistol in her pocket to keep it out of the reach of her mother and stepfather, who were quarreling. Bidwell said Mr. and Mrs. Baird had returned home at 1:30 a. m., after visiting several taverns in London.

After shooting Baird, Barbara ran to neighbors, called the police and asked for doctor, the sheriff said.

Woman Dies At 111

MAYSVILLE, Ky., Dec. 9 (AP) — This Ohio River town's oldest resident, Mrs. Mary Brewer Patterson, died at the age of 111 today.

A bride at 14, she had married three times. She died in the Mason County infirmary.

Premature Blasts Of Bombs Injure Two In Mock Raid

LIMA, O., Dec. 9 (AP)—Two bombs exploded prematurely in a simulated enemy air raid today, blowing away part of the skull of one policeman and slightly injuring another.

Shortly afterward an ambulance and two cars collided, injuring six other persons, two seriously. The ambulance was on a simulated emergency run.

No one was killed, but one of the policemen is not expected to live. City officials called off parts of the alert, including another series of bomb explosions, because of the accidents.

It was the second test of Lima's civil defense against possible enemy attack. The first alert was a year ago. Lima is a city of about 50,000 persons in Northwestern Ohio.

Big Four Atom Disagreement Delays Report

Minor Arms Accord Appears Possible

PARIS, Dec. 9 (AP) — East-West disagreement over an atom and disarmament controls program forced postponement tonight of a United Nations Political Committee meeting scheduled tomorrow to hear a report on week-long secret Big Four talks.

U. N. Assembly President Luis Padilla Nervo's most trusted aides worked throughout the day at the Palais De Chaillot trying to hammer out a report on the disagreement which the Big Four would endorse as factual, at least.

The terms of the Political Committee resolution called for the report to be made by Monday. The resolution set up the Big Four subcommittee under Padilla's chairmanship in an attempt to reach some agreement. But hope for any substantial agreement foundered late last week in the face of Russia's insistence on immediate prohibition of atomic weapons without setting up airtight controls at the same time.

Tuesday Date Is Set

In the arguments that developed, it became apparent that the Western Big Three and Russia would find it difficult to agree even on how their disagreement should be outlined to the committee.

The report may be ready some time late Monday but not in time for the full 60-nation Political Committee to plunge back into a debate on the Western Big Three balanced, gradual disarmament plan. The committee set a new date for hearing the report—Tuesday afternoon.

Padilla and the French, British and U. S. representatives have scheduled meetings tomorrow morning and afternoon in an attempt to get agreement on the report.

Minor Accord Possible

A minor accord, agreed on in principle long before the Assembly sessions began more than a month ago, appeared possible.

That was for setting up a 12-nation disarmament commission which may talk for years about plans and keep the subject alive.

The 11-nation Security Council and Canada would be represented on the commission, which would be a natural outgrowth of proposals to merge the Security Council separate atomic energy and conventional armaments commissions into one.

Mink Coats Valued At $120,000 Stolen

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 9 (AP)—Theft of an estimated 35 or 40 mink coats, valued at approximately $120,000, was reported to police today by the manager of a St. Louis retail outlet for the Martinique Fur Co. of Chicago.

Richard Smith, the retail manager, told police he discovered the theft when he visited the firm's second floor display room at the swank Hotel Chase shortly before noon today.

Contest Opens Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — A hundred women and teenagers from all over the country compete tomorrow for $138,000 in prizes in the national recipe and baking contest.

The cooks, whose recipes were selected from more than 100,000 entries, will perform in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

Intervention In Tax Probe Seems Likely

Calls In McGrath For Consultations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—President Truman today announced he is calling in Attorney General McGrath for consultations, lending support to reports the White House may intervene directly in the still developing tax scandals.

The Justice Department is a key agency in this respect for two reasons.

1. It prosecutes criminal charges of tax fraud and evasion, as well as handling civil tax suits.

2. T. Lamar Caudle, assistant attorney in charge of the department's tax division, was ousted by Mr. Truman three weeks ago for carrying on outside activities deemed incompatible with the duties of his office. Congressional investigators have heard a volume of testimony about the handling of tax fraud prosecutions.

Truman Mum On Plans

The President gave no indication what he might have in mind. There have been unconfirmed reports he is considering appointment of a bi-partisan commission to check on irregularities in the federal tax collection system and recommend appropriate action. Another of the various suggestions has been that he may give J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI chief, the job of running down derelict officials.

Meanwhile a House committee which has received some startling testimony about an alleged $500,000 "shakedown" attempt prepared to look into a $343,000 Detroit tax case settled for $71,000.

Adrian W. Dewind, chief counsel, disclosed to newsmen today that House Ways and Means subcommittee investigators already have questioned the United States attorney who handled the case.

Caudle To Take Stand Again

The case involves Howard Nutt, Detroit war contractor, who settled a $343,000 case for $71,000 in 1943.

The U. S. attorney who handled the case at the time was Ward Kemp, now an Air Force lieutenant colonel. Dewind said Kemp has been questioned by committee investigators and is standing by for further quizzing if necessary.

Caudle will be making a return appearance when he takes the stand tomorrow. He has not testified, however, since being named by Abraham Teitelbaum, wealthy Chicago attorney, as part of a Washington "clique" which Teitelbaum said was represented as being able to adjust tax difficulties if the fee was high enough.

Prison Fire Blamed On Cleaning Solvent

SANTA FE, N. M., Dec. 9. (AP)—Fumes from a cleaning solvent are believed to have started a license shop fire at the New Mexico State Penitentiary today.

Warden Jose Tondre said the fire burned for three hours and destroyed two shops before it was stopped by a crew of firemen, volunteers, policemen and prisoners. Damage was estimated at $250,000.

Tondre said a prisoner had been mopping the floor of the shop with the solvent when the oven used to dry plates touched off the fumes from the mop. "It went off with a whoosh," Tondre quoted the prisoners, "and I went out the door."

The fire was brought under control and the prisoners returned to their cells about noon.

Zoo Has Sandi Claus, Too

Ever meet a trained Christmas seal? Well, here's Sandi Claus of Los Angeles' Griffith Park Zoo. His keeper togged Sandi (for that's his name) in a Santa Claus hat and an old mop for a beard to give the kids something to laugh about when they visit the zoo.

Charles Wilson And Joint Chiefs Hold Conference

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Mobilization Chief Charles Wilson and the military high command met today to take a new look at the industrial production situation as it relates to a proposed stepup in the rearmament program.

The Pentagon conference between the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Wilson preceded by one day a scheduled meeting between President Truman and the joint chiefs. However, persons familiar with the plans for today's session said they did not believe the Wilson-JCS parley was connected directly with the meeting the chief executive had called for Monday.

They also said that the meeting was held on Sunday, not because of any emergency, but because it was the first opportunity all members had for getting together.

Washington officials understood the Monday talk between Mr. Truman and the joint chiefs was arranged for the primary purpose of considering the Korean war situation, especially the armistice outlook. There was a growing feeling here that prospects for a truce were brighter and more imminent than at any time in the five months since battlefield discussions started between United Nations and Communist negotiators.

The emphasis on today's Pentagon session presumably was on the impact which expansion of the Air Force, Army and Navy, beyond present goals, would have on the American production machine and civilian economy.

There was also a long-standing disagreement over priorities—what war tools should get first call in industry. Officials in Wilson's office have said the armed services are not setting effective schedules so they are making their own.

Boy Feels Better After Oil Drained

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP) — Little Martin Belchak felt much better today after having his oil drained.

The one-year-old boy was rushed to a hospital after he sucked fuel oil through the vent of a space heater tank in his parents' home last night.

Youth Rescued After Watching Quartet Drown

DENISON, Tex., Dec. 9 (AP) — A 17-year-old Odessa youth sobbed out a story of how his four teen-age companions drowned in Lake Texoma after their boat capsized before daylight Saturday morning.

Robert Davenport, rescued at 11 a. m. Sunday after spending the night on a tiny island in the middle of the lake, suffered severe shock and exposure.

He told a harrowing story of his fight to keep alive during the 48 hours before he was rescued.

Davenport said he and his four companions left before daylight Saturday from the Oklahoma side of Lake Texoma in a 14-foot aluminum boat powered by a 10-horse power motor.

High waves capsized the boat.

Two of the boys disappeared. Two others hung on the side of the boat with Davenport until daylight, then they slipped under. Davenport said he was in the water from about 6 a. m. Saturday until mid-afternoon Saturday when his boat finally washed ashore.

A Dallas dentist, Dr. W. C. McCaskill, noticed a half-submerged boat on the island Sunday morning and went to investigate. He had started to leave when he heard Davenport cry out. He went ashore and found the half-conscious boy.

GOP-Dixie Democrat Alliance Held Possible

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — A bi-partisan committee concluded today that political alliance of Republicans and Southern Democrats is desirable and theoretically possible, but cannot be arranged before the 1952 nominating conventions.

The group, known as the Committee to Explore Political Realignment, has conducted a 10-week study of the possibility of reshaping the two-party system with the announced aim of "clarifying the issues between conservatives and socialists."

The committee asserted in a statement that an informal alliance of Republicans and "traditional Democrats" already is established and functioning at congressional level.

Steel Talks To Resume

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9 (AP)—Wage negotiators for the giant U. S. Steel Corp. and the million member CIO United Steelworkers union go back into bargaining sessions tomorrow to hear some company counter proposals on non-wage issues.

Typhoon Causes Big Lava Slides On Stricken Isle

MANILA, Monday, Dec. 10 (AP) — Rains from a destructive typhoon sent slides of lava crashing down the slopes of Hibok Hibok today as the volcano spewed out boiling rock and ash for the sixth straight day.

The typhoon swept across the Central Philippines and blasted Cebu Island with winds of up to 135 miles an hour. It grounded a Japanese freighter and snapped communications.

Heavy rains and high winds from the storm multiplied the miseries of some 22,000 homeless refugees from Hibok Hibok's wrath on tiny Camiguin Island, southeast of Cebu.

High Seas Halt Evacuation

The refugees were huddled in the comparatively safe southern part of Camiguin. High seas halted their evacuation to nearby Mindanao, a few miles to the south, and to other islands.

The Philippines air lines reported that the city of Cebu, second largest port in the Philippines, bore the full brunt of the typhoon which howled in from the east-central islands Sunday night.

President Elpidio Quirino announced plans for visiting volcanic-stricken Camiguin Island and those areas blasted by the typhoon Thursday.

Total Evacuation Considered

Today's torrential rains raised fears that towns on the island's north side — already blanketed by ashes several feet deep—might be covered completely by landslides.

Hibok Hibok's fiery crown could not be seen through the heavy overcast, but red glowing spots through the clouds indicated it was belching up lava and flaming ashes.

Philippines government officials here were considering the evacuation of all of Camiguin's 45,000 residents.

Sees Ike Nominated

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) predicted today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be nominated for president on the first ballot at the Republican national convention in July.

"I first felt that way about it only last week," he said as a guest on the NBC-TV show, "Meet The Press."

President, Top Advisers Will Confer Today

Vacation Cut Short By Chief Executive

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP) — President Truman flew back to the capital tonight, emphasizing that "no emergency" is involved but that he was cutting short his vacation to see diplomatic and military advisers and the attorney general.

His plane "Independence" landed at National Airport at 5:35 p. m. EST after a flight of a little under four hours from Key West, Fla.

Just before the takeoff from Coca Chica airport at the Florida city Mr. Truman added Attorney General McGrath and other Justice Department officials to the list of those he was coming to see. The original announcement of his change of plans, made without warning late yesterday, had mentioned only the Joint Chiefs of Staffs and State Department officials. He will see them at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow at the White House.

The addition of McGrath to the list lent backing to reports that Mr. Truman may take a personal hand in the situation built up by recent tax scandal disclosures. In addition to the Bureau of Internal Revenue the congressional investigation of tax affairs has reached into the Justice Department's handling of fraud cases.

Wife, Daughter At Airport

Upon arrival here the President was asked what would be under discussion with McGrath.

"Everything that has to do with the attorney general," he said.

McGrath was among the group which welcomed Mr. Truman at the airport. Before the plane arrived McGrath told reporters he had no definite appointment for a conference but "undoubtedly" the President will call him soon.

Mr. Truman said he probably will see McGrath tomorrow.

Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret were on hand to meet the President as he arrived at the windswept airport. The President held on his hat with his hand as he kissed his daughter and wife.

In Key West Mr. Truman told reporters:

"There is nothing wrong—don't get it into your mind that the world is coming to an end."

He took pains to assure the country that his sudden decision to cut short his stay in Key West by a week was not dictated by any crisis.

Faces "Week Of Hard Work"

He announced that "I've had a very pleasant month's vacation and I'm going to put in a week of hard work in Washington."

He mentioned that he has a conference coming up during the week with "some other people who are coming back from Europe." Presumably they would include Secretary of State Acheson.

He said tomorrow's conference concerned the "whole world situation."

"Of course that's part of it," he said of the Korean phase of the discussion, "but not particularly."

A reporter asked if there isn't a whole series of problems relating to the Korean negotiations and involving a Dec. 27 deadline. If there is no settlement by then the cease-fire line agreement is void.

Mr. Truman said that yes, he would have to go over that situation. And he added that was a reason why he considered having the Joint Chiefs of Staff flown to Florida before he decided to fly back himself.

But, he again emphasized that "there is no emergency."

N. Y. Bus Runs Wild

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (AP)—A First Avenue bus, skidding on a wet pavement, crashed into a taxicab today, bounced off two parked cars and ended up in the front window of a meat market.

Twenty-three persons — the bus driver, 19 of his passengers, the cab driver and his fare, and the superintendent of the building at Seventh Street housing the market —were given medical treatment.

"The Great A-Bomb Robbery"

By BOB CONSIDINE

(World Copyright 1951 by INS)

This is the second in a series of 11 articles telling the step-by-step story of how Russia penetrated seemingly impenetrable security to steal America's atomic secrets in history's most fateful spy conspiracy. The author, noted Writer-Reporter-Columnist Bob Considine, obtained the facts-behind-the-facts during months of research and in talks with atomic and security officials in the United States and Britain.

Russia picked up wind of our a-bomb efforts in 1942, nearly three years before the first one was tested. Its agents immediately were assigned to gain all information available, by any means at their command.

The success of their mission changed the course of history. Possession of the bomb secrets and, in a startlingly short time, of an a-bomb stockpile, emboldened the Kremlin to engage in unprecedented aggression which gulped—if did not wholly digest—more than —half a billion subjects.

The first known coordinator of the great a-bomb robbery in this country was Arthur Alexandrovich Adams, battle-scarred veteran of the Russian revolution of 1905. He gained illegal entrance into this country from Canada in 1938 with the aid of Samuel Novick, president of the Electronics Corporation of Amreica, according to a House Un-American Activities Committee report.

By 1942 Adams apparently was in charge of an extensive espionage apparatus. It involved a number of the Soviet consulates of San Francisco and New York. One of these, Vice Consul Peter Ivanov, attached to San Francisco and using as one of his operatives the notorious Steve Nelson, set up a particularly potent information-leaking cell in the University of California's radiation laboratories. Some of the lab's brighter young men became intimate associates of the spies.

Guy Lombardo Runs Down, Kills Man, Injures Woman

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — An automobile driven by Orchestra Leader Guy Lombardo struck and killed a man and injured seriously a woman early today.

The victim, Isack Lilien, 65, was a prominent Civic leader in Queens County and head of a chain of hardware supply stores.

The woman, Mrs. Mollie London, 40, is the mother-in-law of Lilien's son, Robert.

Lombardo, questioned for two hours by police, told them the traffic light was in his favor and that he was driving only 25 to 30 miles per hour when the two figures loomed suddenly before his car in the darkness.

Police said there were three witnesses—one who said the traffic light favored Lombardo, one who said the light was against the orchestra leader, and one who said the light was changing at the time.

Because of the conflicting accounts, a hearing was set in vehicular accident court for Jan. 9 to determine whether there is evidence to warrant a charge against Lombardo.

Taft's Supporters To Fight N.Y. Move By Ike's Backers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Backers of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) indicated today they will fight a move by supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to boost New York's vote from 96 to 100 on the Republican presidential nomination.

An appeal for the four-vote increase in the New York delegation is expected to be carried to the Republican National Committee at its January meeting in San Francisco by GOP State Chairman William L. Pfeiffer and other officials.

It will go before a subcommittee headed by Roy E. Dunn, Minnesota national committeeman who recently was named by Taft to head the Ohioan's drive in that state for presidential nominating delegates

The Taft forces count at least seven of the 19 members of Dunn's committee as strong supporters. Eisenhower, being boomed by some Republicans for the party's persidential nomination in opposition to Taft, has no outspoken backers among the group.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the 1948 presidential nominee, is trying to swing his state's full strength to Eisenhower.

The national committee already has made a tentative allocation of delegates among states, based on a complicated formula of popultion and past political performance.

Under the allocation, New York would be cut back to 96 votes because the state is losing two congressional seats due to population changes.

A minor accord, agreed on in principle long before the Assembly sessions began more than a month ago, appeared possible.

That was for setting up a 12-nation disarmament commission which may talk for years about plans and keep the subject alive.

The 11-nation Security Council and Canada would be represented on the commission, which would be a natural outgrowth of proposals to merge the Security Council separate atomic energy and conventional armaments commissions into one.

Mink Coats Valued At $120,000 Stolen

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 9 (AP)—Theft of an estimated 35 or 40 mink coats, valued at approximately $120,000, was reported to police today by the manager of a St. Louis retail outlet for the Martinique Fur Co. of Chicago.

Richard Smith, the retail manager, told police he discovered the theft when he visited the firm's second floor display room at the swank Hotel Chase shortly before noon today.

Contest Opens Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — A hundred women and teenagers from all over the country compete tomorrow for $138,000 in prizes in the national recipe and baking contest.

The cooks, whose recipes were selected from more than 100,000 entries, will perform in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

Intervention In Tax Probe Seems Likely

Calls In McGrath For Consultations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—President Truman today announced he is calling in Attorney General McGrath for consultations, lending support to reports the White House may intervene directly in the still developing tax scandals.

The Justice Department is a key agency in this respect for two reasons.

1. It prosecutes criminal charges of tax fraud and evasion, as well as handling civil tax suits.

2. T. Lamar Caudle, assistant attorney in charge of the department's tax division, was ousted by Mr. Truman three weeks ago for carrying on outside activities deemed incompatible with the duties of his office. Congressional investigators have heard a volume of testimony about the handling of tax fraud prosecutions.

Truman Mum On Plans

The President gave no indication what he might have in mind. There have been unconfirmed reports he is considering appointment of a bi-partisan commission to check on irregularities in the federal tax collection system and recommend appropriate action. Another of the various suggestions has been that he may give J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI chief, the job of running down derelict officials.

Meanwhile a House committee which has received some startling testimony about an alleged $500,000 "shakedown" attempt prepared to look into a $343,000 Detroit tax case settled for $71,000.

Adrian W. Dewind, chief counsel, disclosed to newsmen today that House Ways and Means subcommittee investigators already have questioned the United States attorney who handled the case.

Caudle To Take Stand Again

The case involves Howard Nutt, Detroit war contractor, who settled a $343,000 case for $71,000 in 1943.

The U. S. attorney who handled the case at the time was Ward Kemp, now an Air Force lieutenant colonel. Dewind said Kemp has been questioned by committee investigators and is standing by for further quizzing if necessary.

Caudle will be making a return appearance when he takes the stand tomorrow. He has not testified, however, since being named by Abraham Teitelbaum, wealthy Chicago attorney, as part of a Washington "clique" which Teitelbaum said was represented as being able to adjust tax difficulties if the fee was high enough.

Prison Fire Blamed On Cleaning Solvent

SANTA FE, N. M., Dec. 9. (AP)—Fumes from a cleaning solvent are believed to have started a license shop fire at the New Mexico State Penitentiary today.

Warden Jose Tondre said the fire burned for three hours and destroyed two shops before it was stopped by a crew of firemen, volunteers, policemen and prisoners. Damage was estimated at $250,000.

Tondre said a prisoner had been mopping the floor of the shop with the solvent when the oven used to dry plates touched off the fumes from the mop. "It went off with a whoosh," Tondre quoted the prisoners, "and I went out the door."

The fire was brought under control and the prisoners returned to their cells about noon.

Charles Wilson And Joint Chiefs Hold Conference

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Mobilization Chief Charles Wilson and the military high command met today to take a new look at the industrial production situation as it relates to a proposed stepup in the rearmament program.

The Pentagon conference between the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Wilson preceded by one day a scheduled meeting between President Truman and the joint chiefs. However, persons familiar with the plans for today's session said they did not believe the Wilson-JCS parley was connected directly with the meeting the chief executive had called for Monday.

They also said that the meeting was held on Sunday, not because of any emergency, but because it was the first opportunity all members had for getting together.

Washington officials understood the Monday talk between Mr. Truman and the joint chiefs was arranged for the primary purpose of considering the Korean war situation, especially the armistice outlook. There was a growing feeling here that prospects for a truce were brighter and more imminent than at any time in the five months since battlefield discussions started between United Nations and Communist negotiators.

The emphasis on today's Pentagon session presumably was on the impact which expansion of the Air Force, Army and Navy, beyond present goals, would have on the American production machine and civilian economy.

There was also a long-standing disagreement over priorities—what war tools should get first call in industry. Officials in Wilson's office have said the armed services are not setting effective schedules so they are making their own.

Boy Feels Better After Oil Drained

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (AP) — Little Martin Belchak felt much better today after having his oil drained.

The one-year-old boy was rushed to a hospital after he sucked fuel oil through the vent of a space heater tank in his parents' home last night.

Youth Rescued After Watching Quartet Drown

DENISON, Tex., Dec. 9 (AP) — A 17-year-old Odessa youth sobbed out a story of how his four teen-age companions drowned in Lake Texoma after their boat capsized before daylight Saturday morning.

Robert Davenport, rescued at 11 a. m. Sunday after spending the night on a tiny island in the middle of the lake, suffered severe shock and exposure.

High waves capsized the boat.

Two of the boys disappeared. Two others hung on the side of the boat with Davenport until daylight, then they slipped under. Davenport said he was in the water from about 6 a. m. Saturday until mid-afternoon Saturday when his boat finally washed ashore.

A Dallas dentist, Dr. W. C. McCaskill, noticed a half-submerged boat on the island Sunday morning and went to investigate. He had started to leave when he heard Davenport cry out. He went ashore and found the half-conscious boy.

GOP-Dixie Democrat Alliance Held Possible

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — A bi-partisan committee concluded today that political alliance of Republicans and Southern Democrats is desirable and theoretically possible, but cannot be arranged before the 1952 nominating conventions.

The group, known as the Committee to Explore Political Realignment, has conducted a 10-week study of the possibility of reshaping the two-party system with the announced aim of "clarifying the issues between conservatives and socialists."

The committee asserted in a statement that an informal alliance of Republicans and "traditional Democrats" already is established and functioning at congressional level.

Typhoon Causes Big Lava Slides On Stricken Isle

MANILA, Monday, Dec. 10 (AP) — Rains from a destructive typhoon sent slides of lava crashing down the slopes of Hibok Hibok today as the volcano spewed out boiling rock and ash for the sixth straight day.

The typhoon swept across the Central Philippines and blasted Cebu Island with winds of up to 135 miles an hour. It grounded a Japanese freighter and snapped communications.

Heavy rains and high winds from the storm multiplied the miseries of some 22,000 homeless refugees from Hibok Hibok's wrath on tiny Camiguin Island, southeast of Cebu.

High Seas Halt Evacuation

The refugees were huddled in the comparatively safe southern part of Camiguin. High seas halted their evacuation to nearby Mindanao, a few miles to the south, and to other islands.

The Philippines air lines reported that the city of Cebu, second largest port in the Philippines, bore the full brunt of the typhoon which howled in from the east-central islands Sunday night.

President Elpidio Quirino announced plans for visiting volcanic-stricken Camiguin Island and those areas blasted by the typhoon Thursday.

Total Evacuation Considered

Today's torrential rains raised fears that towns on the island's north side — already blanketed by ashes several feet deep—might be covered completely by landslides.

Hibok Hibok's fiery crown could not be seen through the heavy overcast, but red glowing spots through the clouds indicated it was belching up lava and flaming ashes.

Philippines government officials here were considering the evacuation of all of Camiguin's 45,000 residents.

Sees Ike Nominated

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) predicted today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be nominated for president on the first ballot at the Republican national convention in July.

"I first felt that way about it only last week," he said as a guest on the NBC-TV show, "Meet The Press."

President, Top Advisers Will Confer Today

Vacation Cut Short By Chief Executive

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP) — President Truman flew back to the capital tonight, emphasizing that "no emergency" is involved but that he was cutting short his vacation to see diplomatic and military advisers and the attorney general.

His plane "Independence" landed at National Airport at 5:35 p. m. EST after a flight of a little under four hours from Key West, Fla.

Just before the takeoff from Coca Chica airport at the Florida city Mr. Truman added Attorney General McGrath and other Justice Department officials to the list of those he was coming to see. The original announcement of his change of plans, made without warning late yesterday, had mentioned only the Joint Chiefs of Staffs and State Department officials. He will see them at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow at the White House.

The addition of McGrath to the list lent backing to reports that Mr. Truman may take a personal hand in the situation built up by recent tax scandal disclosures. In addition to the Bureau of Internal Revenue the congressional investigation of tax affairs has reached into the Justice Department's handling of fraud cases.

Wife, Daughter At Airport

Upon arrival here the President was asked what would be under discussion with McGrath.

"Everything that has to do with the attorney general," he said.

McGrath was among the group which welcomed Mr. Truman at the airport. Before the plane arrived McGrath told reporters he had no definite appointment for a conference but "undoubtedly" the President will call him soon.

Mr. Truman said he probably will see McGrath tomorrow.

Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret were on hand to meet the President as he arrived at the wind-swept airport. The President held on his hat with his hand as he kissed his daughter and wife.

In Key West Mr. Truman told reporters:

"There is nothing wrong—don't get it into your mind that the world is coming to an end."

He took pains to assure the country that his sudden decision to cut short his stay in Key West by a week was not dictated by any crisis.

Faces "Week Of Hard Work"

He announced that "I've had a very pleasant month's vacation and I'm going to put in a week of hard work in Washington."

He mentioned that he has a conference coming up during the week with "some other people who are coming back from Europe." Presumabily they would include Secretary of State Acheson.

He said tomorrow's conference concerned the "whole world situation."

"Of course that's part of it," he said of the Korean phase of the discussion, "but not particularly."

A reporter asked if there isn't a whole series of problems relating to the Korean negotiations and involving a Dec. 27 deadline. If there is no settlement by then the ceasefire line agreement is void.

Mr. Truman said that yes, he would have to go over that situation. And he added that was a reason why he considered having the Joint Chiefs of Staff flown to Florida before he decided to fly back himself.

But, he again emphasized that "there is no emergency."

N. Y. Bus Runs Wild

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (AP)—A First Avenue bus, skidding on a wet pavement, crashed into a taxicab today, bounced off two parked cars and ended up in the front window of a meat market.

Twenty-three persons — the bus driver, 19 of his passengers, the cab driver and his fare, and the superintendent of the building at Seventh Street housing the market —were given medical treatment.

"The Great A-Bomb Robbery"

By BOB CONSIDINE

(World Copyright 1951 by INS)

This is the second in a series of 11 articles telling the step-by-step story of how Russia penetrated seemingly impenetrable security to steal America's atomic secrets in history's most fateful spy conspiracy. The author, noted Writer-Reporter-Columnist Bob Considine, obtained the facts-behind-the-facts during months of research and in talks with atomic and security officials in the United States and Britain.

Russia picked up wind of our a-bomb efforts in 1942, nearly three years before the first one was tested. Its agents immediately were assigned to gain all information available, by any means at their command.

The success of their mission changed the course of history. Possession of the bomb secrets and, in a startlingly short time, of an a-bomb stockpile, emboldened the Kremlin to engage in unprecedented aggression which gulped—if did not wholly digest—more than —half a billion subjects.

The first known coordinator of the great a-bomb robbery in this country was Arthur Alexandrovich Adams, battle-scarred veteran of the Russian revolution of 1905. He gained illegal entrance into this country from Canada in 1938 with the aid of Samuel Novick, president of the Electronics Corporation of Amreica, according to a House Un-American Activities Committee report.

By 1942 Adams apparently was in charge of an extensive espionage apparatus. It involved a number of the Soviet consulates of San Francisco and New York. One of these, Vice Consul Peter Ivanov, attached to San Francisco and using as one of his operatives the notorious Steve Nelson, set up a particularly potent information-leaking cell in the University of California's radiation laboratories. Some of the lab's brighter young men became intimate associates of the spies.

Guy Lombardo Runs Down, Kills Man, Injures Woman

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — An automobile driven by Orchestra Leader Guy Lombardo struck and killed a man and injured seriously a woman early today.

The victim, Isack Lilien, 65, was a prominent Civic leader in Queens County and head of a chain of hardware supply stores.

The woman, Mrs. Mollie London, 40, is the mother-in-law of Lilien's son, Robert.

Lombardo, questioned for two hours by police, told them the traffic light was in his favor and that he was driving only 25 to 30 miles per hour when the two figures loomed suddenly before his car in the darkness.

Police said there were three witnesses—one who said the traffic light favored Lombardo, one who said the light was against the orchestra leader, and one who said the light was changing at the time.

Because of the conflicting accounts, a hearing was set in vehicular accident court for Jan. 9 to determine whether there is evidence to warrant a charge against Lombardo.

Taft's Supporters To Fight N.Y. Move By Ike's Backers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Backers of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) indicated today they will fight a move by supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to boost New York's vote from 96 to 100 on the Republican presidential nomination.

An appeal for the four-vote increase in the New York delegation is expected to be carried to the Republican National Committee at its January meeting in San Francisco by GOP State Chairman William L. Pfeiffer and other officials.

It will go before a subcommittee headed by Roy E. Dunn, Minnesota national committeeman who recently was named by Taft to head the Ohioan's drive in that state for presidential nominating delegates

The Taft forces count at least seven of the 19 members of Dunn's committee as strong supporters. Eisenhower, being boomed by some Republicans for the party's persidential nomination in opposition to Taft, has no outspoken backers among the group.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the 1948 presidential nominee, is trying to swing his state's full strength to Eisenhower.

The national committee already has made a tentative allocation of delegates among states, based on a complicated formula of popultion and past political performance.

Under the allocation, New York would be cut back to 96 votes because the state is losing two congressional seats due to population changes.

TRUMAN RETURNS; SAYS NO CRISIS

Allies Ask Quick, Firm Red Reply To POW Exchange Talk Proposal

Communists Using Prisoners As Club, General Declares

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Dec. 10 (AP) — Allied truce negotiators bluntly asked the Communists today to make a quick decision on the U. N. proposal for immediate discussion of prisoners exchange.

The Reds were told:

1. An allied subcommittee would be ready at 1 p. m. tomorrow (11 p. m., EST, Monday) to discuss the problem of exchanging prisoners.

2. An Allied liaison officer would be at Panmunjom two and one-half hours earlier "to receive your answer."

Maj. Gen. Howard Turner, who handed them the statement, pointed out that it had been seven days since the Allies proposed a second subcommittee to discuss item four on the armistice agenda—exchange of prisoners.

He said the Communists had yet to give the U. N. command a firm answer.

Before the meeting, Allied and Red staff officers signed an argeement fixing specific boundaries of a provisional buffer zone. The agreement must be approved by the full delegations.

The subcommittee session Monday lasted only 35 minutes.

Red refusal to talk about prisoners caused the Sunday afternoon session at Panmunjom to adjourn 12 minutes after it convened.

Afterwards, the official U. N. spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, icily declared the Communists were "holding our captured men not only as prisoners but as hostages."

"We think it pretty obvious all they are doing is to use it as a bludgeon....They repeat that the reply will come in due time," he added.

The subcommittees of two delegates from each side have wrangled over the supervision issue since Nov. 27. Each apparently has run out of things to say.

Asked about the prospects of reaching an armistice settlement by Christmas, the Allied spokesman replied;

"I don't believe they attach the same significance to the season as we do."

Five Minor Red Probing Attacks Are Repulsed

SEOUL, Korea, Monday, Dec. 10 (AP) — Five minor Red probing attacks marked the only spark of activity on the frigid Korean war front Sunday.

The U. S. Eighth Army said all were repulsed readily, three on the central front and one each in the east and west.

Average Wholesale Price Of Meat Drops

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — The average wholesale price of all kinds and grades of meats throughout the United States has dropped six per cent in two months, the American Meat Institute said today.

"The seasonal increase in supplies for consumers is apparently catching up with the demand," the organization said in a statement.

"Top grades of beef in the basic New York market and elsewhere now have dropped one cent to four cents a pound below OPS wholesale ceiling prices. The lower grades of beef also are down by several cents a pound."

The institute said virtually all pork is selling well below the wholesale ceilings.

Diplomatic Ties With Britain May Be Cut By Egypt

British Raze Town, Meet No Resistance

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 9 (AP)—Acting Foreign Minister Ibrahim Farag Pasha announced today that Egypt is considering severing diplomatic relations with Britain.

Farag Pasha said study of the question was the "direct result of British forces' aggression in Suez" presumably because the British army levelled an Egyptian village yesterday to make way for a road. Egyptian police failed to carry out government orders to resist the demolition.

Early Decision Expected

The acting foreign minister said he expected the ministry would make its decision soon.

After a three-hour session, the cabinet recessed tonight until Tuesday without announcing any decision, however. Interior Minister Fouad Serag El Din Pasha told reporters only that the discussion concerned Anglo-Egyptian relations.

At an earlier meeting today, informants said, the cabinet approved issuance of a royal decree confiscating the lands of the 78-year-old British-founded Gezira Sporting Club of Cairo, the center of much of the capital's social life which includes a race course, a polo field and a golf course.

Two British Soldiers Killed

The cabinet also decided, the informants said, to discharge all Britons employed by Egyptian government departments, including teachers and technical experts. The order is believed to affect about 250 British employes of the government.

Two British soldiers were stabbed, beaten and killed and a third was critically wounded in the Arab quarters of Ismailia Saturday night. The British army said all three were robbed.

Teen-Aged Girl Kills Stepfather

LONDON, O., Dec. 9 (AP) — "I looked up and he was choking my mother, and it scared me, and I reached into my pocket and pulled the gun out and shot him."

That's how blonde Barbara Ann Neville, 18, described the fatal shooting of her stepfather, Russell Baird, 26, in their home seven miles southwest of London early today, Sheriff Harold R. Bidwell reported.

The slender, blue-eyed girl admitted she shot Baird through the chest with an old frontier type revolver, Bidwell said.

She is in the Madison County jail. Prosecutor Forrest E. Sidener said she will be charged with second-degree murder.

London, a town of about 5,000 persons, is in Central Ohio, about 24 miles southwest of Columbus.

Barbara told officers she had put the pistol in her pocket to keep it out of the reach of her mother and stepfather, who were quarreling. Bidwell said Mr. and Mrs. Baird had returned home at 1:30 a. m., after visiting several taverns in London.

After shooting Baird, Barbara ran to neighbors, called the police and asked for doctor, the sheriff said.

Woman Dies At 111

MAYSVILLE, Ky., Dec. 9 (AP) — This Ohio River town's oldest resident, Mrs. Mary Brewer Patterson, died at the age of 111 today.

A bride at 14, she had married three times. She died in the Mason County infirmary.

Premature Blasts Of Bombs Injure Two In Mock Raid

LIMA, O., Dec. 9 (AP)—Two bombs exploded prematurely in a simulated enemy air raid today, blowing away part of the skull of one policeman and slightly injuring another.

Shortly afterward an ambulance and two cars collided, injuring six other persons, two seriously. The ambulance was on a simulated emergency run.

No one was killed, but one of the policemen is not expected to live. City officials called off parts of the alert, including another series of bomb explosions, because of the accidents.

It was the second test of Lima's civil defense against possible enemy attack. The first alert was a year ago. Lima is a city of about 50,000 persons in Northwestern Ohio.

Big Four Atom Disagreement Delays Report

Minor Arms Accord Appears Possible

PARIS, Dec. 9 (AP) — East-West disagreement over an atom and disarmament controls program forced postponement tonight of a United Nations Political Committee meeting scheduled tomorrow to hear a report on week-long secret Big Four talks.

U. N. Assembly President Luis Padilla Nervo's most trusted aides worked throughout the day at the Palais De Chaillot trying to hammer out a report on the disagreement which the Big Four would endorse as factual, at least.

The terms of the Political Committee resolution called for the report to be made by Monday. The resolution set up the Big Four subcommittee under Padilla's chairmanship in an attempt to reach some agreement. But hope for any substantial agreement foundered late last week in the face of Russia's insistence on immediate prohibition of atomic weapons without setting up airtight controls at the same time.

Tuesday Date Is Set

In the arguments that developed, it became apparent that the Western Big Three and Russia would find it difficult to agree even on how their disagreement should be outlined to the committee.

The report may be ready some time late Monday but not in time for the full 60-nation Political Committee to plunge back into a debate on the Western Big Three balanced, gradual disarmament plan. The committee set a new date for hearing the report—Tuesday afternoon.

Padilla and the French, British and U. S. representatives have scheduled meetings tomorrow morning and afternoon in an attempt to get agreement on the report.

Minor Accord Possible

A minor accord, agreed on in principle long before the Assembly sessions began more than a month ago, appeared possible.

That was for setting up a 12-nation disarmament commission which may talk for years about plans and keep the subject alive.

The 11-nation Security Council and Canada would be represented on the commission, which would be a natural outgrowth of proposals to merge the Security Council separate atomic energy and conventional armaments commissions into one.

MANILA, Monday, Dec. 10 (AP) — Rains from a destructive typhoon sent slides of lava crashing down the slopes of Hibok Hibok today as the volcano spewed out boiling rock and ash for the sixth straight day.

The typhoon swept across the Central Philippines and blasted Cebu Island with winds of up to 135 miles an hour. It grounded a Japanese freighter and snapped communications.

Heavy rains and high winds from the storm multiplied the miseries of some 22,000 homeless refugees from Hibok Hibok's wrath on tiny Camiguin Island, southeast of Cebu.

High Seas Halt Evacuation

The refugees were huddled in the comparatively safe southern part of Camiguin. High seas halted their evacuation to nearby Mindanao, a few miles to the south, and to other islands.

The Philippines air lines reported that the city of Cebu, second largest port in the Philippines, bore the full brunt of the typhoon which howled in from the east-central islands Sunday night.

President Elpidio Quirino announced plans for visiting volcanic-stricken Camiguin Island and those areas blasted by the typhoon Thursday.

Total Evacuation Considered

Today's torrential rains raised fears that towns on the island's north side — already blanketed by ashes several feet deep—might be covered completely by landslides.

Hibok Hibok's fiery crown could not be seen through the heavy overcast, but red glowing spots through the clouds indicated it was belching up lava and flaming ashes.

Philippines government officials here were considering the evacuation of all of Camiguin's 45,000 residents.

Sees Ike Nominated

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) predicted today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be nominated for president on the first ballot at the Republican national convention in July.

"I first felt that way about it only last week," he said as a guest on the NBC-TV show, "Meet The Press."

President, Top Advisers Will Confer Today

Vacation Cut Short By Chief Executive

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP) — President Truman flew back to the capital tonight, emphasizing that "no emergency" is involved but that he was cutting short his vacation to see diplomatic and military advisers and the attorney general.

His plane "Independence" landed at National Airport at 5:35 p. m. EST after a flight of a little under four hours from Key West, Fla.

Just before the takeoff from Coca Chica airport at the Florida city Mr. Truman added Attorney General McGrath and other Justice Department officials to the list of those he was coming to see. The original announcement of his change of plans, made without warning late yesterday, had mentioned only the Joint Chiefs of Staffs and State Department officials. He will see them at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow at the White House.

The addition of McGrath to the list lent backing to reports that Mr. Truman may take a personal hand in the situation built up by recent tax scandal disclosures. In addition to the Bureau of Internal Revenue the congressional investigation of tax affairs has reached into the Justice Department's handling of fraud cases.

Wife, Daughter At Airport

Upon arrival here the President was asked what would be under discussion with McGrath.

"Everything that has to do with the attorney general," he said.

McGrath was among the group which welcomed Mr. Truman at the airport. Before the plane arrived McGrath told reporters he had no definite appointment for a conference but "undoubtedly" the President will call him soon.

Mr. Truman said he probably will see McGrath tomorrow.

Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret were on hand to meet the President as he arrived at the wind-swept airport. The President held on his hat with his hand as he kissed his daughter and wife.

In Key West Mr. Truman told reporters:

"There is nothing wrong—don't get it into your mind that the world is coming to an end."

He took pains to assure the country that his sudden decision to cut short his stay in Key West by a week was not dictated by any crisis.

Faces "Week Of Hard Work"

He announced that "I've had a very pleasant month's vacation and I'm going to put in a week of hard work in Washington."

He mentioned that he has a conference coming up during the week with "some other people who are coming back from Europe." Presumably they would include Secretary of State Acheson.

He said tomorrow's conference concerned the "whole world situation."

"Of course that's part of it," he said of the Korean phase of the discussion, "but not particularly."

A reporter asked if there isn't a whole series of problems relating to the Korean negotiations and involving a Dec. 27 deadline. If there is no settlement by then the cease-fire line agreement is void.

Mr. Truman said that yes, he would have to go over that situation. And he added that was a reason why he considered having the Joint Chiefs of Staff flown to Florida before he decided to fly back himself.

But, he again emphasized that "there is no emergency."

N. Y. Bus Runs Wild

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (AP)—A First Avenue bus, skidding on a wet pavement, crashed into a taxicab today, bounced off two parked cars and ended up in the front window of a meat market.

Twenty-three persons — the bus driver, 19 of his passengers, the cab driver and his fare, and the superintendent of the building at Seventh Street housing the market —were given medical treatment.

"The Great A-Bomb Robbery"

By BOB CONSIDINE

(World Copyright 1951 by INS)

This is the second in a series of 11 articles telling the step-by-step story of how Russia penetrated seemingly impenetrable security to steal America's atomic secrets in history's most fateful spy conspiracy. The author, noted Writer-Reporter-Columnist Bob Considine, obtained the facts-behind-the-facts during months of research and in talks with atomic and security officials in the United States and Britain.

Russia picked up wind of our a-bomb efforts in 1942, nearly three years before the first one was tested. Its agents immediately were assigned to gain all information available, by any means at their command.

The success of their mission changed the course of history. Possession of the bomb secrets and, in a startlingly short time, of an a-bomb stockpile, emboldened the Kremlin to engage in unprecedented aggression which gulped—if did not wholly digest—more than —half a billion subjects.

The first known coordinator of the great a-bomb robbery in this country was Arthur Alexandrovich Adams, battle-scarred veteran of the Russian revolution of 1905. He gained illegal entrance into this country from Canada in 1938 with the aid of Samuel Novick, president of the Electronics Corporation of Amreica, according to a House Un-American Activities Committee report.

By 1942 Adams apparently was in charge of an extensive espionage apparatus. It involved a number of the Soviet consulates of San Francisco and New York. One of these, Vice Consul Peter Ivanov, attached to San Francisco and using as one of his operatives the notorious Steve Nelson, set up a particularly potent information-leaking cell in the University of California's radiation laboratories. Some of the lab's brighter young men became intimate associates of the spies.

Guy Lombardo Runs Down, Kills Man, Injures Woman

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — An automobile driven by Orchestra Leader Guy Lombardo struck and killed a man and injured seriously a woman early today.

The victim, Isack Lilien, 65, was a prominent Civic leader in Queens County and head of a chain of hardware supply stores.

The woman, Mrs. Mollie London, 40, is the mother-in-law of Lilien's son, Robert.

Lombardo, questioned for two hours by police, told them the traffic light was in his favor and that he was driving only 25 to 30 miles per hour when the two figures loomed suddenly before his car in the darkness.

Police said there were three witnesses—one who said the traffic light favored Lombardo, one who said the light was against the orchestra leader, and one who said the light was changing at the time.

Because of the conflicting accounts, a hearing was set in vehicular accident court for Jan. 9 to determine whether there is evidence to warrant a charge against Lombardo.

Taft's Supporters To Fight N.Y. Move By Ike's Backers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — Backers of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) indicated today they will fight a move by supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to boost New York's vote from 96 to 100 on the Republican presidential nomination.

An appeal for the four-vote increase in the New York delegation is expected to be carried to the Republican National Committee at its January meeting in San Francisco by GOP State Chairman William L. Pfeiffer and other officials.

It will go before a subcommittee headed by Roy E. Dunn, Minnesota national committeeman who recently was named by Taft to head the Ohioan's drive in that state for presidential nominating delegates

The Taft forces count at least seven of the 19 members of Dunn's committee as strong supporters. Eisenhower, being boomed by some Republicans for the party's persidential nomination in opposition to Taft, has no outspoken backers among the group.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the 1948 presidential nominee, is trying to swing his state's full strength to Eisenhower.

The national committee already has made a tentative allocation of delegates among states, based on a complicated formula of popultion and past political performance.

Under the allocation, New York would be cut back to 96 votes because the state is losing two congressional seats due to population changes.

State's Highway Death Toll Goes Past 500 Mark

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9. (AP)—Maryland's highway death toll reached 501 today, four more than the number killed during the entire year of 1950.

The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission had reported Saturday that the 1950 toll of 497 was equalled.

Then late Saturday night and early today four more highway deaths were reported by state police.

Two men died today as the result of a head-on crash on U. S. Route 40 near the Frederick-Carroll County line. The victims were the driver of one of the cars, William T. Jones, 26, East Rainelle, W. Va., and John M. Hahn, Woodlawn, Md.

Hahn was riding in a car driven by Paul A. Bachman, Baltimore, who suffered two broken legs. Gilbert Hardy, another passenger, also of Baltimore, suffered a possible fractured pelvis in the accident.

A passenger with Jones, Pvt. William M. Connolly, of Fort Meade, suffered fractured skull. The injured were being treated at Frederick Memorial Hospital. State police said the car Jones was driving was listed as stolen by Washington authorities Dec. 5.

In another accident at Suitland, Md., early today, Lt. Col. Lewis J. wright, 34, Seminole, Fla., was killed when his car struck a guy wire attached to a utility pole.

The 501st victim of the year was Owen Fawley, 72, Frederick, whose body was found late last night on U. S. Route 240 just outside Frederick. Police said he was the victim of a hit-and-run driver.

Woman Spends 4 Days With Body Of Sister-In-Law

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — A bedridden 91-year-old woman, weak from malnutrition, was rescued today after spending four days with the body of her dead sister-in-law.

The woman, Mrs. Johanna Witrock, was found after a boy who regularly delivered a Sunday newspaper at her apartment failed to get an answer.

The boy told his parents. They notified police.

On the living room floor in the neatly-kept apartment was the body of her sister-in-law, Miss Ida Witrock, 86.

Miss Witrock apparently had died of natural causes.

Three Small German States Vote To Merge

STUTTGART, Germany, Dec. 9 (AP) — Three small states of Southwest Germany voted overwhelmingly today to merge into one big state, which will be the fourth largest in all West Germany.

The Allied High Commission is considered certain to approve the outcome of the plebiscite.

The new state, with a population of about 6,593,000, covers an area from Heidelburg on the north to the Swiss border on the south and from Ulm on the east to the French border on the west.

The three states which will unite are Wuerttemberg-Baden with a population of 3,937,000, Baden with 1,372,000, and Wuerttemberg- Hohenzollern with 1,264,000.

Crackdown Imminent On Red Shakedown

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — A Treasury official estimated today that a Chinese Communist shakedown racket has extorted $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 from Chinese residents of the United States.

The Treasury announced it is prepared to recommend fines and imprisonment for persons who send money to China in the hope of saving relatives threatened by the Chinese Reds. They would be prosecuted under the "trading with the enemy" act which provides penalties up to 10 years imprisonment and $10,000 fine for each illegal remittance.

South To Go GOP, McKeldin Says

BOSTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Maryland's Gov. McKeldin says one reason the South will go Republican in next year's presidential election is "the mounting evidence of graft, corruption and immorality" in Washington.

The governor spoke last night at a GOP rally at the Republican Club of Massachusetts.

He said "the President of the United States x x x is plainly showing his guilty conscience by predicting that he and his crowd will be smeared and that lies will be told about him and his group in 1952."

McKeldin said "we have arrived at the day of the great cleanup in Washington" but he called the attempts "feeble."

He said it is only logical that the South should turn to the Republican Party.

"The modern Republican Party is the party of state sovereignty—the opposition to top-heavy, overcentralized government in Washington," he contended.

Two Soldiers Walk Away From Plane Crash Near Somerset

SOMERSET, Pa., Dec. 9 (AP) — A light plane smashed into a mountaintop today but two Army enlisted men walked away from the wreckage.

Pvt. Irving Vanderhoef, 22, of Arlington, W. Va., escaped injury and Cpl. William F. Haley, Jr., 22, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., suffered only a nose laceration and a sprained ankle. Their Piper Cub was badly wrecked.

The soldiers were reported on a weekend pass from Washington. They were en route to Haley's home and stayed overnight at Somerset. Shortly after taking off this morning they reported they ran into a dense fog and were trying to find their way back here when their plane hit the mountain near the Laurel Hill tunnel on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Girl Is Injured In Multiple Crash

An 18-year-old girl was slightly injured as a result of a three-car crash at Virginia Avenue and Second Street Saturday afternoon.

The girl, Mildred Davis, Rawlings, was examined for possible head injuries in Allegany Hospital and released.

Police said cars driven by John Kirk, 35, Rawlings, and William Davies, 56, 125 West Third Street, collided on the wet street, pushing Kirk's car into the path of a car driven by Kenny Voit, Jr., 19, Augusta, W. Va.

Police said the cars were badly damaged in the multiple crash.

They charged that the move was unnecessary since there will be "a tremendous surplus of $10,000,000" when the year ends. They called upon the Governor to return approximately $1,700,000 from general funds back to motor vehicle funds.

Fight Renewal

D'Alesandro urged league members to "renew our fight at the next legislature to get back what we have lost."

The Baltimore Mayor also chided McKeldin for advocating local sales taxes to increase income of the subdivisions.

He cited as one reason for his opposition the fear that a sales levy would be imposed again on articles and at price levels exempted from the state tax, "which I am sure the majority of the people of the state object to."

Hagerstown Gets 1952 VFW Conclave

The 1952 annual encampment of the Department of Maryland Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held in Hagerstown June 7, 8 and 9, according to Edward Murray, department senior vice commander.

Murray, who resides in Mt. Savage, attended a Council of Administration meeting in Baltimore yesterday, and reported on the 1952 membership drive of which he is chairman. He said about 3,600 Maryland veterans have enrolled to date. This figure is ten per cent higher than the same time last year. The 1952 state enrollment goal is 15,000.

The veterans took under advisement a proposal to establish a summer camp for underprivileged children in the state, to be operated with VFW funds. Albert Stiles, state commander is naming a committee to investigate.

The French caricaturist Honore Daumier was offered the Cross of the Legion of Honor in 1870 and refused it.

Hardesty Will Direct Garrett County Drive

Superintendent of Schools R. Bowen Hardesty will serve as chairman of the 1952 March of Dimes drive in Garrett County, according to former U. S. Senator George L. Radcliffe, state chairman.

Other county chairmen announced by Radcliffe are Attorney Alton Bennett, for Frederick County; Billy Jim Tawes, for Somerset County, and Joseph R. Grant, for Cecil County.

To Meet Wednesday

FROSTBURG.—The youth groups of all Protestant churches in Frostburg and vicinity are being asked to meet Wednesday evening, 7:30 o'clock, in First Methodist Church.

The discussion will be in reference to methods by which an interdenominational group may be organized to work together along lines mapped out by the United Christian Youth Action.

Definite plans will also be completed for the observance of Youth Week, January 27 to February 3, in local churches.

Picture of a man making a smart decision

HERE is a man who's been doing a lot of thinking.

Someday, he's told himself, I'm going to turn in my old car and get a new one.

And he said, still talking to himself, when I do that I'm going to size up the field—give 'em all a real going over.

You see him here at the wheel of a Buick. He hasn't bought it—yet. It's a demonstrator, and he's trying it out.

But the more he tries it, the more he knows he's been wasting a lot of time.

From the moment he looked inside, he said: Here's the room—and the comfort—and the style I've been looking for.

Then he nudged its Fireball Engine into action. It's a high-compression valve-in-head, as you probably know.

He eased out into traffic. Stopped and started for a couple of traffic lights, and said something to the effect that this Dynaflow Drive* is a honey. Why don't they all build 'em this way?

He saw a bump ahead. Place where the pavement had been torn up. Other cars were braking down to a creep to cross it. He held back—rolled right across at regular speed with barely a bobble.

It's hard to believe, he said, but what they say about Buick's ride is right.

Ten minutes later he was out on an open stretch of road. Tried an experimental push on the gas treadle. Boy—what a take-off! You couldn't want more power than that.

Ten minutes more—and he knew something else. You don't really steer a Buick. It just about steers itself. Stays right on the beam on the straightaway. Even straightens itself out after a curve.

To make a long story short—he's found out that nothing else he's tried out can hold a candle—not even a little Christmas candle—to this bonnie beauty.

Back at the Buick showroom, he's going to get one more surprise. The price of a Buick is a lot less than he'd guessed it would be.

State's Highway Death Toll Goes Past 500 Mark

BALTIMORE, Dec. 9. (AP)—Maryland's highway death toll reached 501 today, four more than the number killed during the entire year of 1950.

The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission had reported Saturday that the 1950 toll of 497 was equalled.

Then late Saturday night and early today four more highway deaths were reported by state police.

Two men died today as the result of a head-on crash on U. S. Route 40 near the Frederick-Carroll County line. The victims were the driver of one of the cars, William T. Jones, 26, East Rainelle, W. Va., and John M. Hahn, Woodlawn, Md.

Hahn was riding in a car driven by Paul A. Bachman, Baltimore, who suffered two broken legs. Gilbert Hardy, another passenger, also of Baltimore, suffered a possible fractured pelvis in the accident.

A passenger with Jones, Pvt. William M. Connolly, of Fort Meade, suffered fractured skull. The injured were being treated at Frederick Memorial Hospital. State police said the car Jones was driving was listed as stolen by Washington authorities Dec. 5.

In another accident at Suitland, Md., early today, Lt. Col. Lewis J. wright, 34, Seminole, Fla., was killed when his car struck a guy wire attached to a utility pole.

The 501st victim of the year was Owen Fawley, 72, Frederick, whose body was found late last night on U. S. Route 240 just outside Frederick. Police said he was the victim of a hit-and-run driver.

Woman Spends 4 Days With Body Of Sister-In-Law

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — A bedridden 91-year-old woman, weak from malnutrition, was rescued today after spending four days with the body of her dead sister-in-law.

The woman, Mrs. Johanna Witrock, was found after a boy who regularly delivered a Sunday newspaper at her apartment failed to get an answer.

The boy told his parents. They notified police.

On the living room floor in the neatly-kept apartment was the body of her sister-in-law, Miss Ida Witrock, 86.

Miss Witrock apparently had died of natural causes.

Three Small German States Vote To Merge

STUTTGART, Germany, Dec. 9 (AP) — Three small states of Southwest Germany voted overwhelmingly today to merge into one big state, which will be the fourth largest in all West Germany.

The Allied High Commission is considered certain to approve the outcome of the plebiscite.

The new state, with a population of about 6,593,000, covers an area from Heidelburg on the north to the Swiss border on the south and from Ulm on the east to the French border on the west.

The three states which will unite are Wuerttemberg-Baden with a population of 3,937,000, Baden with 1,372,000, and Wuerttemberg- Hohenzollern with 1,264,000.

Crackdown Imminent On Red Shakedown

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP) — A Treasury official estimated today that a Chinese Communist shakedown racket has extorted $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 from Chinese residents of the United States.

The Treasury announced it is prepared to recommend fines and imprisonment for persons who send money to China in the hope of saving relatives threatened by the Chinese Reds. They would be prosecuted under the "trading with the enemy" act which provides penalties up to 10 years imprisonment and $10,000 fine for each illegal remittance.

South To Go GOP, McKeldin Says

BOSTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Maryland's Gov. McKeldin says one reason the South will go Republican in next year's presidential election is "the mounting evidence of graft, corruption and immorality" in Washington.

The governor spoke last night at a GOP rally at the Republican Club of Massachusetts.

He said "the President of the United States x x x is plainly showing his guilty conscience by predicting that he and his crowd will be smeared and that lies will be told about him and his group in 1952."

McKeldin said "we have arrived at the day of the great cleanup in Washington" but he called the attempts "feeble."

He said it is only logical that the South should turn to the Republican Party.

"The modern Republican Party is the party of state sovereignty—the opposition to top-heavy, overcentralized government in Washington," he contended.

Two Soldiers Walk Away From Plane Crash Near Somerset

Pvt. Irving Vanderhoef, 22, of Arlington, W. Va., escaped injury and Cpl. William F. Haley, Jr., 22, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., suffered only a nose laceration and a sprained ankle. Their Piper Cub was badly wrecked.

The soldiers were reported on a weekend pass from Washington. They were en route to Haley's home and stayed overnight at Somerset. Shortly after taking off this morning they reported they ran into a dense fog and were trying to find their way back here when their plane hit the mountain near the Laurel Hill tunnel on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Girl Is Injured In Multiple Crash

An 18-year-old girl was slightly injured as a result of a three-car crash at Virginia Avenue and Second Street Saturday afternoon.

The girl, Mildred Davis, Rawlings, was examined for possible head injuries in Allegany Hospital and released.

Police said cars driven by John Kirk, 35, Rawlings, and William Davies, 56, 125 West Third Street, collided on the wet street, pushing Kirk's car into the path of a car driven by Kenny Voit, Jr., 19, Augusta, W. Va.

Police said the cars were badly damaged in the multiple crash.

ernor of practicing "deceit" when he prevailed upon the General Assembly to use the motor vehicle funds to pay state police costs.

They charged that the move was unnecessary since there will be "a tremendous surplus of $10,000,000" when the year ends. They called upon the Governor to return approximately $1,700,000 from general funds back to motor vehicle funds.

Fight Renewal

D'Alesandro urged league members to "renew our fight at the next legislature to get back what we have lost."

The Baltimore Mayor also chided McKeldin for advocating local sales taxes to increase income of the subdivisions.

He cited as one reason for his opposition the fear that a sales levy would be imposed again on articles and at price levels exempted from the state tax, "which I am sure the majority of the people of the state object to."

Hagerstown Gets 1952 VFW Conclave

The 1952 annual encampment of the Department of Maryland Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held in Hagerstown June 7, 8 and 9, according to Edward Murray, department senior vice commander.

Murray, who resides in Mt. Savage, attended a Council of Administration meeting in Baltimore yesterday, and reported on the 1952 membership drive of which he is chairman. He said about 3,600 Maryland veterans have enrolled to date. This figure is ten per cent higher than the same time last year. The 1952 state enrollment goal is 15,000.

The veterans took under advisement a proposal to establish a summer camp for underprivileged children in the state, to be operated with VFW funds. Albert Stiles, state commander is naming a committee to investigate.

The French caricaturist Honore Daumier was offered the Cross of the Legion of Honor in 1870 and refused it.

Hardesty Will Direct Garrett County Drive

Superintendent of Schools R. Bowen Hardesty will serve as chairman of the 1952 March of Dimes drive in Garrett County, according to former U. S. Senator George L. Radcliffe, state chairman.

Other county chairmen announced by Radcliffe are Attorney Alton Bennett, for Frederick County; Billy Jim Tawes, for Somerset County, and Joseph R. Grant, for Cecil County.

To Meet Wednesday

FROSTBURG.—The youth groups of all Protestant churches in Frostburg and vicinity are being asked to meet Wednesday evening, 7:30 o'clock, in First Methodist Church.

The discussion will be in reference to methods by which an interdenominational group may be organized to work together along lines mapped out by the United Christian Youth Action.

Definite plans will also be completed for the observance of Youth Week, January 27 to February 3, in local churches.

HERE is a man who's been doing a lot of thinking.

Someday, he's told himself, I'm going to turn in my old car and get a new one.

And he said, still talking to himself, when I do that I'm going to size up the field—give 'em all a real going over.

You see him here at the wheel of a Buick. He hasn't bought it—yet. It's a demonstrator, and he's trying it out.

But the more he tries it, the more he knows he's been wasting a lot of time.

From the moment he looked inside, he said: Here's the room—and the comfort—and the style I've been looking for.

Then he nudged its Fireball Engine into action. It's a high-compression valve-in-head, as you probably know.

He eased out into traffic. Stopped and started for a couple of traffic lights, and said something to the effect that this Dynaflow Drive* is a honey. Why don't they all build 'em this way?

He saw a bump ahead. Place where the pavement had been torn up. Other cars were braking down to a creep to cross it. He held back—rolled right across at regular speed with barely a bobble.

It's hard to believe, he said, but what they say about Buick's ride is right.

Ten minutes later he was out on an open stretch of road. Tried an experimental push on the gas treadle. Boy—what a take-off! You couldn't want more power than that.

Ten minutes more—and he knew something else. You don't really steer a Buick. It just about steers itself. Stays right on the beam on the straightaway. Even straightens itself out after a curve.

To make a long story short—he's found out that nothing else he's tried out can hold a candle—not even a little Christmas candle—to this bonnie beauty.

South To Go GOP, McKeldin Says

BOSTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Maryland's Gov. McKeldin says one reason the South will go Republican in next year's presidential election is "the mounting evidence of graft, corruption and immorality" in Washington.

The governor spoke last night at a GOP rally at the Republican Club of Massachusetts.

He said "the President of the United States x x x is plainly showing his guilty conscience by predicting that he and his crowd will be smeared and that lies will be told about him and his group in 1952."

McKeldin said "we have arrived at the day of the great cleanup in Washington" but he called the attempts "feeble."

He said it is only logical that the South should turn to the Republican Party.

"The modern Republican Party is the party of state sovereignty—the opposition to top-heavy, overcentralized government in Washington," he contended.

Two Soldiers Walk Away From Plane Crash Near Somerset

Pvt. Irving Vanderhoef, 22, of Arlington, W. Va., escaped injury and Cpl. William F. Haley, Jr., 22, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., suffered only a nose laceration and a sprained ankle. Their Piper Cub was badly wrecked.

The soldiers were reported on a weekend pass from Washington. They were en route to Haley's home and stayed overnight at Somerset. Shortly after taking off this morning they reported they ran into a dense fog and were trying to find their way back here when their plane hit the mountain near the Laurel Hill tunnel on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Girl Is Injured In Multiple Crash

An 18-year-old girl was slightly injured as a result of a three-car crash at Virginia Avenue and Second Street Saturday afternoon.

The girl, Mildred Davis, Rawlings, was examined for possible head injuries in Allegany Hospital and released.

Police said cars driven by John Kirk, 35, Rawlings, and William Davies, 56, 125 West Third Street, collided on the wet street, pushing Kirk's car into the path of a car driven by Kenny Voit, Jr., 19, Augusta, W. Va.

Police said the cars were badly damaged in the multiple crash.

ernor of practicing "deceit" when he prevailed upon the General Assembly to use the motor vehicle funds to pay state police costs.

They charged that the move was unnecessary since there will be "a tremendous surplus of $10,000,000" when the year ends. They called upon the Governor to return approximately $1,700,000 from general funds back to motor vehicle funds.

Fight Renewal

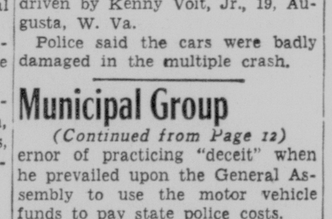

D'Alesandro urged league members to "renew our fight at the next legislature to get back what we have lost."

The Baltimore Mayor also chided McKeldin for advocating local sales taxes to increase income of the subdivisions.

He cited as one reason for his opposition the fear that a sales levy would be imposed again on articles and at price levels exempted from the state tax, "which I am sure the majority of the people of the state object to."

Hagerstown Gets 1952 VFW Conclave

The 1952 annual encampment of the Department of Maryland Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held in Hagerstown June 7, 8 and 9, according to Edward Murray, department senior vice commander.

Murray, who resides in Mt. Savage, attended a Council of Administration meeting in Baltimore yesterday, and reported on the 1952 membership drive of which he is chairman. He said about 3,600 Maryland veterans have enrolled to date. This figure is ten per cent higher than the same time last year. The 1952 state enrollment goal is 15,000.

The veterans took under advisement a proposal to establish a summer camp for underprivileged children in the state, to be operated with VFW funds. Albert Stiles, state commander is naming a committee to investigate.

The French caricaturist Honore Daumier was offered the Cross of the Legion of Honor in 1870 and refused it.

Hardesty Will Direct Garrett County Drive

Superintendent of Schools R. Bowen Hardesty will serve as chairman of the 1952 March of Dimes drive in Garrett County, according to former U. S. Senator George L. Radcliffe, state chairman.

Other county chairmen announced by Radcliffe are Attorney Alton Bennett, for Frederick County; Billy Jim Tawes, for Somerset County, and Joseph R. Grant, for Cecil County.

Someday, he's told himself, I'm going to turn in my old car and get a new one.

And he said, still talking to himself, when I do that I'm going to size up the field—give 'em all a real going over.

You see him here at the wheel of a Buick. He hasn't bought it—yet. It's a demonstrator, and he's trying it out.

But the more he tries it, the more he knows he's been wasting a lot of time.

From the moment he looked inside, he said: Here's the room—and the comfort—and the style I've been looking for.

Then he nudged its Fireball Engine into action. It's a high-compression valve-in-head, as you probably know.

He eased out into traffic. Stopped and started for a couple of traffic lights, and said something to the effect that this Dynaflow Drive* is a honey. Why don't they all build 'em this way?

He saw a bump ahead. Place where the pavement had been torn up. Other cars were braking down to a creep to cross it. He held back—rolled right across at regular speed with barely a bobble.

It's hard to believe, he said, but what they say about Buick's ride is right.

Ten minutes later he was out on an open stretch of road. Tried an experimental push on the gas treadle. Boy—what a take-off! You couldn't want more power than that.

Ten minutes more—and he knew something else. You don't really steer a Buick. It just about steers itself. Stays right on the beam on the straightaway. Even straightens itself out after a curve.

To make a long story short—he's found out that nothing else he's tried out can hold a candle—not even a little Christmas candle—to this bonnie beauty.

Back at the Buick showroom, he's going to get one more surprise. The price of a Buick is a lot less than he'd guessed it would be.

Moral: Smart Buy's Buick—right now.

New Wiley Ford School Opening Is Postponed

Building Use Seen After Holidays

KEYSER, W. Va.—The new Wiley Ford Public School will not be opened next week as had been planned.

When the building, which is practically completed and could be opened, was inspected by the Mineral County Board of Education, H. L. Idleman, Superintendent of Schools, and A. G. Springer, assistant Superintendent, it was discovered that a part of the operation was not satisfactory. This will cause a delay in occupying the building, probably extending the time for another couple of weeks. It is believed corrections can be made in the unsatisfactory work, and that the building can be occupied definitely by opening of school on January 2, following the holiday recess.

The concrete floors are not satisfactory in the school corridors, and changes may require a few weeks. The other parts of the building are satisfactory and have been approved.

Naval Aviation Cadets Are Needed

KEYSER, W. Va. — The U. S. Naval Aviation Cadet program, expanding immensely since the outbreak of the Korean campaign, needs volunteers to fill the current need for more pilots, according to Chief Teddy M. Beckham of the Navy Recruiting Station in Keyser.

This program is designed to supplement the supply of qualified aviators for the Navy and Marine Corps. It is open to young men between 18 and 26 years of age, who are unmarried and have completed satisfactory two full academic years of college.

Canaan Valley Ski Tow Will Be Dedicated

Ceremony Marked For December 16

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 9 (AP)—The winter sport of skiing is coming to West Virginia.

The Industrial and Publicity Comission announced today that the Ski Club of Washington has erected a ski tow on Cabin Mountain, 10 miles south of Davis in the Canaan Valley section of Tucker County.

The tow will be dedicated at ceremonies on Sunday, December 16, the commission said.

The handbook of the Washington club described the Cabin Mountain site as a "Shangri-La" where snow sometimes remains on the ski slope into early summer.

Gorman Young, president of the club and manager of the U. S. Olympic Ski team, and Club Member Hal Leich came upon the Cabin Mountain slope last year.

They reported that in February the snow cover was about 200 yards long, 80 feet wide and varied in depth from a feather edge to about 15 feet at the lower end.

Farmers Aid Scrap Drive

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Mineral County unit of the Agricultural Mobilization Commission is doing a good job in interesting farmers in the campaign to recover metal from junked equipment that is of no use on the farms of the county at the present time.

Most farms usually have some iron and other metals lying around their places, and strong efforts are being made to enlist the aid of farmers in bringing the old metals into a stock pile that is vitally needed in the country today.

It is understood that the union of the forces of five organizations in this county under the unit title of Agricultural Mobilization Commission has begun to get results. It is understood that approximately 20 tons have been recovered to date, and one local man, who has made a survey of the farm lands of the county, says there are at least 20 tons of old metal on the county farms.

There is only one difficulty in getting this old metal gathered. That is the belief of some owners of farms that parts of some old metal equipment might be of service in repairing other machines sometime in the future, and the owners don't want to part with it because of that thought.

New Wiley Ford School Opening Is Postponed

Building Use Seen After Holidays

KEYSER, W. Va.—The new Wiley Ford Public School will not be opened next week as had been planned.

When the building, which is practically completed and could be opened, was inspected by the Mineral County Board of Education, H. L. Idleman, Superintendent of Schools, and A. G. Springer, assistant Superintendent, it was discovered that a part of the operation was not satisfactory. This will cause a delay in occupying the building, probably extending the time for another couple of weeks. It is believed corrections can be made in the unsatisfactory work, and that the building can be occupied definitely by opening of school on January 2, following the holiday recess.

The concrete floors are not satisfactory in the school corridors, and changes may require a few weeks. The other parts of the building are satisfactory and have been approved.

Farmers Aid Scrap Drive

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Mineral County unit of the Agricultural Mobilization Commission is doing a good job in interesting farmers in the campaign to recover metal from junked equipment that is of no use on the farms of the county at the present time.

Most farms usually have some iron and other metals lying around their places, and strong efforts are being made to enlist the aid of farmers in bringing the old metals into a stock pile that is vitally needed in the country today.

It is understood that the union of the forces of five organizations in this county under the unit title of Agricultural Mobilization Commission has begun to get results. It is understood that approximately 20 tons have been recovered to date, and one local man, who has made a survey of the farm lands of the county, says there are at least 20 tons of old metal on the county farms.

There is only one difficulty in getting this old metal gathered. That is the belief of some owners of farms that parts of some old metal equipment might be of service in repairing other machines sometime in the future, and the owners don't want to part with it because of that thought.

New Wiley Ford School Opening Is Postponed

Building Use Seen After Holidays

KEYSER, W. Va.—The new Wiley Ford Public School will not be opened next week as had been planned.

When the building, which is practically completed and could be opened, was inspected by the Mineral County Board of Education, H. L. Idleman, Superintendent of Schools, and A. G. Springer, assistant Superintendent, it was discovered that a part of the operation was not satisfactory. This will cause a delay in occupying the building, probably extending the time for another couple of weeks. It is believed corrections can be made in the unsatisfactory work, and that the building can be occupied definitely by opening of school on January 2, following the holiday recess.

The concrete floors are not satisfactory in the school corridors, and changes may require a few weeks. The other parts of the building are satisfactory and have been approved.

Canaan Valley Ski Tow Will Be Dedicated

Ceremony Marked For December 16

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 9 (AP)—The winter sport of skiing is coming to West Virginia.

The Industrial and Publicity Comission announced today that the Ski Club of Washington has erected a ski tow on Cabin Mountain, 10 miles south of Davis in the Canaan Valley section of Tucker County.

The tow will be dedicated at ceremonies on Sunday, December 16, the commission said.

The handbook of the Washington club described the Cabin Mountain site as a "Shangri-La" where snow sometimes remains on the ski slope into early summer.

Gorman Young, president of the club and manager of the U. S. Olympic Ski team, and Club Member Hal Leich came upon the Cabin Mountain slope last year.

They reported that in February the snow cover was about 200 yards long, 80 feet wide and varied in depth from a feather edge to about 15 feet at the lower end.

Slander In Investigations

Chairman King of the House subcommittee investigating the Internal Revenue Bureau notes that no testimony to date has shown that high government officials "in any way" participated in the attempted $500,000 shakedown alleged by Abraham Teitelbaum, Chicago attorney. "Lacking such testimony, we assume they did not."

General Services Administrator Larson, one of the government officials named, took the stand to deny any part in the affair and to warn that "hearsay testimony, if permitted to run wild, has every opportunity to ruin the character and reputation of every public official and every public employe in this town."

Charles Oliphant, also named in the testimony, said in resigning as chief counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue:

"The newspapers today carry headlines linking my name with that of other present and former federal officials in an alleged plot to extort fantastic sums through charges of tax irregularities. . . without inquiry of me, without a shred of credence to link my name to the alleged plot, the forum of a responsible congressional committee was made available for hurtling the sensational and irresponsible charges throughout the country."

Witnesses at congressional investigations are sworn, and hence the remedy of prosecution for perjury is available against the irresponsible. And rules of procedure of the King subcommittee adopted August 17 provide that persons named by witnesses shall have the right to cross-examine to a limited extent "by submitting questions in writing to the chairman." Also, persons who believe themselves to be injured by testimony may testify in rebuttal "with the consent of a majority of the subcommittee," or may submit for the record a sworn statement in rebuttal.

A concurrent resolution offered in the Senate last August by Senator Kefauver and 15 other senators would set up new rules of procedure for investigating committees of both houses. It provides that a person whose actions are under scrutiny shall: 1) be notified of the nature of charges against him and the material to be presented; 2) be given an opportunity to present evidence in his own behalf; 3) be allowed counsel who would have the right to question him within appropriate limits; 4) be permitted to file a limited number of questions to be answered by witnesses who have testified against him; 5) be permitted to file a rebuttal statement.

Bills similar to the Kefauver resolution were introduced in the 80th Congress by Representative Douglas (D., Calif.) and Holifield (D., Calif.) who had severely criticized procedure of the Un-American Activities Committee. These measures carried additional provisions that editors, publishers, and reporters should not be called before any committee of Congress "unless it is deemed essential by a fulltime committee," and that no such person should "be questioned concerning any publication by him, unless upon vote of a majority of the committee or subcommittee."

Dean Griswold of Harvard Law School has suggested that any person required to testify be given at least five minutes to deny imputations or charges which may have developed in connection with his testimony. And Federal Judge Wyzanski of Boston has said that "persons adversely criticized by a witness should have the right to file with the committee a limited number of written questions that, unless the committee directs otherwise by a majority vote, shall be answered in writing by the hostile witness."

Defense Allotments

It is apparent that in clearing the way for all-out defense production, government experts underestimated the nation's capacity to produce. The result has been to place a greater check on the flow of basic materials to civilian uses than was necessary, stirring wide protest. The experts offer the excuse that it is better to have erred in that direction than to have risked vital shortages in defense needs. But the error did feed the flames of inflation.

The Defense Production Administration now attempts to placate concern about the situation by conceding miscalculations and making some revisions. Promised are increased steel allotments for school and hospital construction, announced by Administrator Fleischmann to a joint congressional committee functioning as a production "watchdog." More steel for highway work is also in prospect, it has been hinted.

According to Mr. Fleischmann, supplemental steel grants will permit authorizations for 500 new schools as well as continuing 1,400 school projects under way, and will provide for all the hospitals in course of building and for 50 additional structures.

Mr. Fleischmann may not have succeeded in quieting criticism and charges of discrimination by state and local officials clamoring for steel and other materials. His testimony revealed confusion in the allotment setup, but it also showed that the controllers can be forced to change their directives when there is sufficient public clamor.

Lee At West Point

It was not until President Truman's administration that the United States returned to the separate Southern states the captured battle standards of the Confederate armies. It was not until then that the project was effected of restoring General Robert E. Lee's mansion at Arlington.

The process of sentimental reconciliation between North and South was one of gradual growth. Now it is announced a portrait of General Lee in his Confederate uniform will be hung at West Point.

General Lee was the eighth superintendent of West Point. That was in 1852. The new portrait will be unveiled on January 19, the 100th anniversary of his appointment as superintendent and the 145th anniversary of his birth.

There are two other portraits of Lee at West Point, neither in the Confederate uniform. The new portrait will hang in the main rotunda of the library, on the opposite side of a large window from a portrait of General Grant, general in chief of the Union forces.

As the gallant leader of a lost cause, Lee's life during and after the Civil War was filled with brooding sorrow, not because of his defeat but because it is certain that he mourned the fate that had torn his beloved land in half.

Headache Pointers

When headache develops most of us are more interested in finding relief than the cause. This is reasonable and it hardly seems necessary to recommend an aspirin or two for this purpose. It is a matter of record that the reputation of this remedy and its close relatives has been built on its ability along this line.

This is ample advice for the person with an occasional headache but when the condition recurs regularly or tends to persist, the cause rather than the treatment becomes the important consideration. Most individuals think of the eyes, the sinuses, or constipation as the most likely culprits but statistics place these factors low on the list of offenders. Migraine and tension headaches are more common, at least among those who seek aid from the medical profession. Distress from head injury is the third most frequent origin, followed by that from tumors, high blood pressure, and sinusitis.

This variety of sources will explain why the physician does not order immediately a batch of laboratory tests and recommend a battery of consultants when the word headache is mentioned in his office. He wants to hear more about the complaint and encourages the patient to describe his difficulty in more detail. When does headache occur? Where? How often? What brings relief?

In addition, he determines under what circumstances headaches developed originally. Did they arise subsequent to injury or infection or prior to a nervous breakdown? Are they cyclic and, if so, does headache come on in periods of emotional stress and strain, overwork, or fatigue? This is a good pointer because the migraine and tension types often follow this pattern. Learning the time of day in which distress appears also is helpful. If eye trouble or anxiety is responsible, pain appears during the day as a rule.

Headaches brought on by high blood pressure, histamine, and sinus involvement are present on awakening. The site of discomfort offers many valuable clews. There is an old rule of thumb saying that when pain is most noticeable in the front part of the head the fault lies in the nose, throat, sinuses, eyes, or brain. When it is located over the back of the head or in the neck, the physician investigates emotional tension, muscular spasm, rheumatic conditions of the upper spine, or lesions at the base of the brain. Migraine generally is one-sided whereas when the forehead throbs or is tender the frontal sinuses may be at fault.

The physician rarely obtains much help from a description of the character and severity of the episode; some individuals feel pain more intensely than others. Furthermore, headache lends itself to lavish superlatives and exaggerations. "The throbbing is terrible," open any moment," "Unless you experience these bouts yourself you do not know how terrible they are," and "When my headaches come on I can't think, eat, sleep, or do anything until they pass" are typical statements by sufferers.

This kind of history taking is followed by examination and whatever laboratory studies are needed to reach a conclusion. A personality study is valuable because in the majority, headache is on a nervous basis. Many victims do not associate head pain with the tension under which they live but a large percentage are relieved when they reorganize their lives into a normal pattern.

ACTH has followed the same course as many other effective medications, in that time was needed to test and produce the product. The first ACTH was isolated in 1933.

Canada Withholds Aluminum From U. S.; Penny Postcard Bows Out On January 1; Two Young Men Solve Copper Shortage

WASHINGTON—It's a poor example of the good-neighbor policy, but Canada is deliberately withholding precious aluminum from the United States. This has already pinched the aluminum supply for home construction and other civilian uses. But far more serious the Air Force is not getting all the aluminum it needs to build jet fighters

Furthermore, part of the aluminum Canada is withholding from us was financed by American RFC loans during World War II.

What Canada has done is divert aluminum from the American to the British market. It won't be admitted, but the real reason for this diversion is to force this country to swap steel for aluminum, shipments to the United States.

For example, Canadian aluminum shipments to the United States dropped from 34,800,000 pounds per month last March and April to a meager 5,300,000 pounds per month today — a decrease of 85 per cent. In the same period, Canadian shipments to Britain have shot up from 21,100,000 pounds to 39,700,000 pounds per month—an increase of 88 per cent.

As proof that this is a cold-blooded squeeze-play, Canada has doubled its aluminum shipments to Australia, Brazil, Uruguay and even Argentina at the same time it strangled the aluminum flow to this country. In fact, the United States is the only major market that received less Canadian metal this year than last. As result, the United States is the only North Atlantic pact country that has been forced to clamp civilian controls on alumi num.

Canada Wins

Meanwhile, the Canadian squeeze has accomplished its purpose and forced the United States to swap American steel for British aluminum. Hard up for steel but overflowing with aluminum, Britain has agreed to divert 22,000,000 pounds of aluminum to American purchasers during the next five months. In return, Britain will be allocated 25,000 tons of fabricated American steel, 45,000 tons of steel ingots and another 28,500 tons of iron and steel scrap from the American zone of Germany. The joker in this deal is that the United States must return the aluminum after its own plants are expanded to make up the shortage, though Britain is allowed to keep the steel with no strings attached.

Another ironic fact is that Britain's contribution of 22,000,000 pounds of aluminum won't come from Britain at all, but will be shipped directly to us from Canada. In other words, this is the same aluminum that normally would have been shipped to the U. S. market anyway, but was withheld in order to force this country to kick in precious steel.

Ickes Predicted It

But here is the final ironic payoff. During the recent war, Jesse Jones, then czar of the RFC, advanced $68,500,000 without interest to the Aluminum Company of Canada (affiliated with the Aluminum Company of America) to build the shipsaw aluminum plant on the Saguenay River.

Jones also extended another $34,240,000 at three per cent interest, gave the Canadian plant an order for all its aluminum, and provided that if the order was cancelled before 1945, it would not be necessary for Canada to pay back the $68,500,000.

Harold Ickes, then secretary of the Interior, vigorously protested. He argued that the U.S.A. could not control Canadian aluminum, and that equipping a Canadian power project — Shasta Dam, Colorado-Big Thompson, parts of Grand Coulee, and others.

However, Jesse Jones had his way. Now Canada, withholding aluminum from us, is fulfilling Ickes' prediction.

End of Penny Postcard

There will be some nostalgic sighs at the Post Office Department when the latest casualty of inflation, the pennypost card, bows out on January 1.

For about 80 years, during which heliocopters have replaced horses and which have seen a 500-fold increase in the cost of government, Uncle Sam has been toting the popular, green-stamped postcards to all parts of the country-even to our troops overseas—for one penny.

Government subsidies helped, of course, but it is still a tribute to American rugged individualism that the penny postcard could survive so long. The postal was first issued in 1872 during the administration of President U. S. Grant. Later, in 1898, the same one-cent postage was authorized, the more elaborate picture card on which you place your own stamp.

One reason Congress boosted the postcard to two cents after January 1 was because big business has been exploiting the penny postal for advertising purposes. Actually only about 10 per cent of the 4,000,000,000 cards sold yearly in post offices are now used for personal correspondence.

To foil the advertisers Congress further provided a 10 per cent surcharge for postcards purchased in bulk lots of over 49.

But the Post Office Department doesn't think the new price will seriously affect sales. Even for two cents, the government postcard is still far and away the best mail bargain anywhere in the world.

Ike Wouldn't Be Converted

An off-the-record crack by George Allen, onetime White House jester, is proving good campaign ammunition for Eisenhower boosters who want to prove Ike is a Republican.

Sen. Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts, leader of the "I Wan't Ike" focres, and former Sen. Harry Darby of Kansas are repeating remarks Allen made before the National Industrial Conference Board at the Sea View Club near Atlantic City.

"I know General Eisenhower is a Republican," quipped Allen, "because, Lord knows, I've tried enough to convert him to be a Democrat. I didn't have a bit of luck."

Pension Systems

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Dec. 9—A new and very important development is taking place in the investment and labor world in connection with employes' pension systems. It is of utmost importance to every employer and every reader of this column. Pension systems may greatly improve labor relations, or can result in colossal trouble. At the present time they are not controlled by legislation and usually unsupervised by the corporations and wageworkers enjoying them.

What Is A Pension Plan?

There are various forms of pension plans and all should be "custom made" for each different corporation. Usually they provide for compulsory retirement at 65 years of age and optional retirement after 30 years of employment. Each wageworker receives a pension based upon his salary and number of years of service, less his Social Security pension. A full pension usually averages about $150 a month for wageworkers, and up to $600 a month for executives.

For a new corporation without any back obligations, this is a very simple matter. Even for old corporations it is simple to care for new employes and to make current appropriations for old employes. But, when it comes to providing the money to take care of the back years of old employes, this requires heavy appropriations. To encourage corporations to adopt these pension systems, the government allows (if definite rules are followed) the corporation to charge all such appropriations to expense. This means that Uncle Sam will pay about one-half of the bill. The corporation also can have the trustee purchase some of its own stocks, which may be very advantageous to all concerned.

Method Of Operation

The usual method of operation is to have a committee appointed—one member representing the stockholders, one member representing the wageworkers, and one member representing the executives. This committee selects a lawyer to draw up the proposed pension plan, an actuary to determine the annual payments (unless an insurance company is used), and a bank to receive the funds for investment. If the committee is wise, before any plan is adopted, it will first employ some impartial statistical organization to give independent advice in the interest of all parties.

Some pension plans are "contributory," in which case the wageworkers make a contribution, but in most cases the entire burden is carried by the corporation. After the above steps have been consummated, the work consists of an actuarial study each year to determine how much should be paid to the bank and how the bank invests the money. The payments to retiring employes are made by the bank.

Where Is The Dynamite?

The work of the trust departments of banks has heretofore been limited largely to handling family trust funds, serving as executors of wills, and operating agency accounts. In these cases only a few beneficiaries are involved. If the bank then makes a mistake, only two or three children may be affected. When, however, a bank is investing this money for 1,000 wageworkers, whose families are depending almost solely thereon in their old age, the situation is very different. All parties involved are sitting on a keg of dynamite! Hence, the greatest care should be taken.

Some banks want to invest all the money in government bonds, forgetting this policy was followed by the big banks of Germany where these pension plans started. As a result, the money was entirely wiped out with a total loss to everybody Other banks want to buy stocks now selling at an average of $270, forgetting that these stocks sold at only $42 in 1932 and may again. Other banks want to buy only corporation bonds, ignoring the continual decline in the value of the dollar, as do the life insurance companies. Finally, there are banks which follow all three policies under the "shotgun" theory. The correct procedure is for the committee, after employing outside independent advice, to consult with the bank about the policy, and inform the wageworkers quarterly thereon. This cannot be done by using an insurance company,

Matter Of Fact

The Phony Me-Too Story

WASHINGTON.

"Harry S. Truman is Robert A. Taft's ace-in-the-hole." The coiner of this somewhat embittered aphorism was a leading supporter of General Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican nomination. He meant that as the President grows weaker in the country, Senator Taft's chances of gaining the Republican nomination improve proportionately.

The reason is simple. As the President weakens, the orthodox Republicans are correspondingly emboldened to ignore the strong hints, in the polls and elsewhere, that Senator Taft is not their party's most popular candidate. They look at the rather special result of the Ohio election last year. They listen to the oft-repeated story that President Truman only won in 1948 because of Governor Thomas E. Dewey's "me-too" campaign. And they drift happily toward the Taft camp.

This reporter has wholly retired from the business of predicting elections; and no one in his senses, at this early date, would even try to guess at the outcome of a Taft-Truman or a Taft-Vinson race. It is worth pointing out, however, that the famous "me-too" theory is just about as phony as any political theory can be. And the actual results in 1848 tell the story as clearly as any political story can be told.

What really happened in 1948 can be simply summarized. In most key states President Truman ran pretty far behind, and Governor Dewey ran rather far ahead, of their respective tickets. The spread was unusually wide in states where the local Republicans had waged campaigns of the orthodox, "Chicago Tribune"-tested sort. And the only Republican of any significance who ran well ahead of Dewey was far more of a me-too Republican than Dewey himself.

Still Worth Noting

In Illinois, for example, President Truman squeaked through by a majority of only 33,000. But Governor Adlai Stevenson beat Col. Robert R. McCormick's gubernatorial candidate, Dwight Green, by a gigantic majority of nearly 575,000, while Senator Paul Douglas trounced Curly Brooks by nearly 500,000 votes.

Both Governor Stevenson and Senator Douglas were to the left of President Truman if anything. No one, by the wildest stretch of the imagination, could say that Green and Douglas were even slightly stained with me-too tendencies. In Illinois, in fact, you could say that extreme weakness of a violently anti-me-too local ticket, which polled around half a million votes less than Dewey did.

In Ohio, again, President Truman squeaked through by the tiny majority of 17,000, while a Republican gubernatorial candidate of the Taft stripe was beaten by Frank Lausche by more than 320,000. There is no need to multiply these figures, which are broadly representative of the general tendency throughout the country in 1948. But the exception is still worth noting. In Kentucky, Truman beat Dewey by 125,000, but the extreme me-too Republican, Sherman Cooper, came within only 25,000 votes of snatching the senatorship from Virgil Chapman.

In plain language, the hard facts bely the whole me-too theory. There are some other hard facts that Republicans will also do well to bear in mind. In New York in 1948, for example, Dewey beat Truman by only 161,000 votes, while Henry A. Wallace polled well over 500,000, most of which would have gone to Truman with no Progressive candidate in the race. And in Pennsylvania, Dewey carried the state by only 250,000, with 55,000 going to the Progressives.

States Still Doubtful

This secondary group of facts suggests a further conclusion. The Republicans in 1948 not only lost a number of big, crucial states where they had strongly anti-me-too local candidates. They also came perilously close to losing other large and important states, even though their local tickets were comparatively strong. And precisely these states are still doubtful. If Senator Taft is nominated, his situation is sure to be far from easy in New York, where Governor Dewey's organization will hardly put forth a great effort for him. In Pennsylvania, meanwhile, the increasing decay of the Republican organization has just been dramatically disclosed by their loss of the ancient stronghold of Philadelphia.

Finaly, there is a probem of the South. Southern leaders like Governor James F. Byrnes and Senator Harry F. Byrd are widely quoted to the effect that General Eisenhower would carry four or five Southern states; but they rather regretfully predict that their people will never vote for Senator Taft. For the traditionally Democratic South, they say, "Mr. Republican" would be rather too much of a good thing.

These facts and figures may mean a lot or very little. If there are a few more tax scandals, Harry S. Truman could make as poor a showing against Senator Taft as "Jumping Joe" Ferguson made in Ohio last year. In short, the purpose of printing the facts and figures is only to set a much-misrepresented record relatively straight.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

More Betrayal

When the nations met at San Francisco to sign the Japanese peace treaty, most Americans were shocked that China was not represented.

Nationalist China had been at war with Japan since September 18, 1931. From that day until December 7, 1941, China fought this battle unaided by anyone, occupying Japanese troops and Japan's energies. In World War II, China fought alongside of the United States up to V-J Day. Russia came into that war about one week before it was over and after it had been won. For China's heroic efforts, it was arranged at Yalta that Soviet Russia would get all the benefits; for Russia's lack of effort, it was arranged that the United States would force China to Stalin's will.

China was not represented at the San Francisco Conference and Soviet Russia was. That was done by an astonishing agreement to keep out Nationalist China, our ally, and Communist China, which was then at war with us. The two were put on a basis of equality.

The story, as I get it from the Far East, is that the Japanese cooked up a proposition that it would be troublesome if China were represented either by the Nationalists or the Communists, as that would raise questions extraneous to the peace treaty. Therefore, China should be omitted from San Francisco, but shortly after that treaty was signed with Japan, the Japanese were to enter into separate negotiations with Nationalist China and would negotiate a bilateral agreement with them.

This, Prime Minister Yoshida proposed to the British, who accepted it with alacrity. The British sold the proposal to the State Department, even John Foster Dulles accepting the formula, although it is impossible to believe that he could have thought it right or just. In fact, it is being stated in Formosa and Hongkong that Dulles had indicated that there was such a formula and that it would be carried through.

It has not been carried out in any manner. The Japanese have made no approaches to Formosa. They have, in no way, indicated that they will not make a separate treaty with Soviet China. On the contrary, there is evidence to show that as soon as Congress ratifies the Japanese treaty, the Japanese will push their trade in China, supplying manufactured goods to the Communists who are killing Americans. They are only waiting for the Senate to ratify the San Francisco treaty. After that, they are on their own.

Japan's immediate problem is twofold:

1. To get as much aid from the United States as is possible so that the Japanese can rehabilitate their industries and restore their commerce;

2. To revive, as extensively as possible, Japanese trade with the mainland of Asia, particularly with China which, before the troubles started, was Japan's principal market for the sale of manufactured goods, especially textiles, electrical equipment and chemicals.

As most of China is occupied by the Communists, the Japanese would prefer to deal with them, if they can regain that market. On the other hand, such dealings will strengthen America's enemy at a time when we are actually at war. The peril is that American aid will be used against the United States.

It would seem from the record that the entire business represents a first-class double-cross. Whether the twist was manufactured in Japan or in our own State Department, I do not know, but this is clear: Japan is showing no inclination to carry out her part of such a bargain as I described, and which many were given to believe was entered into.

The question is: Did Japan make a bargain with the State Department; did Yoshida make a bargain with John Foster Dulles or was this only loose talk? If no bargain was made, why did the United States agree that China should, in no manner, be represented at the San Francisco Conference? Was it to our advantage further to humilitate a great country? Who fooled whom and how was it arranged?

The smart way to discover this is to block senatorial ratification of the San Francisco treaty until the Japanese make a bilateral treaty with Formosa and until we have absolute assurances that Japan will not supply our enemies. Certainly the entire matter should be aired before Senator Tom Connally's committee, in public hearings, before ratification is recommended to the entire Senate. A fight in the Senate over this issue might embarrass both Japan and the State Department, but it would produce the facts of an intrigue against our country.

Slander In Investigations

Chairman King of the House subcommittee investigating the Internal Revenue Bureau notes that no testimony to date has shown that high government officials "in any way" participated in the attempted $500,000 shakedown alleged by Abraham Teitelbaum, Chicago attorney. "Lacking such testimony, we assume they did not."

General Services Administrator Larson, one of the government officials named, took the stand to deny any part in the affair and to warn that "hearsay testimony, if permitted to run wild, has every opportunity to ruin the character and reputation of every public official and every public employe in this town."

Charles Oliphant, also named in the testimony, said in resigning as chief counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue:

"The newspapers today carry headlines linking my name with that of other present and former federal officials in an alleged plot to extort fantastic sums through charges of tax irregularities. . . without inquiry of me, without a shred of credence to link my name to the alleged plot, the forum of a responsible congressional committee was made available for hurtling the sensational and irresponsible charges throughout the country."

Witnesses at congressional investigations are sworn, and hence the remedy of prosecution for perjury is available against the irresponsible. And rules of procedure of the King subcommittee adopted August 17 provide that persons named by witnesses shall have the right to cross-examine to a limited extent "by submitting questions in writing to the chairman." Also, persons who believe themselves to be injured by testimony may testify in rebuttal "with the consent of a majority of the subcommittee," or may submit for the record a sworn statement in rebuttal.

A concurrent resolution offered in the Senate last August by Senator Kefauver and 15 other senators would set up new rules of procedure for investigating committees of both houses. It provides that a person whose actions are under scrutiny shall: 1) be notified of the nature of charges against him and the material to be presented; 2) be given an opportunity to present evidence in his own behalf; 3) be allowed counsel who would have the right to question him within appropriate limits; 4) be permitted to file a limited number of questions to be answered by witnesses who have testified against him; 5) be permitted to file a rebuttal statement.

Bills similar to the Kefauver resolution were introduced in the 80th Congress by Representative Douglas (D., Calif.) and Holifield (D., Calif.) who had severely criticized procedure of the Un-American Activities Committee. These measures carried additional provisions that editors, publishers, and reporters should not be called before any committee of Congress "unless it is deemed essential by a fulltime committee," and that no such person should "be questioned concerning any publication by him, unless upon vote of a majority of the committee or subcommittee."

Dean Griswold of Harvard Law School has suggested that any person required to testify be given at least five minutes to deny imputations or charges which may have developed in connection with his testimony. And Federal Judge Wyzanski of Boston has said that "persons adversely criticized by a witness should have the right to file with the committee a limited number of written questions that, unless the committee directs otherwise by a majority vote, shall be answered in writing by the hostile witness."

Mr. Fleischmann may not have succeeded in quieting criticism and charges of discrimination by state and local officials clamoring for steel and other materials. His testimony revealed confusion in the allotment setup, but it also showed that the controllers can be forced to change their directives when there is sufficient public clamor.

Headache Pointers

When headache develops most of us are more interested in finding relief than the cause. This is reasonable and it hardly seems necessary to recommend an aspirin or two for this purpose. It is a matter of record that the reputation of this remedy and its close relatives has been built on its ability along this line.

This is ample advice for the person with an occasional headache but when the condition recurs regularly or tends to persist, the cause rather than the treatment becomes the important consideration. Most individuals think of the eyes, the sinuses, or constipation as the most likely culprits but statistics place these factors low on the list of offenders. Migraine and tension headaches are more common, at least among those who seek aid from the medical profession. Distress from head injury is the third most frequent origin, followed by that from tumors, high blood pressure, and sinusitis.

This variety of sources will explain why the physician does not order immediately a batch of laboratory tests and recommend a battery of consultants when the word headache is mentioned in his office. He wants to hear more about the complaint and encourages the patient to describe his difficulty in more detail. When does headache occur? Where? How often? What brings relief?

In addition, he determines under what circumstances headaches developed originally. Did they arise subsequent to injury or infection or prior to a nervous breakdown? Are they cyclic and, if so, does headache come on in periods of emotional stress and strain, overwork, or fatigue? This is a good pointer because the migraine and tension types often follow this pattern. Learning the time of day in which distress appears also is helpful. If eye trouble or anxiety is responsible, pain appears during the day as a rule.

Headaches brought on by high blood pressure, histamine, and sinus involvement are present on awakening. The site of discomfort offers many valuable clews. There is an old rule of thumb saying that when pain is most noticeable in the front part of the head the fault lies in the nose, throat, sinuses, eyes, or brain. When it is located over the back of the head or in the neck, the physician investigates emotional tension, muscular spasm, rheumatic conditions of the upper spine, or lesions at the base of the brain. Migraine generally is one-sided whereas when the forehead throbs or is tender the frontal sinuses may be at fault.

The physician rarely obtains much help from a description of the character and severity of the episode; some individuals feel pain more intensely than others. Furthermore, headache lends itself to lavish superlatives and exaggerations. "The throbbing is terrible," open any moment," "Unless you experience these bouts yourself you do not know how terrible they are," and "When my headaches come on I can't think, eat, sleep, or do anything until they pass" are typical statements by sufferers.

This kind of history taking is followed by examination and whatever laboratory studies are needed to reach a conclusion. A personality study is valuable because in the majority, headache is on a nervous basis. Many victims do not associate head pain with the tension under which they live but a large percentage are relieved when they reorganize their lives into a normal pattern.

Canada Withholds Aluminum From U. S.; Penny Postcard Bows Out On January 1; Two Young Men Solve Copper Shortage

WASHINGTON—It's a poor example of the good-neighbor policy, but Canada is deliberately withholding precious aluminum from the United States. This has already pinched the aluminum supply for home construction and other civilian uses. But far more serious the Air Force is not getting all the aluminum it needs to build jet fighters

Furthermore, part of the aluminum Canada is withholding from us was financed by American RFC loans during World War II.

What Canada has done is divert aluminum from the American to the British market. It won't be admitted, but the real reason for this diversion is to force this country to swap steel for aluminum, shipments to the United States.

For example, Canadian aluminum shipments to the United States dropped from 34,800,000 pounds per month last March and April to a meager 5,300,000 pounds per month today — a decrease of 85 per cent. In the same period, Canadian shipments to Britain have shot up from 21,100,000 pounds to 39,700,000 pounds per month—an increase of 88 per cent.

As proof that this is a cold-blooded squeeze-play, Canada has doubled its aluminum shipments to Australia, Brazil, Uruguay and even Argentina at the same time it strangled the aluminum flow to this country. In fact, the United States is the only major market that received less Canadian metal this year than last. As result, the United States is the only North Atlantic pact country that has been forced to clamp civilian controls on alumi num.

Canada Wins

Meanwhile, the Canadian squeeze has accomplished its purpose and forced the United States to swap American steel for British aluminum. Hard up for steel but overflowing with aluminum, Britain has agreed to divert 22,000,000 pounds of aluminum to American purchasers during the next five months. In return, Britain will be allocated 25,000 tons of fabricated American steel, 45,000 tons of steel ingots and another 28,500 tons of iron and steel scrap from the American zone of Germany. The joker in this deal is that the United States must return the aluminum after its own plants are expanded to make up the shortage, though Britain is allowed to keep the steel with no strings attached.

Another ironic fact is that Britain's contribution of 22,000,000 pounds of aluminum won't come from Britain at all, but will be shipped directly to us from Canada. In other words, this is the same aluminum that normally would have been shipped to the U. S. market anyway, but was withheld in order to force this country to kick in precious steel.

Ickes Predicted It

But here is the final ironic payoff. During the recent war, Jesse Jones, then czar of the RFC, advanced $68,500,000 without interest to the Aluminum Company of Canada (affiliated with the Aluminum Company of America) to build the shipsaw aluminum plant on the Saguenay River.

Jones also extended another $34,240,000 at three per cent interest, gave the Canadian plant an order for all its aluminum, and provided that if the order was cancelled before 1945, it would not be necessary for Canada to pay back the $68,500,000.

Harold Ickes, then secretary of the Interior, vigorously protested. He argued that the U.S.A. could not control Canadian aluminum, and that equipping a Canadian power project — Shasta Dam, Colorado-Big Thompson, parts of Grand Coulee, and others.

However, Jesse Jones had his way. Now Canada, withholding aluminum from us, is fulfilling Ickes' prediction.

End of Penny Postcard

There will be some nostalgic sighs at the Post Office Department when the latest casualty of inflation, the pennypost card, bows out on January 1.

For about 80 years, during which hellocopters have replaced horses and which have seen a 500-fold increase in the cost of government, Uncle Sam has been toting the popular, green-stamped postcards to all parts of the country-even to our troops overseas—for one penny.

Government subsidies helped, of course, but it is still a tribute to American rugged individualism that the penny postcard could survive so long. The postal was first issued in 1872 during the administration of President U. S. Grant. Later, in 1898, the same one-cent postage was authorized, the more elaborate picture card on which you place your own stamp.

One reason Congress boosted the postcard to two cents after January 1 was because big business has been exploiting the penny postal for advertising purposes. Actually only about 10 per cent of the 4,000,000,000 cards sold yearly in post offices are now used for personal correspondence.

To foil the advertisers Congress further provided a 10 per cent surcharge for postcards purchased in bulk lots of over 49.

But the Post Office Department doesn't think the new price will seriously affect sales. Even for two cents, the government postcard is still far and away the best mail bargain anywhere in the world.

Ike Wouldn't Be Converted

An off-the-record crack by George Allen, onetime White House jester, is proving good campaign ammunition for Eisenhower boosters who want to prove Ike is a Republican.

Sen. Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts, leader of the "I Wan't Ike" focres, and former Sen. Harry Darby of Kansas are repeating remarks Allen made before the National Industrial Conference Board at the Sea View Club near Atlantic City.

"I know General Eisenhower is a Republican," quipped Allen, "because, Lord knows, I've tried enough to convert him to be a Democrat. I didn't have a bit of luck."

Pension Systems

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Dec. 9—A new and very important development is taking place in the investment and labor world in connection with employes' pension systems. It is of utmost importance to every employer and every reader of this column. Pension systems may greatly improve labor relations, or can result in colossal trouble. At the present time they are not controlled by legislation and usually unsupervised by the corporations and wageworkers enjoying them.

What Is A Pension Plan?

There are various forms of pension plans and all should be "custom made" for each different corporation. Usually they provide for compulsory retirement at 65 years of age and optional retirement after 30 years of employment. Each wageworker receives a pension based upon his salary and number of years of service, less his Social Security pension. A full pension usually averages about $150 a month for wageworkers, and up to $600 a month for executives.

For a new corporation without any back obligations, this is a very simple matter. Even for old corporations it is simple to care for new employes and to make current appropriations for old employes. But, when it comes to providing the money to take care of the back years of old employes, this requires heavy appropriations. To encourage corporations to adopt these pension systems, the government allows (if definite rules are followed) the corporation to charge all such appropriations to expense. This means that Uncle Sam will pay about one-half of the bill. The corporation also can have the trustee purchase some of its own stocks, which may be very advantageous to all concerned.

Method Of Operation

The usual method of operation is to have a committee appointed—one member representing the stockholders, one member representing the wageworkers, and one member representing the executives. This committee selects a lawyer to draw up the proposed pension plan, an actuary to determine the annual payments (unless an insurance company is used), and a bank to receive the funds for investment. If the committee is wise, before any plan is adopted, it will first employ some impartial statistical organization to give independent advice in the interest of all parties.

Some pension plans are "contributory," in which case the wageworkers make a contribution, but in most cases the entire burden is carried by the corporation. After the above steps have been consummated, the work consists of an actuarial study each year to determine how much should be paid to the bank and how the bank invests the money. The payments to retiring employes are made by the bank.

Where Is The Dynamite?

The work of the trust departments of banks has heretofore been limited largely to handling family trust funds, serving as executors of wills, and operating agency accounts. In these cases only a few beneficiaries are involved. If the bank then makes a mistake, only two or three children may be affected. When, however, a bank is investing this money for 1,000 wageworkers, whose families are depending almost solely thereon in their old age, the situation is very different. All parties involved are sitting on a keg of dynamite! Hence, the greatest care should be taken.

Some banks want to invest all the money in government bonds, forgetting this policy was followed by the big banks of Germany where these pension plans started. As a result, the money was entirely wiped out with a total loss to everybody Other banks want to buy stocks now selling at an average of $270, forgetting that these stocks sold at only $42 in 1932 and may again. Other banks want to buy only corporation bonds, ignoring the continual decline in the value of the dollar, as do the life insurance companies. Finally, there are banks which follow all three policies under the "shotgun" theory. The correct procedure is for the committee, after employing outside independent advice, to consult with the bank about the policy, and inform the wageworkers quarterly thereon. This cannot be done by using an insurance company,

Matter Ot Fact

WASHINGTON.

"Harry S. Truman is Robert A. Taft's ace-in-the-hole." The coiner of this somewhat embittered aphorism was a leading supporter of General Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican nomination. He meant that as the President grows weaker in the country, Senator Taft's chances of gaining the Republican nomination improve proportionately.

The reason is simple. As the President weakens, the orthodox Republicans are correspondingly emboldened to ignore the strong hints, in the polls and elsewhere, that Senator Taft is not their party's most popular candidate. They look at the rather special result of the Ohio election last year. They listen to the oft-repeated story that President Truman only won in 1948 because of Governor Thomas E. Dewey's "me-too" campaign. And they drift happily toward the Taft camp.

This reporter has wholly retired from the business of predicting elections; and no one in his senses, at this early date, would even try to guess at the outcome of a Taft-Truman or a Taft-Vinson race. It is worth pointing out, however, that the famous "me-too" theory is just about as phony as any political theory can be. And the actual results in 1848 tell the story as clearly as any political story can be told.

What really happened in 1948 can be simply summarized. In most key states President Truman ran pretty far behind, and Governor Dewey ran rather far ahead, of their respective tickets. The spread was unusually wide in states where the local Republicans had waged campaigns of the orthodox, "Chicago Tribune"-tested sort. And the only Republican of any significance who ran well ahead of Dewey was far more of a me-too Republican than Dewey himself.

Still Worth Noting

In Illinois, for example, President Truman squeaked through by a majority of only 33,000. But Governor Adlai Stevenson beat Col. Robert R. McCormick's gubernatorial candidate, Dwight Green, by a gigantic majority of nearly 575,000, while Senator Paul Douglas trounced Curly Brooks by nearly 500,000 votes.

Both Governor Stevenson and Senator Douglas were to the left of President Truman if anything. No one, by the wildest stretch of the imagination, could say that Green and Douglas were even slightly stained with me-too tendencies. In Illinois, in fact, you could say that extreme weakness of a violently anti-me-too local ticket, which polled around half a million votes less than Dewey did.

In Ohio, again, President Truman squeaked through by the tiny majority of 17,000, while a Republican gubernatorial candidate of the Taft stripe was beaten by Frank Lausche by more than 320,000. There is no need to multiply these figures, which are broadly representative of the general tendency throughout the country in 1948. But the exception is still worth noting. In Kentucky, Truman beat Dewey by 125,000, but the extreme me-too Republican, Sherman Cooper, came within only 25,000 votes of snatching the senatorship from Virgil Chapman.

In plain language, the hard facts bely the whole me-too theory. There are some other hard facts that Republicans will also do well to bear in mind. In New York in 1948, for example, Dewey beat Truman by only 161,000 votes, while Henry A. Wallace polled well over 500,000, most of which would have gone to Truman with no Progressive candidate in the race. And in Pennsylvania, Dewey carried the state by only 250,000, with 55,000 going to the Progressives.

States Still Doubtful

This secondary group of facts suggests a further conclusion. The Republicans in 1948 not only lost a number of big, crucial states where they had strongly anti-me-too local candidates. They also came perilously close to losing other large and important states, even though their local tickets were comparatively strong. And precisely these states are still doubtful. If Senator Taft is nominated, his situation is sure to be far from easy in New York, where Governor Dewey's organization will hardly put forth a great effort for him. In Pennsylvania, meanwhile, the increasing decay of the Republican organization has just been dramatically disclosed by their loss of the ancient stronghold of Philadelphia.

Finaly, there is a probem of the South. Southern leaders like Governor James F. Byrnes and Senator Harry F. Byrd are widely quoted to the effect that General Eisenhower would carry four or five Southern states; but they rather regretfully predict that their people will never vote for Senator Taft. For the traditionally Democratic South, they say, "Mr. Republican" would be rather too much of a good thing.

These facts and figures may mean a lot or very little. If there are a few more tax scandals, Harry S. Truman could make as poor a showing against Senator Taft as "Jumping Joe" Ferguson made in Ohio last year. In short, the purpose of printing the facts and figures is only to set a much-misrepresented record relatively straight.

These Days

More Betrayal

When the nations met at San Francisco to sign the Japanese peace treaty, most Americans were shocked that China was not represented.

Nationalist China had been at war with Japan since September 18, 1931. From that day until December 7, 1941, China fought this battle unaided by anyone, occupying Japanese troops and Japan's energies. In World War II, China fought alongside of the United States up to V-J Day. Russia came into that war about one week before it was over and after it had been won. For China's heroic efforts, it was arranged at Yalta that Soviet Russia would get all the benefits; for Russia's lack of effort, it was arranged that the United States would force China to Stalin's will.

China was not represented at the San Francisco Conference and Soviet Russia was. That was done by an astonishing agreement to keep out Nationalist China, our ally, and Communist China, which was then at war with us. The two were put on a basis of equality.

The story, as I get it from the Far East, is that the Japanese cooked up a proposition that it would be troublesome if China were represented either by the Nationalists or the Communists, as that would raise questions extraneous to the peace treaty. Therefore, China should be omitted from San Francisco, but shortly after that treaty was signed with Japan, the Japanese were to enter into separate negotiations with Nationalist China and would negotiate a bilateral agreement with them.

This, Prime Minister Yoshida proposed to the British, who accepted it with alacrity. The British sold the proposal to the State Department, even John Foster Dulles accepting the formula, although it is impossible to believe that he could have thought it right or just. In fact, it is being stated in Formosa and Hongkong that Dulles had indicated that there was such a formula and that it would be carried through.

It has not been carried out in any manner. The Japanese have made no approaches to Formosa. They have, in no way, indicated that they will not make a separate treaty with Soviet China. On the contrary, there is evidence to show that as soon as Congress ratifies the Japanese treaty, the Japanese will push their trade in China, supplying manufactured goods to the Communists who are killing Americans. They are only waiting for the Senate to ratify the San Francisco treaty. After that, they are on their own.

Japan's immediate problem is twofold:

1. To get as much aid from the United States as is possible so that the Japanese can rehabilitate their industries and restore their commerce;

2. To revive, as extensively as possible, Japanese trade with the mainland of Asia, particularly with China which, before the troubles started, was Japan's principal market for the sale of manufactured goods, especially textiles, electrical equipment and chemicals.

As most of China is occupied by the Communists, the Japanese would prefer to deal with them, if they can regain that market. On the other hand, such dealings will strengthen America's enemy at a time when we are actually at war. The peril is that American aid will be used against the United States.

It would seem from the record that the entire business represents a first-class double-cross. Whether the twist was manufactured in Japan or in our own State Department, I do not know, but this is clear: Japan is showing no inclination to carry out her part of such a bargain as I described, and which many were given to believe was entered into.

The question is: Did Japan make a bargain with the State Department; did Yoshida make a bargain with John Foster Dulles or was this only loose talk? If no bargain was made, why did the United States agree that China should, in no manner, be represented at the San Francisco Conference? Was it to our advantage further to humilitate a great country? Who fooled whom and how was it arranged?

The smart way to discover this is to block senatorial ratification of the San Francisco treaty until the Japanese make a bilateral treaty with Formosa and until we have absolute assurances that Japan will not supply our enemies. Certainly the entire matter should be aired before Senator Tom Connally's committee, in public hearings, before ratification is recommended to the entire Senate. A fight in the Senate over this issue might embarrass both Japan and the State Department, but it would produce the facts of an intrigue against our country.

Slander In Investigations

Chairman King of the House subcommittee investigating the Internal Revenue Bureau notes that no testimony to date has shown that high government officials "in any way" participated in the attempted $500,000 shakedown alleged by Abraham Teitelbaum, Chicago attorney. "Lacking such testimony, we assume they did not."

General Services Administrator Larson, one of the government officials named, took the stand to deny any part in the affair and to warn that "hearsay testimony, if permitted to run wild, has every opportunity to ruin the character and reputation of every public official and every public employe in this town."

Charles Oliphant, also named in the testimony, said in resigning as chief counsel of the Bureau of Internal Revenue:

"The newspapers today carry headlines linking my name with that of other present and former federal officials in an alleged plot to extort fantastic sums through charges of tax irregularities. . . without inquiry of me, without a shred of credence to link my name to the alleged plot, the forum of a responsible congressional committee was made available for hurtling the sensational and irresponsible charges throughout the country."

Witnesses at congressional investigations are sworn, and hence the remedy of prosecution for perjury is available against the irresponsible. And rules of procedure of the King subcommittee adopted August 17 provide that persons named by witnesses shall have the right to cross-examine to a limited extent "by submitting questions in writing to the chairman." Also, persons who believe themselves to be injured by testimony may testify in rebuttal "with the consent of a majority of the subcommittee," or may submit for the record a sworn statement in rebuttal.

A concurrent resolution offered in the Senate last August by Senator Kefauver and 15 other senators would set up new rules of procedure for investigating committees of both houses. It provides that a person whose actions are under scrutiny shall: 1) be notified of the nature of charges against him and the material to be presented; 2) be given an opportunity to present evidence in his own behalf; 3) be allowed counsel who would have the right to question him within appropriate limits; 4) be permitted to file a limited number of questions to be answered by witnesses who have testified against him; 5) be permitted to file a rebuttal statement.

Bills similar to the Kefauver resolution were introduced in the 80th Congress by Representative Douglas (D., Calif.) and Holifield (D., Calif.) who had severely criticized procedure of the Un-American Activities Committee. These measures carried additional provisions that editors, publishers, and reporters should not be called before any committee of Congress "unless it is deemed essential by a fulltime committee," and that no such person should "be questioned concerning any publication by him, unless upon vote of a majority of the committee or subcommittee."

Dean Griswold of Harvard Law School has suggested that any person required to testify be given at least five minutes to deny imputations or charges which may have developed in connection with his testimony. And Federal Judge Wyzanski of Boston has said that "persons adversely criticized by a witness should have the right to file with the committee a limited number of written questions that, unless the committee directs otherwise by a majority vote, shall be answered in writing by the hostile witness."

Defense Allotments

It is apparent that in clearing the way for all-out defense production, government experts underestimated the nation's capacity to produce. The result has been to place a greater check on the flow of basic materials to civilian uses than was necessary, stirring wide protest. The experts offer the excuse that it is better to have erred in that direction than to have risked vital shortages in defense needs. But the error did feed the flames of inflation.

The Defense Production Administration now attempts to placate concern about the situation by conceding miscalculations and making some revisions. Promised are increased steel allotments for school and hospital construction, announced by Administrator Fleischmann to a joint congressional committee functioning as a production "watchdog." More steel for highway work is also in prospect, it has been hinted.

According to Mr. Fleischmann, supplemental steel grants will permit authorizations for 500 new schools as well as continuing 1,400 school projects under way, and will provide for all the hospitals in course of building and for 50 additional structures.

Mr. Fleischmann may not have succeeded in quieting criticism and charges of discrimination by state and local officials clamoring for steel and other materials. His testimony revealed confusion in the allotment setup, but it also showed that the controllers can be forced to change their directives when there is sufficient public clamor.

Lee At West Point

It was not until President Truman's administration that the United States returned to the separate Southern states the captured battle standards of the Confederate armies. It was not until then that the project was effected of restoring General Robert E. Lee's mansion at Arlington.

The process of sentimental reconciliation between North and South was one of gradual growth. Now it is announced a portrait of General Lee in his Confederate uniform will be hung at West Point.

General Lee was the eighth superintendent of West Point. That was in 1852. The new portrait will be unveiled on January 19, the 100th anniversary of his appointment as superintendent and the 145th anniversary of his birth.

There are two other portraits of Lee at West Point, neither in the Confederate uniform. The new portrait will hang in the main rotunda of the library, on the opposite side of a large window from a portrait of General Grant, general in chief of the Union forces.

As the gallant leader of a lost cause, Lee's life during and after the Civil War was filled with brooding sorrow, not because of his defeat but because it is certain that he mourned the fate that had torn his beloved land in half.

Canada Withholds Aluminum From U. S.; Penny Postcard Bows Out On January 1; Two Young Men Solve Copper Shortage

WASHINGTON—It's a poor example of the good-neighbor policy, but Canada is deliberately withholding precious aluminum from the United States. This has already pinched the aluminum supply for home construction and other civilian uses. But far more serious the Air Force is not getting all the aluminum it needs to build jet fighters

Furthermore, part of the aluminum Canada is withholding from us was financed by American RFC loans during World War II.

What Canada has done is divert aluminum from the American to the British market. It won't be admitted, but the real reason for this diversion is to force this country to swap steel for aluminum, shipments to the United States.

For example, Canadian aluminum shipments to the United States dropped from 34,800,000 pounds per month last March and April to a meager 5,300,000 pounds per month today — a decrease of 85 per cent. In the same period, Canadian shipments to Britain have shot up from 21,100,000 pounds to 39,700,000 pounds per month—an increase of 88 per cent.

As proof that this is a cold-blooded squeeze-play, Canada has doubled its aluminum shipments to Australia, Brazil, Uruguay and even Argentina at the same time it strangled the aluminum flow to this country. In fact, the United States is the only major market that received less Canadian metal this year than last. As result, the United States is the only North Atlantic pact country that has been forced to clamp civilian controls on alumi num.

Canada Wins

Meanwhile, the Canadian squeeze has accomplished its purpose and forced the United States to swap American steel for British aluminum. Hard up for steel but overflowing with aluminum, Britain has agreed to divert 22,000,000 pounds of aluminum to American purchasers during the next five months. In return, Britain will be allocated 25,000 tons of fabricated American steel, 45,000 tons of steel ingots and another 28,500 tons of iron and steel scrap from the American zone of Germany. The joker in this deal is that the United States must return the aluminum after its own plants are expanded to make up the shortage, though Britain is allowed to keep the steel with no strings attached.

Another ironic fact is that Britain's contribution of 22,000,000 pounds of aluminum won't come from Britain at all, but will be shipped directly to us from Canada. In other words, this is the same aluminum that normally would have been shipped to the U. S. market anyway, but was withheld in order to force this country to kick in precious steel.

Ickes Predicted It

But here is the final ironic payoff. During the recent war, Jesse Jones, then czar of the RFC, advanced $68,500,000 without interest to the Aluminum Company of Canada (affiliated with the Aluminum Company of America) to build the shipsaw aluminum plant on the Saguenay River.

Jones also extended another $34,240,000 at three per cent interest, gave the Canadian plant an order for all its aluminum, and provided that if the order was cancelled before 1945, it would not be necessary for Canada to pay back the $68,500,000.

Harold Ickes, then secretary of the Interior, vigorously protested. He argued that the U.S.A. could not control Canadian aluminum, and that equipping a Canadian power project — Shasta Dam, Colorado-Big Thompson, parts of Grand Coulee, and others.

However, Jesse Jones had his way. Now Canada, withholding aluminum from us, is fulfilling Ickes' prediction.

End of Penny Postcard

There will be some nostalgic sighs at the Post Office Department when the latest casualty of inflation, the pennypost card, bows out on January 1.

For about 80 years, during which heliocopters have replaced horses and which have seen a 500-fold increase in the cost of government, Uncle Sam has been toting the popular, green-stamped postcards to all parts of the country-even to our troops overseas—for one penny.

Government subsidies helped, of course, but it is still a tribute to American rugged individualism that the penny postcard could survive so long. The postal was first issued in 1872 during the administration of President U. S. Grant. Later, in 1898, the same one-cent postage was authorized, the more elaborate picture card on which you place your own stamp.

One reason Congress boosted the postcard to two cents after January 1 was because big business has been exploiting the penny postal for advertising purposes. Actually only about 10 per cent of the 4,000,000,000 cards sold yearly in post offices are now used for personal correspondence.

To foil the advertisers Congress further provided a 10 per cent surcharge for postcards purchased in bulk lots of over 49.

But the Post Office Department doesn't think the new price will seriously affect sales. Even for two cents, the government postcard is still far and away the best mail bargain anywhere in the world.

Ike Wouldn't Be Converted

An off-the-record crack by George Allen, onetime White House jester, is proving good campaign ammunition for Eisenhower boosters who want to prove Ike is a Republican.

Sen. Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts, leader of the "I Wan't Ike" focres, and former Sen. Harry Darby of Kansas are repeating remarks Allen made before the National Industrial Conference Board at the Sea View Club near Atlantic City.

"I know General Eisenhower is a Republican," quipped Allen, "because, Lord knows, I've tried enough to convert him to be a Democrat. I didn't have a bit of luck."

Pension Systems

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Dec. 9—A new and very important development is taking place in the investment and labor world in connection with employes' pension systems. It is of utmost importance to every employer and every reader of this column. Pension systems may greatly improve labor relations, or can result in colossal trouble. At the present time they are not controlled by legislation and usually unsupervised by the corporations and wage-workers enjoying them.

What Is A Pension Plan?

There are various forms of pension plans and all should be "custom made" for each different corporation. Usually they provide for compulsory retirement at 65 years of age and optional retirement after 30 years of employment. Each wageworker receives a pension based upon his salary and number of years of service, less his Social Security pension. A full pension usually averages about $150 a month for wageworkers, and up to $600 a month for executives.

For a new corporation without any back obligations, this is a very simple matter. Even for old corporations it is simple to care for new employes and to make current appropriations for old employes. But, when it comes to providing the money to take care of the back years of old employes, this requires heavy appropriations. To encourage corporations to adopt these pension systems, the government allows (if definite rules are followed) the corporation to charge all such appropriations to expense. This means that Uncle Sam will pay about one-half of the bill. The corporation also can have the trustee purchase some of its own stocks, which may be very advantageous to all concerned.

Method Of Operation

The usual method of operation is to have a committee appointed—one member representing the stockholders, one member representing the wageworkers, and one member representing the executives. This committee selects a lawyer to draw up the proposed pension plan, an actuary to determine the annual payments (unless an insurance company is used), and a bank to receive the funds for investment. If the committee is wise, before any plan is adopted, it will first employ some impartial statistical organization to give independent advice in the interest of all parties.

Some pension plans are "contributory," in which case the wageworkers make a contribution, but in most cases the entire burden is carried by the corporation. After the above steps have been consummated, the work consists of an actuarial study each year to determine how much should be paid to the bank and how the bank invests the money. The payments to retiring employes are made by the bank.

Where Is The Dynamite?

The work of the trust departments of banks has heretofore been limited largely to handling family trust funds, serving as executors of wills, and operating agency accounts. In these cases only a few beneficiaries are involved. If the bank then makes a mistake, only two or three children may be affected. When, however, a bank is investing this money for 1,000 wageworkers, whose families are depending almost solely thereon in their old age, the situation is very different. All parties involved are sitting on a keg of dynamite! Hence, the greatest care should be taken.

Some banks want to invest all the money in government bonds, forgetting this policy was followed by the big banks of Germany where these pension plans started. As a result, the money was entirely wiped out with a total loss to everybody Other banks want to buy stocks now selling at an average of $270, forgetting that these stocks sold at only $42 in 1932 and may again. Other banks want to buy only corporation bonds, ignoring the continual decline in the value of the dollar, as do the life insurance companies. Finally, there are banks which follow all three policies under the "shotgun" theory. The correct procedure is for the committee, after employing outside independent advice, to consult with the bank about the policy, and inform the wageworkers quarterly thereon. This cannot be done by using an insurance company,

Matter Of Fact

WASHINGTON.

"Harry S. Truman is Robert A. Taft's ace-in-the-hole." The coiner of this somewhat embittered aphorism was a leading supporter of General Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican nomination. He meant that as the President grows weaker in the country, Senator Taft's chances of gaining the Republican nomination improve proportionately.

The reason is simple. As the President weakens, the orthodox Republicans are correspondingly emboldened to ignore the strong hints, in the polls and elsewhere, that Senator Taft is not their party's most popular candidate. They look at the rather special result of the Ohio election last year. They listen to the oft-repeated story that President Truman only won in 1948 because of Governor Thomas E. Dewey's "me-too" campaign. And they drift happily toward the Taft camp.

This reporter has wholly retired from the business of predicting elections; and no one in his senses, at this early date, would even try to guess at the outcome of a Taft-Truman or a Taft-Vinson race. It is worth pointing out, however, that the famous "me-too" theory is just about as phony as any political theory can be. And the actual results in 1848 tell the story as clearly as any political story can be told.

What really happened in 1948 can be simply summarized. In most key states President Truman ran pretty far behind, and Governor Dewey ran rather far ahead, of their respective tickets. The spread was unusually wide in states where the local Republicans had waged campaigns of the orthodox, "Chicago Tribune"-tested sort. And the only Republican of any significance who ran well ahead of Dewey was far more of a me-too Republican than Dewey himself.

Still Worth Noting

In Illinois, for example, President Truman squeaked through by a majority of only 33,000. But Governor Adlai Stevenson beat Col. Robert R. McCormick's gubernatorial candidate, Dwight Green, by a gigantic majority of nearly 575,000, while Senator Paul Douglas trounced Curly Brooks by nearly 500,000 votes.

Both Governor Stevenson and Senator Douglas were to the left of President Truman if anything. No one, by the wildest stretch of the imagination, could say that Green and Douglas were even slightly stained with me-too tendencies. In Illinois, in fact, you could say that extreme weakness of a violently anti-me-too local ticket, which polled around half a million votes less than Dewey did.

In Ohio, again, President Truman squeaked through by the tiny majority of 17,000, while a Republican gubernatorial candidate of the Taft stripe was beaten by Frank Lausche by more than 320,000. There is no need to multiply these figures, which are broadly representative of the general tendency throughout the country in 1948. But the exception is still worth noting. In Kentucky, Truman beat Dewey by 125,000, but the extreme me-too Republican, Sherman Cooper, came within only 25,000 votes of snatching the senatorship from Virgil Chapman.

In plain language, the hard facts bely the whole me-too theory. There are some other hard facts that Republicans will also do well to bear in mind. In New York in 1948, for example, Dewey beat Truman by only 161,000 votes, while Henry A. Wallace polled well over 500,000, most of which would have gone to Truman with no Progressive candidate in the race. And in Pennsylvania, Dewey carried the state by only 250,000, with 55,000 going to the Progressives.

States Still Doubtful

This secondary group of facts suggests a further conclusion. The Republicans in 1948 not only lost a number of big, crucial states where they had strongly anti-me-too local candidates. They also came perilously close to losing other large and important states, even though their local tickets were comparatively strong. And precisely these states are still doubtful. If Senator Taft is nominated, his situation is sure to be far from easy in New York, where Governor Dewey's organization will hardly put forth a great effort for him. In Pennsylvania, meanwhile, the increasing decay of the Republican organization has just been dramatically disclosed by their loss of the ancient stronghold of Philadelphia.

Finaly, there is a probem of the South. Southern leaders like Governor James F. Byrnes and Senator Harry F. Byrd are widely quoted to the effect that General Eisenhower would carry four or five Southern states; but they rather regretfully predict that their people will never vote for Senator Taft. For the traditionally Democratic South, they say, "Mr. Republican" would be rather too much of a good thing.

These facts and figures may mean a lot or very little. If there are a few more tax scandals, Harry S. Truman could make as poor a showing against Senator Taft as "Jumping Joe" Ferguson made in Ohio last year. In short, the purpose of printing the facts and figures is only to set a much-misrepresented record relatively straight.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

More Betrayal

When the nations met at San Francisco to sign the Japanese peace treaty, most Americans were shocked that China was not represented.

Nationalist China had been at war with Japan since September 18, 1931. From that day until December 7, 1941, China fought this battle unaided by anyone, occupying Japanese troops and Japan's energies. In World War II, China fought alongside of the United States up to V-J Day. Russia came into that war about one week before it was over and after it had been won. For China's heroic efforts, it was arranged at Yalta that Soviet Russia would get all the benefits; for Russia's lack of effort, it was arranged that the United States would force China to Stalin's will.

China was not represented at the San Francisco Conference and Soviet Russia was. That was done by an astonishing agreement to keep out Nationalist China, our ally, and Communist China, which was then at war with us. The two were put on a basis of equality.

The story, as I get it from the Far East, is that the Japanese cooked up a proposition that it would be troublesome if China were represented either by the Nationalists or the Communists, as that would raise questions extraneous to the peace treaty. Therefore, China should be omitted from San Francisco, but shortly after that treaty was signed with Japan, the Japanese were to enter into separate negotiations with Nationalist China and would negotiate a bilateral agreement with them.

This, Prime Minister Yoshida proposed to the British, who accepted it with alacrity. The British sold the proposal to the State Department, even John Foster Dulles accepting the formula, although it is impossible to believe that he could have thought it right or just. In fact, it is being stated in Formosa and Hongkong that Dulles had indicated that there was such a formula and that it would be carried through.

It has not been carried out in any manner. The Japanese have made no approaches to Formosa. They have, in no way, indicated that they will not make a separate treaty with Soviet China. On the contrary, there is evidence to show that as soon as Congress ratifies the Japanese treaty, the Japanese will push their trade in China, supplying manufactured goods to the Communists who are killing Americans. They are only waiting for the Senate to ratify the San Francisco treaty. After that, they are on their own.

Japan's immediate problem is twofold:

1. To get as much aid from the United States as is possible so that the Japanese can rehabilitate their industries and restore their commerce;

2. To revive, as extensively as possible, Japanese trade with the mainland of Asia, particularly with China which, before the troubles started, was Japan's principal market for the sale of manufactured goods, especially textiles, electrical equipment and chemicals.

As most of China is occupied by the Communists, the Japanese would prefer to deal with them, if they can regain that market. On the other hand, such dealings will strengthen America's enemy at a time when we are actually at war. The peril is that American aid will be used against the United States.

It would seem from the record that the entire business represents a first-class double-cross. Whether the twist was manufactured in Japan or in our own State Department, I do not know, but this is clear: Japan is showing no inclination to carry out her part of such a bargain as I described, and which many were given to believe was entered into.

The question is: Did Japan make a bargain with the State Department; did Yoshida make a bargain with John Foster Dulles or was this only loose talk? If no bargain was made, why did the United States agree that China should, in no manner, be represented at the San Francisco Conference? Was it to our advantage further to humilitate a great country? Who fooled whom and how was it arranged?

The smart way to discover this is to block senatorial ratification of the San Francisco treaty until the Japanese make a bilateral treaty with Formosa and until we have absolute assurances that Japan will not supply our enemies. Certainly the entire matter should be aired before Senator Tom Connally's committee, in public hearings, before ratification is recommended to the entire Senate. A fight in the Senate over this issue might embarrass both Japan and the State Department, but it would produce the facts of an intrigue against our country.

Libel Suits Are Settled By Agreement

An agreement to settle the libel suits of John T. Fey, William H. Geppert and Noel Speir Cook against Playford Aldridge, president of Celanese Local 1874, TWUA, and The Times and Alleganian Company was announced Saturday following receipt of letters written by Aldridge regarding the three Allegany county members of the Maryland General Assembly to The Times and Alleganian Company.

Aldridge stated that he had written a letter, later published in The Cumberland Evening Times, in which he was critical of the actions of some members of the House of Delegates in the Maryland General Assembly, and that, since the time of publication, fuller consideration of their records led him to find that they had "supported much legislation that was sound and constructive, and which I can endorse;" that the record indicated that their attendance at sessions and committee meetings to which they had had been appointed was excellent and that the votes cast by them were what they sincerely believed to be in the public interest.

Stating that he had no intention of libeling the members of the legislature, Aldridge said his intention solely was to disagree with them in regard to some legislation.

"In my zeal to protect labor's welfare and interests, and placing credence upon some erroneous information, I have reflected unjustly and unfavorably upon them as legislators," Aldridge said. He stated that he sincerely regretted any embarrassment or damage to the newspapers.

The full text of Aldridge's letter concerning Fey follows:

"On March 22, 1949, I caused to be published in your newspaper a letter which severely criticized the actions of John T. Fey, Republican member of the House of Delegates in the Maryland General Assembly and which prompted a libel suit against you and me by Mr. Fey.

"Since the publication of that letter, I have had an opportunity to consider more fully the record of Mr. Fey in the Maryland Legislature during his terms of office and I find that he has supported much legislation that was sound and constructive and which I can endorse. The record indicates that he has never missed a session of the House; that he punctually attended all Committee meetings to which he was appointed, and his votes were cast for what he sincerely believed to be in the public interest.

"I find that some information which caused me to write the letter in question was erroneous. I did not intend to libel Mr. Fey in any way but solely intended to express disagreement with him in regard to some legislation. In my zeal to protect labor's welfare and interests and placing credence upon some erroneous information, I have reflected unjustly and unfavorably upon Mr. Fey as a legislator. I sincerely regret if I have caused him or you any embarrassment or damage."

25 City Traffic Accidents Listed During Last Month

Twenty-five traffic accidents last month in Cumberland resulted in injury to 12 persons, including six pedestrians, and caused damage estimated at $4,579.

There were no fatalities listed in a summary released by Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long.

During November, 1950, police investigated 28 mishaps in which 12 persons were injured. Victims included nine pedestrians and damage was set at $3,610.

The report shows five accidents occurred on Fridays, four each on Mondays, Tuesday and Thursdays three each on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and two on Sundays. A total of 39 vehicles were involved and results of the collision summary were:

Pedestrian accidents, five; other vehicles, 14; fixed object, five, and railroad train, one. A breakdown of districts reveals:

Section 1, Central Business District — six accidents, one injured; Section 2, North End—six mishaps, five hurt; Section 3, East Side—two accidents, one injured; Section 4, South End—eight mishaps, three hurt; Section 5, West Side—three accidents, two injured.

Parking or standing violations last month totaled 790 as compared to 813 in November, 1950. Also listed in the report were "courtesy meter," 634; state motor vehicle law arrests, 16; drunken driving, six, and Ordinance 1530 violations, 62.

Thirty-six speeders paid fines aggregating $265. Other motor violations netted $375 in fines.

Junior Civic Group To Aid Orchestra

The Junior Civic Women's Club will open a fund raising campaign starting January 2 for the benefit of the Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra, according to Mrs. Donald Smith, chairman of the club.

Various business firms and offices will be contacted by members of the club for donations. W. E. Capaldi, president of the orchestra, will head the solicitation for funds by members of the musical group.

Eventual enlargement of the orchestra and more public concerts are dependent on public support of the project, according to Mrs. Smith.

Reforestation Need Pointed Up By Italy Floods

By FRANK BRUTTO

ROME—(AP)—Italy's worst flood in centuries has taught Italian authorities a harsh lesson—the need for reforestation.

As the staggering toll of damage was tallied in the Po River disaster—which is expected to be vastly greater than the $60,000,000 loss in earlier Southern Italy floods—one factor stood out clearly:

Woodchopping that for the past 2,000 years has stripped the forests of what now is modern Italy was largely to blame.

The absence of trees makes it harder to hold rain in the soil, permits it to rush to the rivers, which overflow their banks and wreak havoc.

Loss of human life in the Po disaster has not yet been counted, but deaths of at least 100 persons were reported in the early stages of the flood three weeks ago. A final count awaits recession of water from the still flood first floors of thousands of houses when the toll is expected to reach 200—or more.

Agriculture Minister Amintore Fanfani's preliminary estimate of damage in the delta area showed these losses: 5,500 cows of a total of 60,000; 600 horses of 6,000; 8,000 swine of 35,000; 400,000 chickens of 500,000; 1,650 tons of grain; 110,230 tons of sugar; 20,000 plows; 700 tractors; and 2,000 rural plants and mills.

The flood struck some of Italy's best farmland, covering more than a quarter million acres of Rovigo Province and the delta area. Of these, 187,000 acres were sown.

Adria, the ancient Greek colony of Atria founded in 600 B.C. on the Po estuary and named for the Adriatic Sea, is now 14 miles inland as a result of the centuries-long spilling of soil in the Adriatic by the Po. It was among the hardest hit and nearly all of its 35,000 were among the estimated 280,000 that have had to be temporarily evacuated from the zone. Italian, French, British and American engineers were slowly restoring life to the "dead" city.

Thousands of workers are busily engaged in restoring dikes ripped by floodwaters and blasted with dynamite by engineers to relieve pressure on certain areas. Government officials said the work would be completed in 70 days, in time to meet the rush of spring rains.

Rovigo Province was a valuable bread basket to Italy. The weekly Mondo, economic journal, pointed out that in 1950 the province produced 130,000 tons of wheat 14,400 tons of rice; 12,000 tons of corn; 950,000 tons of sugar; and 230,000 tons of fodder.

One Italian weekly summing up the danger of deforestration said bluntly: "Who cuts trees destroys Italy." Denuding of the forests was also held responsible for the flood havoc a few weeks earlier in Southern Calabria and the islands of Sicily and Sardinia.

Two world wars speeded up Italy's deforestation. Cut off from normal coal imports, Italy chopped more wood from scanty forests that once supplied timber for Roman warships.

Roberto Tremelloni, former minister of industry and commerce—now a socialist deputy—said he would present a bill to the chamber asking for efficient protection against floods.

Communists tried to make political hay out of the disaster, accusing the government of negligence.

They sought to tie it in with the eighth council session of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, held in Rome while floodwaters raged in the north. In posters and leaflets, Communists declared, "everything for the flood victims: Nothing for armament."

But from a score of countries a great flood of money, food, medicines and other supplies poured into Italy for the flood victims. Red Cross associations of a score of countries sent goods.

From France and from Trieste hundreds of French, British and U. S. Army engineers pitched in with trucks and bulldozers to restore communications, build bridges, save people and livestock. The Americans alone were credited with having saved at least 300 persons.

As the NATO council here ended, the 11 nations—Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Ireland, Norway, Portugal, the United Kingdom, the United States—which with Italy make up NATO pledged to rebuild the 11 cities and towns that were most severely damaged by the flood.

Yule Pageant Set Thursday

The Sixth and Shop Grades of Pennsylvania Avenue School will present a pageant on the Christmas Story Thursday at 7:45 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Approximately 190 pupils will participate. The reader will be Marilyn Shapley and the shepherds are portrayed by King Carey, John Turley, Donald Appold, Ira Riley, Dale Oster, David Wallace, Ervin Shoup, Donald Benson and David Grapes.

Barbara Brown will recite "The Star." Mary and Joseph will be portrayed by Elearnor Leatherman and Joseph Rummer.

"O Holy Night" will be sung by Nancy Belt and Robert Harbaugh. The three wise men will be Paul Appel, John Cozad and James Diggs while angels will be portrayed by Sandra Beery, Judith Bosley, Wilhelmina Nelson, Regina Ogden, Barbara Gulick, Doris Appold, Elizabeth Brunner, Kathleen Rosley, Patty Wilson and Elma Evans.

Sixteen songs will be sung. The music is under the direction of Miss Grace Swanton while the pageant is being directed by Mrs. May J. Thomas. Costuming is being handled by Miss Mildred Beck, Miss Margaret King and Mrs. Elizabeth H. Lakin. Scenery is in charge of Calvin James and William Williams.

LaVale Firemen To Elect Tomorrow

The LaVale Volunteer Fire Company will hold its annual election of officers tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

Nominated at the last regular meeting were: Cromwell Zembower and L. B. Carter, president; James Beacham and Joseph Connelly, vice president; Eugene Kreissig, recording secretary; William Dressman, Henry Wintermeyer, James Schell and Kreissig, financial secretary.

Walter Alexander and Dressman, treasurer; Warren Livengood, chief; Herman Shank, assistant chief; Brace Krimm and Schell, sergeant-at-arms; Beacham, Kressig and Schell, trustee.

Other nominations will be accepted at a business meeting preceding the election. Refreshments will be served.

in the world today is copper. All sorts of defense projects are retarded because of it.

However, when a couple of young men called on defense mobilizers in Washington with a new invention by which the gvernment could save millions of pounds of copper, all they got was advice and the runaround.

The new invention is a bimetal combination of copper and steel, whereby a steel sheet can be perfectly lined with copper, thus saving tremendous amounts of copper, yet at the same time giving steel corrosion resistance.

During World War II, a group of civilian scientists organized a board in Washington to sort out new inventions and use them for the Army and Navy. Today, this board has been replaced with runarounders.

However, fed up with the government, William Ulmer, one of the inventors, is getting private business interested in Cleveland this week.

Ex-Editor Appoints Himself "Envoy" Of Highway Safety

Dick Whitney at wheel of car in which he carries safety message.

By RUTH MULVEY
Central Press Correspondent

VAN NUYS, Cal. — An ex-newspaper editor who considers auto accidents the "worst possible news," has become the United States ambassador of highway safety.

You may have seen him. If not, you probably will soon, for it is Dick Whitney's ambition to visit every community in the country with his "take care" message. By way of achievement, he has made two cross-country trips so far this year. In addition, he has traveled the length of the Pacific coast twice and has found time for two "side" trips from his home in Van Nuys, Cal., to the middle west and Reno.

In the past 15 years, Whitney has driven the equivalent of 15 round-the-world trips. Without a single accident, either, to mar the 375,000-mile record.

Whitney, now 61, appointed himself ambassador a couple of years ago. "I figured I had to make people aware of the fatality statistics," he explains it. Thirty-five years in city rooms of newspapers from St. Paul to Los Angeles had given him a wholesome respect for the statistics.

Mrs. Whitney okayed his plan and they took to the highways and byways. Much in the spirit of Johnny Appleseed, they wander about the country scattering seeds of safe driving.

Admonitions like — "Can You Stop in Time?" — adorn the Whitney car, giving motorists questions for thought. Whitney is ready to give a curbstone lecture at the drop of his journalistic-looking hat.

Recently, the Reno, Nev., police chief publicly estimated that the presence of Whitney and his brightly warning car had decreased traffic infractions in the gambling town by 25 per cent during his stay.

Mrs. Whitney, who does no back or front seat driving, has accepted as her responsibility to make the retirement money stretch to cover the life of an ambassador-at-large.

Whitney felt that the whole point of his crusade would be lost if he accepted any sponsorship.

For reasons of economy, home is where they find a suitable motel — which is one with cooking privileges, Mrs. Whitney explains. Most of their lunches are picnics and amusement is sightseeing.

Whitney can tell you about roads and drivers in any city and most of the smaller towns in the country. The "toughest stretch" of road in the United States lies between Baltimore and New York City, Whitney says.

Driving is at its lowest in New York, despite the efforts of the highly-commendable police department, he says. There, however, the pedestrians rather than the drivers are to blame. Another area Whitney holds in low esteem is New Orleans, which has the highest per capita taxicab rate in the country.

• — • — •

In all of his years of driving, Whitney has never been in an accident nor has he ever received a traffic citation. Chiefly responsible, he says, is his speed, which has never exceeded 50 miles an hour. The other 10 factors which he feels will keep you safe are:

1—Always observe all traffic regulations.

4—Always be wide awake at the steering wheel.

5—Always keep your mind on the importance of driving—be alert at all times.

6—Always keep your windows clean, especially in damp or foggy country.

7—Always give the car in back of you clear signals and in plenty of time for your next move.

8—Always keep your car and equipment, including your brakes, in perfect operating condition.

Housing Authority Seeks Refrigerators

The bids are to be in the office of the Housing Authority in the Clark-Keating Building by 3 p. m. Tuesday, December 18, according to James B. Raines, executive director, when they will be opened.

Raines reported that construction work on the $1,500,000 housing project is progressing rapidly with all of the buildings under roof.

Local Girl Will Star In Play

Miss Helen Colleen Burke, 12 Fifth Street, will play a leading role in the West Virginia Wesleyan College Playshop production of the drama, "The Servant In the House", December 19.

Miss Burke, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Burke, was graduated from Fort Hill High School. At Wesleyan she is president of Beta Sigma Chapter of Alpha Xi Delta Sorority, president of Panhellenic, and is active in Alpha Psi Omega, Delta Psi Kappa, Pi Kappa Delta and Woman's Athletic Association.

The per capita consumption of lamb and mutton in the United States is approximately seven pounds a year.

Libel Suits Are Settled By Agreement

An agreement to settle the libel suits of John T. Fey, William H. Geppert and Noel Speir Cook against Playford Aldridge, president of Celanese Local 1874, TWUA, and The Times and Alleganian Company was announced Saturday following receipt of letters written by Aldridge regarding the three Allegany county members of the Maryland General Assembly to The Times and Alleganian Company.

Aldridge stated that he had written a letter, later published in The Cumberland Evening Times, in which he was critical of the actions of some members of the House of Delegates in the Maryland General Assembly, and that, since the time of publication, fuller consideration of their records led him to find that they had "supported much legislation that was sound and constructive, and which I can endorse;" that the record indicated that their attendance at sessions and committee meetings to which they had been appointed was excellent and that the votes cast by them were what they sincerely believed to be in the public interest.

Stating that he had no intention of libeling the members of the legislature, Aldridge said his intention solely was to disagree with them in regard to some legislation.

"In my zeal to protect labor's welfare and interests, and placing credence upon some erroneous information, I have reflected unjustly and unfavorably upon them as legislators," Aldridge said. He stated that he sincerely regretted any embarrassment or damage to the newspapers.

The full text of Aldridge's letter concerning Fey follows:

"On March 22, 1949, I caused to be published in your newspaper a letter which severely criticized the actions of John T. Fey, Republican member of the House of Delegates in the Maryland General Assembly and which prompted a libel suit against you and me by Mr. Fey.

"Since the publication of that letter, I have had an opportunity to consider more fully the record of Mr. Fey in the Maryland Legislature during his terms of office and I find that he has supported much legislation that was sound and constructive and which I can endorse. The record indicates that he has never missed a session of the House; that he punctually attended all Committee meetings to which he was appointed, and his votes were cast for what he sincerely believed to be in the public interest.

"I find that some information which caused me to write the letter in question was erroneous. I did not intend to libel Mr. Fey in any way but solely intended to express disagreement with him in regard to some legislation. In my zeal to protect labor's welfare and interests and placing credence upon some erroneous information, I have reflected unjustly and unfavorably upon Mr. Fey as a legislator. I sincerely regret if I have caused him or you any embarrassment or damage."

25 City Traffic Accidents Listed During Last Month

Twenty-five traffic accidents last month in Cumberland resulted in injury to 12 persons, including six pedestrians, and caused damage estimated at $4,579.

There were no fatalities listed in a summary released by Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long.

During November, 1950, police investigated 28 mishaps in which 12 persons were injured. Victims included nine pedestrians and damage was set at $3,610.

The report shows five accidents occurred on Fridays, four each on Mondays, Tuesday and Thursdays three each on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and two on Sundays. A total of 39 vehicles were involved and results of the collision summary were:

Pedestrian accidents, five; other vehicles, 14; fixed object, five, and railroad train, one. A breakdown of districts reveals:

Section 1, Central Business District — six accidents, one injured; Section 2, North End—six mishaps, five hurt; Section 3, East Side—two accidents, one injured; Section 4, South End—eight mishaps, three hurt; Section 5, West Side—three accidents, two injured.

Parking or standing violations last month totaled 790 as compared to 813 in November, 1950. Also listed in the report were "courtesy meter," 634; state motor vehicle law arrests, 16; drunken driving, six, and Ordinance 1530 violations, 62.

Thirty-six speeders paid fines aggregating $265. Other motor violations netted $375 in fines.

Reforestation Need Pointed Up By Italy Floods

By FRANK BRUTTO

ROME—(AP)—Italy's worst flood in centuries has taught Italian authorities a harsh lesson—the need for reforestation.

As the staggering toll of damage was tallied in the Po River disaster—which is expected to be vastly greater than the $60,000,000 loss in earlier Southern Italy floods—one factor stood out clearly:

Woodchopping that for the past 2,000 years has stripped the forests of what now is modern Italy was largely to blame.

The absence of trees makes it harder to hold rain in the soil, permits it to rush to the rivers, which overflow their banks and wreak havoc.

Loss of human life in the Po disaster has not yet been counted, but deaths of at least 100 persons were reported in the early stages of the flood three weeks ago. A final count awaits recession of water from the still flood first floors of thousands of houses when the toll is expected to reach 200—or more.

Agriculture Minister Amintore Fanfani's preliminary estimate of damage in the delta area showed these losses: 5,500 cows of a total of 60,000; 600 horses of 6,000; 8,000 swine of 35,000; 400,000 chickens of 500,000; 1,650 tons of grain; 110,230 tons of sugar; 20,000 plows; 700 tractors; and 2,000 rural plants and mills.

The flood struck some of Italy's best farmland, covering more than a quarter million acres of Rovigo Province and the delta area. Of these, 187,000 acres were sown.

Adria, the ancient Greek colony of Atria founded in 600 B.C. on the Po estuary and named for the Adriatic Sea, is now 14 miles inland as a result of the centuries-long spilling of soil in the Adriatic by the Po. It was among the hardest hit and nearly all of its 35,000 were among the estimated 280,000 that have had to be temporarily evacuated from the zone. Italian, French, British and American engineers were slowly restoring life to the "dead" city.

Thousands of workers are busily engaged in restoring dikes ripped by floodwaters and blasted with dynamite by engineers to relieve pressure on certain areas. Government officials said the work would be completed in 70 days, in time to meet the rush of spring rains.

Rovigo Province was a valuable bread basket to Italy. The weekly Mondo, economic journal, pointed out that in 1950 the province produced 130,000 tons of wheat 14,400 tons of rice; 12,000 tons of corn; 950,000 tons of sugar; and 230,000 tons of fodder.

One Italian weekly summing up the danger of deforestration said bluntly: "Who cuts trees destroys Italy." Denuding of the forests was also held responsible for the flood havoc a few weeks earlier in Southern Calabria and the islands of Sicily and Sardinia.

Two world wars speeded up Italy's deforestation. Cut off from normal coal imports, Italy chopped more wood from scanty forests that once supplied timber for Roman warships.

Roberto Tremelloni, former minister of industry and commerce—now a socialist deputy—said he would present a bill to the chamber asking for efficient protection against floods.

Communists tried to make political hay out of the disaster, accusing the government of negligence.

They sought to tie it in with the eighth council session of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, held in Rome while floodwaters raged in the north. In posters and leaflets, Communists declared, "everything for the flood victims: Nothing for armament."

But from a score of countries a great flood of money, food, medicines and other supplies poured into Italy for the flood victims. Red Cross associations of a score of countries sent goods.

From France and from Trieste hundreds of French, British and U. S. Army engineers pitched in with trucks and bulldozers to restore communications, build bridges, save people and livestock. The Americans alone were credited with having saved at least 300 persons.

As the NATO council here ended, the 11 nations—Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Ireland, Norway, Portugal, the United Kingdom, the United States—which with Italy make up NATO pledged to rebuild the 11 cities and towns that were most severely damaged by the flood.

in the world today is copper. All sorts of defense projects are retarded because of it.

However, when a couple of young men called on defense mobilizers in Washington with a new invention by which the gvernment could save millions of pounds of copper, all they got was advice and the runaround.

The new invention is a bimetal combination of copper and steel, whereby a steel sheet can be perfectly lined with copper, thus saving tremendous amounts of copper, yet at the same time giving steel corrosion resistance.

During World War II, a group of civilian scientists organized a board in Washington to sort out new inventions and use them for the Army and Navy. Today, this board has been replaced with runarounders.

Ex-Editor Appoints Himself "Envoy" Of Highway Safety

Dick Whitney at wheel of car in which he carries safety message.

By RUTH MULVEY
Central Press Correspondent

VAN NUYS, Cal. — An ex-newspaper editor who considers auto accidents the "worst possible news," has become the United States ambassador of highway safety.

You may have seen him. If not, you probably will soon, for it is Dick Whitney's ambition to visit every community in the country with his "take care" message. By way of achievement, he has made two cross-country trips so far this year. In addition, he has traveled the length of the Pacific coast twice and has found time for two "side" trips from his home in Van Nuys, Cal., to the middle west and Reno.

In the past 15 years, Whitney has driven the equivalent of 15 round-the-world trips. Without a single accident, either, to mar the 375,000-mile record.

Whitney, now 61, appointed himself ambassador a couple of years ago. "I figured I had to make people aware of the fatality statistics," he explains it. Thirty-five years in city rooms of newspapers from St. Paul to Los Angeles had given him a wholesome respect for the statistics.

Mrs. Whitney okayed his plan and they took to the highways and byways. Much in the spirit of Johnny Appleseed, they wander about the country scattering seeds of safe driving.

Admonitions like — "Can You Stop in Time?" — adorn the Whitney car, giving motorists questions for thought. Whitney is ready to give a curbstone lecture at the drop of his journalistic-looking hat.

Recently, the Reno, Nev., police chief publicly estimated that the presence of Whitney and his brightly warning car had decreased traffic infractions in the gambling town by 25 per cent during his stay.

Mrs. Whitney, who does no back or front seat driving, has accepted as her responsibility to make the retirement money stretch to cover the life of an ambassador-at-large.

Whitney felt that the whole point of his crusade would be lost if he accepted any sponsorship.

For reasons of economy, home is where they find a suitable motel — which is one with cooking privileges, Mrs. Whitney explains. Most of their lunches are picnics and amusement is sightseeing.

Whitney can tell you about roads and drivers in any city and most of the smaller towns in the country. The "toughest stretch" of road in the United States lies between Baltimore and New York City, Whitney says.

Driving is at its lowest in New York, despite the efforts of the highly-commendable police department, he says. There, however, the pedestrians rather than the drivers are to blame. Another area Whitney holds in low esteem is New Orleans, which has the highest per capita taxicab rate in the country.

In all of his years of driving, Whitney has never been in an accident nor has he ever received a traffic citation. Chiefly responsible, he says, is his speed, which has never exceeded 50 miles an hour. The other 10 factors which he feels will keep you safe are:

2—Always be courteous when driving.

5—Always keep your mind on the importance of driving—be alert at all times.

A final count awaits recession of water from the still flood first floors of thousands of houses when the toll is expected to reach 200—or more.

Agriculture Minister Amintore Fanfani's preliminary estimate of damage in the delta area showed these losses: 5,500 cows of a total of 60,000; 600 horses of 6,000; 8,000 swine of 35,000; 400,000 chickens of 500,000; 1,650 tons of grain; 110,230 tons of sugar; 20,000 plows; 700 tractors; and 2,000 rural plants and mills.

Approximately 190 pupils will participate. The reader will be Marilyn Shapley and the shepherds are portrayed by King Carey, John Turley, Donald Appold, Ira Riley, Dale Oster, David Wallace, Ervin Shoup, Donald Benson and David Grapes.

Barbara Brown will recite "The Star." Mary and Joseph will be portrayed by Elearnor Leatherman and Joseph Rummer.

"O Holy Night" will be sung by Nancy Belt and Robert Harbaugh. The three wise men will be Paul Appel, John Cozad and James Diggs while angels will be portrayed by Sandra Beery, Judith Bosley, Wilhelmina Nelson, Regina Ogden, Barbara Gulick, Doris Appold, Elizabeth Brunner, Kathleen Rosley, Patty Wilson and Elma Evans.

Sixteen songs will be sung. The music is under the direction of Miss Grace Swanton while the pageant is being directed by Mrs. May J. Thomas. Costuming is being handled by Miss Mildred Beck, Miss Margaret King and Mrs. Elizabeth H. Lakin. Scenery is in charge of Calvin James and William Williams.

LaVale Firemen To Elect Tomorrow

The LaVale Volunteer Fire Company will hold its annual election of officers tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

Nominated at the last regular meeting were: Cromwell Zembower and L. B. Carter, president; James Beacham and Joseph Connelly, vice president; Eugene Kreissig, recording secretary; William Dressman, Henry Wintermeyer, James Schell and Kreissig, financial secretary.

Walter Alexander and Dressman, treasurer; Warren Livengood, chief; Herman Shank, assistant chief; Brace Krimm and Schell, sergeant-at-arms; Beacham, Kressig and Schell, trustee.

Other nominations will be accepted at a business meeting preceding the election. Refreshments will be served.

in the world today is copper. All sorts of defense projects are retarded because of it.

However, when a couple of young men called on defense mobilizers in Washington with a new invention by which the gvernment could save millions of pounds of copper, all they got was advice and the runaround.

The new invention is a bimetal combination of copper and steel, whereby a steel sheet can be perfectly lined with copper, thus saving tremendous amounts of copper, yet at the same time giving steel corrosion resistance.

During World War II, a group of civilian scientists organized a board in Washington to sort out new inventions and use them for the Army and Navy. Today, this board has been replaced with runarounders.

Ex-Editor Appoints Himself "Envoy" Of Highway Safety

Dick Whitney at wheel of car in which he carries safety message.

By RUTH MULVEY
Central Press Correspondent

VAN NUYS, Cal. — An ex-newspaper editor who considers auto accidents the "worst possible news," has become the United States ambassador of highway safety.

You may have seen him. If not, you probably will soon, for it is Dick Whitney's ambition to visit every community in the country with his "take care" message. By way of achievement, he has made two cross-country trips so far this year. In addition, he has traveled the length of the Pacific coast twice and has found time for two "side" trips from his home in Van Nuys, Cal., to the middle west and Reno.

In the past 15 years, Whitney has driven the equivalent of 15 round-the-world trips. Without a single accident, either, to mar the 375,000-mile record.

Whitney, now 61, appointed himself ambassador a couple of years ago. "I figured I had to make people aware of the fatality statistics," he explains it. Thirty-five years in city rooms of newspapers from St. Paul to Los Angeles had given him a wholesome respect for the statistics.

Mrs. Whitney okayed his plan and they took to the highways and byways. Much in the spirit of Johnny Appleseed, they wander about the country scattering seeds of safe driving.

Admonitions like — "Can You Stop in Time?" — adorn the Whitney car, giving motorists questions for thought. Whitney is ready to give a curbstone lecture at the drop of his journalistic-looking hat.

Recently, the Reno, Nev., police chief publicly estimated that the presence of Whitney and his brightly warning car had decreased traffic infractions in the gambling town by 25 per cent during his stay.

Mrs. Whitney, who does no back or front seat driving, has accepted as her responsibility to make the retirement money stretch to cover the life of an ambassador-at-large.

Whitney felt that the whole point of his crusade would be lost if he accepted any sponsorship.

For reasons of economy, home is where they find a suitable motel — which is one with cooking privileges, Mrs. Whitney explains. Most of their lunches are picnics and amusement is sightseeing.

Whitney can tell you about roads and drivers in any city and most of the smaller towns in the country. The "toughest stretch" of road in the United States lies between Baltimore and New York City, Whitney says.

Driving is at its lowest in New York, despite the efforts of the highly-commendable police department, he says. There, however, the pedestrians rather than the drivers are to blame. Another area Whitney holds in low esteem is New Orleans, which has the highest per capita taxicab rate in the country.

• — • — •

In all of his years of driving, Whitney has never been in an accident nor has he ever received a traffic citation. Chiefly responsible, he says, is his speed, which has never exceeded 50 miles an hour. The other 10 factors which he feels will keep you safe are:

1—Always observe all traffic regulations.

2—Always be courteous when driving.

4—Always be wide awake at the steering wheel.

5—Always keep your mind on the importance of driving—be alert at all times.

6—Always keep your windows clean, especially in damp or foggy country.

7—Always give the car in back of you clear signals and in plenty of time for your next move.

8—Always keep your car and equipment, including your brakes, in perfect operating condition.

Housing Authority Seeks Refrigerators

The bids are to be in the office of the Housing Authority in the Clark-Keating Building by 3 p. m. Tuesday, December 18, according to James B. Raines, executive director, when they will be opened.

Raines reported that construction work on the $1,500,000 housing project is progressing rapidly with all of the buildings under roof.

Local Girl Will Star In Play

Miss Helen Colleen Burke, 12 Fifth Street, will play a leading role in the West Virginia Wesleyan College Playshop production of the drama, "The Servant In the House", December 19.

Miss Burke, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Burke, was graduated from Fort Hill High School. At Wesleyan she is president of Beta Sigma Chapter of Alpha Xi Delta Sorority, president of Panhellenic, and is active in Alpha Psi Omega, Delta Psi Kappa, Pi Kappa Delta and Woman's Athletic Association.

The per capita consumption of lamb and mutton in the United States is approximately seven pounds a year.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9 (INS)—Everything considered — there's a bit of irony in the title of Ava Gardner's first movie after she returns from Europe, "Why Should I Cry?" Well, she might have cause for tears if the Nevada courts decide there's been "fraud" in connection with her marriage to Frank you-know-who.

Ava Gardner

Ava's private life is always headline news but let me tell you about the "Cry" assignment: It's one of the trilogy of love stories Producer Sidney Franklin is putting together in "Three Love Stories" at MGM.

Leslie Caron stars in one of the episodes, "Mademoiselle," with every string being pulled to bet Farley Granger opposite her. Farl told me he wants to do it, too.

Pier Angeli is the heroine of the third story.

Each episode will have a different director. Vincente Minelli and Gottfried Reinhardt are already sighed with another to be selected.

The waif finally has a name. Rita Hayworth's comeback picture, which has been nameless, will be called "An Affair In Trinidad." The background is Trinidad, and Vincent Sherman, her director, flew there to bring back some supporting players for the redhead and her co-star, Glenn Ford.

It's now definite that Valerie Bettis, who came to Hollywood to do the choremography, will also play a role in "Trinidad." Harry Cohn is also testing Valerie on Tuesday for the heavy in "Salome." The lady is a beautiful dancer, she's photogenic, and she has what's called sex appeal. What more could a lady have—except money.

There's still no word from France on whether or not Errol Flynn gets five-year-old Romaine McEvoy. He's waiting impatiently, and just as impatient is his wife, Patrice Wymore.

"I'll be her adopted mother," said Pat, "and I'm hoping Romaine will get here before I have to start at Warners in 'Man With A Gun' with Randolph Scott."

"Man With A Gun" is an historical drama of Los Angeles during the days of 1850.

Errol has been fit to be tied waiting for his lawyer to give him the good word that the child is on her way to America.

As soon as Nancy Valentine arrives in this country she'll file suit for divorce against the Maharajah of Cooch-Behar. It wasn't only the Indian government's refusal to allow her to have a title so that she could have a second marriage to Cooch-Behar that decided the American girl against going through with the marriage. There were many other things.

Nancy writes that every piece of mail she received or sent out was opened and read. She says cows wandered into the lobby of the hotel where she was staying, and one morning she found a buzzard in her room, which frightened her enough to make her think it might be an omen.

Mary Pickford, ten pounds slimmer and looking as she hasn't looked in years, has chosen Irving Reis as the director of "The Library," which gets going the last week in March.

Mary has an appointment with Stanley Kramer on Monday to discuss cast and to arrange for tests, which will not, however, be made until after the first of the year.

It will be nice to have Mary and Buddy back at Pickfair this Christmas. It's such a wonderful house for Christmas, and it doesn't seem right when Mary isn't there.

Celanese Workers Get Service Awards

Two employes of the Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation were awarded gold watches Saturday by Plant Manager Harrison C. Givens, Jr., upon their completion of more than a quarter century of employment.

They were John W. Harclerode of Midland, and Leo D. Darr, 621 Oldtown Road.

Darr has worked in the Acetone Recovery Department the entire 25-year period, since December 8, 1926, and has been a charge hand since 1936.

Bibby Named Head Of Arthritis Drive

G. William Bibby has been named Allegany County chairman for the annual fund drive of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

This year's campaign in Maryland is being sponsored by the American Legion. Bibby, a member of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, will announce his committee within a week or two.

Clarence W. Miles, Baltimore, president of the Maryland Chapter, has informed William C. Walsh, president of the county chapter, that Maryland plans to set up clinics for arthritis in all the 23 counties of the state. The Maryland goal is $50,000. Contributions may be sent to Mr. Bibby or addressed to Arthritis, care of Postmaster, Cumberland.

Auditors To Hear Smoke Engineer

George M. Hitchcock, Smoke Abatement Engineer for Cumberland, will speak at the December dinner meeting of the Cumberland Conference, National Association of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers, at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club at 6:30 p. m., Wednesday.

Mr. Hitchcock will explain the operation of the smoke ordinance.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Cornering ex-Powers Girls who have gone on adding to their laurels is one of my pleasantest duties. My latest catch was Robin Chandler. As one Powers Girl said of her, "When Robin Chandler comes on the television screen, charm comes into the living room. Her "Cover Girl" show is one I try never to miss!"

Most Valuable Asset

When I asked Robin what she'd found to be the most valuable of all charm assets, without hesitation she answered, "Naturalness!"

"Sounds lkie the easiest thing a woman might have to strive for, but since I know it isn't, how about elucidating a bit?" I urged.

"Actually it isn't easy," said Robin. "Naturalness is the basis of all personality and individuality. You have to guard constantly against overplaying or underplaying yourself or what happens to your personality. It's lost!

"It can slip away quickly, instantly, if you unconsciously let yourself ape the appearance of an idol . . . or parrot the opinions of someone else . . . or copy the mannerisms of the crowd.

"If a woman discovers that she is doing any of those things, her naturalness is gone. She's walking in another's shoes and she'll never be able to make anybody believe that they fit. They'll cramp her personality and leave blisters on her charm."

"Every Cinderella must fashion her own slipper," I agreed.

"Yes," continued Robin, "And tailor her appearance to suit her size, her coloring, age, life, and temperament. Her ideas have to be the product of her own heart and head work, too!"

Potent Appeal

"You pack a powerful lot of meaning into that one word, naturalness," I said admiringly. "Most girls think naturalness means letting yourself go, or veneering over what you've let go."

"If this were so, it wouldn't be such a scarce commodity and there would be far more popular people," laughed Robin. "I know of no other quality that holds the liking and trust of others as much as naturalness. I guess it is so open-faced."

"Well, whatever it is," I replied, "it's something you've got aplenty. Just hold onto it and your charm will go on increasing all of your life!"

"Thank you, sir! That's enough for any woman ever to wish for!" Robin replied.

Tomorrow: Danger ahead!

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

For Men Only

The big Fifth Avenue department stores are beginning to recognize the rights of men, especially at this time of the year when the pocketbook nerve is not so sensitive. Many of them are establishing separate caches where the male can do his Christmas shopping without customers of the other sex pushing him around. To facilitate things experts are assigned to help him, and usually these are picked for their pulchritude.

John Wheeler

About a week ago, I became a member of the Stag Club organized by Bernard and Adam Gimbel, the big New York merchants, receiving a certificate to testify to my good standing, for I got in without being blackballed. The first meeting was held from 5:30 to 7 the other afternoon, as a warmup. There are no greens fees, and card carriers have the privilege of patronizing the place and charging their purchases. These psychological factors loosen up the elastic on the bankroll.

It was nice to be included for the top characters of the city drove up to the limousine entrance, and the gathering included business leaders, soldiers like Generals Jimmy Doolittle and John Reed Kilpatrick, lawyers, bankers, and sports of the town. Nothing was for sale, although models weaved gracefully through the crowd showing the wares while the guests sipped their drinks and pretended not to notice. It was all on the house. Upon inquiry, I found out if you bought lingerie or one of the dresses or a fur coat, the lady inside did not come with it.

Standing in a knot of three or four, it was natural we got to talking politics and as to be expected the names of General Eisenhower and Senator Taft came up. Of course, it is a little hard to concentrate on the next President of the United States when a slender girl brushes by you in a filmy nighgown, even though she wears something underneath, but the boys turned their blind eyes and plunged ahead with the discussion. Bernard Gimbel joined us and made an astute remark.

"I want to tell you something," he said. "You're not going to elect Eisenhower in the Twenty-nine or Blind Brook clubs. There is not a single delegate in either one." These are two exclusive and stylish hangouts. What he meant was someone had to get out and hustle which seems sound.

Each member received a souvenir tied up in red ribbon. I opened my box before Christmas when I got home and found it contained cuff buttons and two kinds of perfume called "Here's How" and "Five O'Clock." I am afraid to try these. I might get to like the cologne and couldn't afford it.

A friend, who recently returned from London, told me a story which is going the rounds there and is new as far as I am concerned. Sarah Churchill, daughter of the current Prime Minister, was married to an actor and band leader named Vic Oliver. Just after the war by way of flattering his father-in-law, Oliver asked him with a dead pan one day,

"Who do you think is the greatest statesman of this period?"

Without hesitating or changing expression, Mr. Churchill replied,

Flood Control Bids Due December 18

Contractors have until December 18 to submit their bids for the third phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project, according to Albert Donaldson, area engineer for the Corps of Army Engineers.

The third of four phases provides for dredging Wills Creek and paving its banks and bed. Congress has appropriated $1,000,000 for this work.

The job will extend from the Narrows bridge to the Western Maryland Railway bridge at North Mechanic and North Centre streets.

Other major projects in the five-year $15,000,000 program include construction of a pump house to control the storm sewer system, removal of the Potomac River Dam and construction of a new dam at Riverside Park.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9 (INS)—Everything considered — there's a bit of irony in the title of Ava Gardner's first movie after she returns from Europe, "Why Should I Cry?" Well, she might have cause for tears if the Nevada courts decide there's been "fraud" in connection with her marriage to Frank you-know-who.

Ava Gardner

Ava's private life is always headline news but let me tell you about the "Cry" assignment: It's one of the trilogy of love stories Producer Sidney Franklin is putting together in "Three Love Stories" at MGM.

Leslie Caron stars in one of the episodes, "Mademoiselle," with every string being pulled to bet Farley Granger opposite her. Farl told me he wants to do it, too.

Pier Angeli is the heroine of the third story.

Each episode will have a different director. Vincente Minelli and Gottfried Reinhardt are already signed with another to be selected.

The waif finally has a name. Rita Hayworth's comeback picture, which has been nameless, will be called "An Affair In Trinidad." The background is Trinidad, and Vincent Sherman, her director, flew there to bring back some supporting players for the redhead and her co-star, Glenn Ford.

It's now definite that Valerie Bettis, who came to Hollywood to do the choremography, will also play a role in "Trinidad." Harry Cohn is also testing Valerie on Tuesday for the heavy in "Salome." The lady is a beautiful dancer, she's photogenic, and she has what's called sex appeal. What more could a lady have—except money.

There's still no word from France on whether or not Errol Flynn gets five-year-old Romaine McEvoy. He's waiting impatiently, and just as impatient is his wife, Patrice Wymore.

"I'll be her adopted mother," said Pat, "and I'm hoping Romaine will get here before I have to start at Warners in 'Man With A Gun' with Randolph Scott."

"Man With A Gun" is an historical drama of Los Angeles during the days of 1850.

Errol has been fit to be tied waiting for his lawyer to give him the good word that the child is on her way to America.

As soon as Nancy Valentine arrives in this country she'll file suit for divorce against the Maharajah of Cooch-Behar. It wasn't only the Indian government's refusal to allow her to have a title so that she could have a second marriage to Cooch-Behar that decided the American girl against going through with the marriage. There were many other things.

Nancy writes that every piece of mail she received or sent out was opened and read. She says cows wandered into the lobby of the hotel where she was staying, and one morning she found a buzzard in her room, which frightened her enough to make her think it might be an omen.

Mary Pickford, ten pounds slimmer and looking as she hasn't looked in years, has chosen Irving Reis as the director of "The Library," which gets going the last week in March.

Mary has an appointment with Stanley Kramer on Monday to discuss cast and to arrange for tests, which will not, however, be made until after the first of the year.

It will be nice to have Mary and Buddy back at Pickfair this Christmas. It's such a wonderful house for Christmas, and it doesn't seem right when Mary isn't there.

Celanese Workers Get Service Awards

Two employes of the Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation were awarded gold watches Saturday by Plant Manager Harrison C. Givens, Jr., upon their completion of more than a quarter century of employment.

They were John W. Harclerode of Midland, and Leo D. Darr, 621 Oldtown Road.

Darr has worked in the Acetone Recovery Department the entire 25-year period, since December 8, 1926, and has been a charge hand since 1936.

Bibby Named Head Of Arthritis Drive

G. William Bibby has been named Allegany County chairman for the annual fund drive of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

This year's campaign in Maryland is being sponsored by the American Legion. Bibby, a member of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, will announce his committee within a week or two.

Clarence W. Miles, Baltimore, president of the Maryland Chapter, has informed William C. Walsh, president of the county chapter, that Maryland plans to set up clinics for arthritis in all the 23 counties of the state. The Maryland goal is $50,000. Contributions may be sent to Mr. Bibby or addressed to Arthritis, care of Postmaster, Cumberland.

Auditors To Hear Smoke Engineer

George M. Hitchcock, Smoke Abatement Engineer for Cumberland, will speak at the December dinner meeting of the Cumberland Conference, National Association of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers, at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club at 6:30 p. m., Wednesday.

Mr. Hitchcock will explain the operation of the smoke ordinance.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Cornering ex-Powers Girls who have gone on adding to their laurels is one of my pleasantest duties. My latest catch was Robin Chandler. As one Powers Girl said of her, "When Robin Chandler comes on the television screen, charm comes into the living room. Her "Cover Girl" show is one I try never to miss!"

Most Valuable Asset

When I asked Robin what she'd found to be the most valuable of all charm assets, without hesitation she answered, "Naturalness!"

"Sounds lkie the easiest thing a woman might have to strive for, but since I know it isn't, how about elucidating a bit?" I urged.

"Actually it isn't easy," said Robin. "Naturalness is the basis of all personality and individuality. You have to guard constantly against overplaying or underplaying yourself or what happens to your personality. It's lost!

"It can slip away quickly, instantly, if you unconsciously let yourself ape the appearance of an idol . . . or parrot the opinions of someone else . . . or copy the mannerisms of the crowd.

"If a woman discovers that she is doing any of those things, her naturalness is gone. She's walking in another's shoes and she'll never be able to make anybody believe that they fit. They'll cramp her personality and leave blisters on her charm."

"Every Cinderella must fashion her own slipper," I agreed.

"Yes," continued Robin, "And tailor her appearance to suit her size, her coloring, age, life, and temperament. Her ideas have to be the product of her own heart and head work, too!"

Potent Appeal

"You pack a powerful lot of meaning into that one word, naturalness,"I said admiringly. "Most girls think naturalness means letting yourself go, or veneering over what you've let go."

"If this were so, it wouldn't be such a scarce commodity and there would be far more popular people," laughed Robin. "I know of no other quality that holds the liking and trust of others as much as naturalness. I guess it is so open-faced."

"Well, whatever it is,"I replied, "it's something you've got aplenty. Just hold onto it and your charm will go on increasing all of your life!"

"Thank you, sir! That's enough for any woman ever to wish for!" Robin replied.

Tomorrow: Danger ahead!

For Men Only

The big Fifth Avenue department stores are beginning to recognize the rights of men, especially at this time of the year when the pocketbook nerve is not so sensitive. Many of them are establishing separate caches where the male can do his Christmas shopping without customers of the other sex pushing him around. To facilitate things experts are assigned to help him, and usually these are picked for their pulchritude.

John Wheeler

About a week ago, I became a member of the Stag Club organized by Bernard and Adam Gimbel, the big New York merchants, receiving a certificate to testify to my good standing, for I got in without being blackballed. The first meeting was held from 5:30 to 7 the other afternoon, as a warmup. There are no greens fees, and card carriers have the privilege of patronizing the place and charging their purchases. These psychological factors loosen up the elastic on the bankroll.

It was nice to be included for the top characters of the city drove up to the limousine entrance, and the gathering included business leaders, soldiers like Generals Jimmy Doolittle and John Reed Kilpatrick, lawyers, bankers, and sports of the town. Nothing was for sale, although models weaved gracefully through the crowd showing the wares while the guests sipped their drinks and pretended not to notice. It was all on the house. Upon inquiry, I found out if you bought lingerie or one of the dresses or a fur coat, the lady inside did not come with it.

Standing in a knot of three or four, it was natural we got to talking politics and as to be expected the names of General Eisenhower and Senator Taft came up. Of course, it is a little hard to concentrate on the next President of the United States when a slender girl brushes by you in a filmy nighgown, even though she wears something underneath, but the boys turned their blind eyes and plunged ahead with the discussion. Bernard Gimbel joined us and made an astute remark.

"I want to tell you something," he said. "You're not going to elect Eisenhower in the Twenty-nine or Blind Brook clubs. There is not a single delegate in either one." These are two exclusive and stylish hangouts. What he meant was someone had to get out and hustle which seems sound.

Each member received a souvenir tied up in red ribbon. I opened my box before Christmas when I got home and found it contained cuff buttons and two kinds of perfume called "Here's How" and "Five O'Clock." I am afraid to try these. I might get to like the cologne and couldn't afford it.

A friend, who recently returned from London, told me a story which is going the rounds there and is new as far as I am concerned. Sarah Churchill, daughter of the current Prime Minister, was married to an actor and band leader named Vic Oliver. Just after the war by way of flattering his father-in-law, Oliver asked him with a dead pan one day,

"Who do you think is the greatest statesman of this period?"

Without hesitating or changing expression, Mr. Churchill replied,

Flood Control Bids Due December 18

Contractors have until December 18 to submit their bids for the third phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project, according to Albert Donaldson, area engineer for the Corps of Army Engineers.

The third of four phases provides for dredging Wills Creek and paving its banks and bed. Congress has appropriated $1,000,000 for this work.

The job will extend from the Narrows bridge to the Western Maryland Railway bridge at North Mechanic and North Centre streets.

Other major projects in the five-year $15,000,000 program include construction of a pump house to control the storm sewer system, removal of the Potomac River Dam and construction of a new dam at Riverside Park.

Textile Workers' Christmas Event Set

A Christmas party for children will be sponsored by Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, Saturday, December 22, in Textile Hall.

The hall will be opened at 1 p. m. and at 2 p. m. a 40-minute sound film for children will be shown. Following the movie Santa Claus will distribute treats.

Of course, it is a little hard to concentrate on the next President of the United States when a slender girl brushes by you in a filmy nighgown, even though she wears something underneath, but the boys turned their blind eyes and plunged ahead with the discussion. Bernard Gimbel joined us and made an astute remark.

"I want to tell you something," he said. "You're not going to elect Eisenhower in the Twenty-nine or Blind Brook clubs. There is not a single delegate in either one." These are two exclusive and stylish hangouts. What he meant was someone had to get out and hustle which seems sound.

Each member received a souvenir tied up in red ribbon. I opened my box before Christmas when I got home and found it contained cuff buttons and two kinds of perfume called "Here's How" and "Five O'Clock." I am afraid to try these. I might get to like the cologne and couldn't afford it.

A friend, who recently returned from London, told me a story which is going the rounds there and is new as far as I am concerned. Sarah Churchill, daughter of the current Prime Minister, was married to an actor and band leader named Vic Oliver. Just after the war by way of flattering his father-in-law, Oliver asked him with a dead pan one day,

"Who do you think is the greatest statesman of this period?"

Without hesitating or changing expression, Mr. Churchill replied,

Flood Control Bids Due December 18

Contractors have until December 18 to submit their bids for the third phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project, according to Albert Donaldson, area engineer for the Corps of Army Engineers.

The third of four phases provides for dredging Wills Creek and paving its banks and bed. Congress has appropriated $1,000,000 for this work.

The job will extend from the Narrows bridge to the Western Maryland Railway bridge at North Mechanic and North Centre streets.

Other major projects in the five-year $15,000,000 program include construction of a pump house to control the storm sewer system, removal of the Potomac River Dam and construction of a new dam at Riverside Park.

Textile Workers' Christmas Event Set

A Christmas party for children will be sponsored by Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, Saturday, December 22, in Textile Hall.

The hall will be opened at 1 p. m. and at 2 p. m. a 40-minute sound film for children will be shown. Following the movie Santa Claus will distribute treats.

Democracy In Action, Carefully Rehearsed

Michael Quill, looking every inch an outraged owl, brought to television the other night the finest Irish brogue ever heard west of Third Avenue and reawakened that old question: what does television do for or against public figures, and, more importantly, does it clarify or muddy public issues?

John Crosby

The public issue at question was whether the Transport Workers Union should or should not strike in clear violation of a no-strike contract which still has a year to run, and a finer job of muddying of an issue I have never seen. The plain fact — if I recognize a plain fact when I see one — was that Mr. Quill, President of the TWU, had already decided to back down in fact of a federal court injunction. No hint of this came out of this telecast of a meeting of 3,000 TWU workers. Well, after all, the time had been bought and paid for by the TWU and, naturally, you can hardly expect them to put forth any views of the employers or even of the federal court.

Still, it seemed to me that WJZ-TV which broadcast the meeting might have thrown a narrator in to explain impartially just what was at issue, what the meeting was all about and what exactly happened at it. Instead the meeting was represented by several union officials as a great triumph for the union and a vindication of Mr. Quill's "militant action" when almost exactly the opposite was true. A man not conversant with the facts of the threatened bus strike could easily have come away from that telecast with the feeling that the bus drivers were "second class citizens," as one official put it, who were being sharply discriminated against.

But there's no doubt about it that Quill is a great performer. He's been seen before, of course, on various panel TV shows, rolling his great R's like thunder 'cross the bay and dodging questions with a skill that leaves his interviewers breathless. At evading an issue, he's one of the greatest broken field runners among our current crop of civic TV performers—that is, the "I'm absolutely convinced" as opposed to the "In my opinion" crowd.

But he was never in better form and for good reason. This was the first union meeting ever televised, at least in this area, and Mr. Quill—a sort of Milton Berle impresario who wants to attend to all the details himself—had carefully rehearsed the speakers and apparently even the 3,000 union members. The vote on whether to strike or accept—as was recommended—a decision to turn the issue over to an impartial chairman was as carefully timed as a closing commercial and came out just right.

"The public at large," declared Mr. Quill, "for the first time can watch democracy in action in the Transport Workers Union."

Then came the rising vote — unanimously, an official announced, in favor of accepting Mr. Quill's recommendation. (Actually there were eight union members who voted against him but they were ignored.) This is democracy in action?

I harbor a strong suspicion that this wasn't a union meeting at all, that it was just a rather unusual television show or, more properly, a long television commercial for the TWU. No rank and file member was permitted to open his mouth any more than another comedian is permitted to tell a joke on the Berle show. Quill was the star of the piece and his best bit I thought was when he held up the union contract and declared: "I looked over this document. It contains a lot of language and a lot of whereases." It got quite a laugh. Still, I can't get rid of the idea that a contract consists of something more than "a lot of language and a lot of whereases," that implicit in every contract is a promise to abide by the whereases.

The implications of this first televised union meeting are pretty damned ominous not only for the public, whose befuddlement is the chief purpose, but also for the rank and file union members who are being used like acrobats in the big comedy shows, as space fillers. If the actions and the voting is so carefully prearranged for the TV cameras, then I recommend, Mr. Quill, that you put a little drama in the next one. You might have a few guys in the back row pitch a couple rocks at the speakers — rehearsing them carefully in advance, of course, so they don't hit anyone.

SUSIE Q. SMITH — By Linda and Jerry Walter

"Just because I let my dreamboat boss me around, Popsie, don't YOU get any ideas!"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE BEST PLAN OF ALL

WHEN you are faced as declarer with the alternative of choosing between one plan which may produce an extra trick or tricks while risking the contract itself, and another course which abandons all chance for an extra trick in order to assure the making of your contract, there should be no difficulty for the sound rubber bridge player to make his decision. He should follow the safe method and forget the extra or extras. But the best plan of all, theoretically, at either rubbers or match-point duplicate, is one which protects the contract while also preserving a reasonable chance for one or more additional tricks.

	♠ A 10 8 5 ♥ 9 6 ♦ K J 10 5 ♣ 10 8 5
♠ J 6 ♥ K Q J 5 2 ♦ 9 8 4 ♣ K 9 3	N W E S	♠ 3 ♥ 10 7 3 ♦ Q 6 3 2 ♣ A Q J 4 2
	♠ K Q 9 7 4 2 ♥ A 8 4 ♦ A 7 ♣ 7 6

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠

Since this deal was in a match-point duplicate game, South was extremely extra-trick minded. So, after he won the heart K lead with the A, he scored two spade tops, led to the diamond A and finessed the diamond J. If that had succeeded, he then could have discarded one of his clubs on the diamond K and thus would have assured an extra trick, with only one each being lost in hearts and clubs.

But the finesse lost to the diamond Q, whereupon East post haste won the setting tricks with the club A and Q and the heart 10.

Other declarers assured their contracts by avoiding the diamond finesse and so lost no trick in that suit, but only one in hearts and two in clubs. There were only a few really strong players in this particular social game, and these all not only made the contract but an extra trick as well by proper play.

To protect their contract, they started with winning the heart K with the A, clearing trumps and then scoring the diamond A and K. Then they led the diamond J from dummy. Their plan was that if East played low, they would discard a club on it, thus limiting club losers to one, so they could afford to let West win with the Q. If East covered, South could ruff, lead a trump to dummy and use the diamond 10 to toss a club. This plan did not risk the contract, yet had an even chance for an extra.

I harbor a strong suspicion that this wasn't a union meeting at all, that it was just a rather unusual television show or, more properly, a long television commercial for the TWU. No rank and file member was permitted to open his mouth any more than another comedian is permitted to tell a joke on the Berle show. Quill was the star of the piece and his best bit I thought was when he held up the union contract and declared: "I looked over this document. It contains a lot of language and a lot of whereases." It got quite a laugh. Still, I can't get rid of the idea that a contract consists of something more than "a lot of language and a lot of whereases," that implicit in every contract is a promise to abide by the whereases.

The implications of this first televised union meeting are pretty damned ominous not only for the public, whose befuddlement is the chief purpose, but also for the rank and file union members who are being used like acrobats in the big comedy shows, as space fillers. If the actions and the voting is so carefully prearranged for the TV cameras, then I recommend, Mr. Quill, that you put a little drama in the next one. You might have a few guys in the back row pitch a couple rocks at the speakers — rehearsing them carefully in advance, of course, so they don't hit anyone.

Since this deal was in a match-point duplicate game, South was extremely extra-trick minded. So, after he won the heart K lead with the A, he scored two spade tops, led to the diamond A and finessed the diamond J. If that had succeeded, he then could have discarded one of his clubs on the diamond K and thus would have assured an extra trick, with only one each being lost in hearts and clubs.

But the finesse lost to the diamond Q, whereupon East post haste won the setting tricks with the club A and Q and the heart 10.

Other declarers assured their contracts by avoiding the diamond finesse and so lost no trick in that suit, but only one in hearts and two in clubs. There were only a few really strong players in this particular social game, and these all not only made the contract but an extra trick as well by proper play.

To protect their contract, they started with winning the heart K with the A, clearing trumps and then scoring the diamond A and K. Then they led the diamond J from dummy. Their plan was that if East played low, they would discard a club on it, thus limiting club losers to one, so they could afford to let West win with the Q. If East covered, South could ruff, lead a trump to dummy and use the diamond 10 to toss a club. This plan did not risk the contract, yet had an even chance for an extra.

Radio And Television

Democracy In Action, Carefully Rehearsed

Michael Quill, looking every inch an outraged owl, brought to television the other night the finest Irish brogue ever heard west of Third Avenue and reawakened that old question: what does television do for or against public figures, and, more importantly, does it clarify or muddy public issues?

John Crosby

The public issue at question was whether the Transport Workers Union should or should not strike in clear violation of a no-strike contract which still has a year to run, and a finer job of muddying of an issue I have never seen. The plain fact — if I recognize a plain fact when I see one — was that Mr. Quill, President of the TWU, had already decided to back down in fact of a federal court injunction. No hint of this came out of this telecast of a meeting of 3,000 TWU workers. Well, after all, the time had been bought and paid for by the TWU and, naturally, you can hardly expect them to put forth any views of the employers or even of the federal court.

Still, it seemed to me that WJZ-TV which broadcast the meeting might have thrown a narrator in to explain impartially just what was at issue, what the meeting was all about and what exactly happened at it. Instead the meeting was represented by several union officials as a great triumph for the union and a vindication of Mr. Quill's "militant action" when almost exactly the opposite was true. A man not conversant with the facts of the threatened bus strike could easily have come away from that telecast with the feeling that the bus drivers were "second class citizens," as one official put it, who were being sharply discriminated against.

But there's no doubt about it that Quill is a great performer. He's been seen before, of course, on various panel TV shows, rolling his great R's like thunder 'cross the bay and dodging questions with a skill that leaves his interviewers breathless. At evading an issue, he's one of the greatest broken field runners among our current crop of civic TV performers—that is, the "I'm absolutely convinced" as opposed to the "In my opinion" crowd.

But he was never in better form and for good reason. This was the first union meeting ever televised, at least in this area, and Mr. Quill—a sort of Milton Berle impresario who wants to attend to all the details himself—had carefully rehearsed the speakers and apparently even the 3,000 union members. The vote on whether to strike or accept—as was recommended—a decision to turn the issue over to an impartial chairman was as carefully timed as a closing commercial and came out just right.

"The public at large," declared Mr. Quill, "for the first time can watch democracy in action in the Transport Workers Union."

Then came the rising vote — unanimously, an official announced, in favor of accepting Mr. Quill's recommendation. (Actually there were eight union members who voted against him but they were ignored.) This is democracy in action?

I harbor a strong suspicion that this wasn't a union meeting at all, that it was just a rather unusual television show or, more properly, a long television commercial for the TWU. No rank and file member was permitted to open his mouth any more than another comedian is permitted to tell a joke on the Berle show. Quill was the star of the piece and his best bit I thought was when he held up the union contract and declared: "I looked over this document. It contains a lot of language and a lot of whereases." It got quite a laugh. Still, I can't get rid of the idea that a contract consists of something more than "a lot of language and a lot of whereases," that implicit in every contract is a promise to abide by the whereases.

The implications of this first televised union meeting are pretty damned ominous not only for the public, whose befuddlement is the chief purpose, but also for the rank and file union members who are being used like acrobats in the big comedy shows, as space fillers. If the actions and the voting is so carefully prearranged for the TV cameras, then I recommend, Mr. Quill, that you put a little drama in the next one. You might have a few guys in the back row pitch a couple rocks at the speakers—rehearsing them carefully in advance, of course, so they don't hit anyone.

Allegany County Farmers Are In Favored Position

The lot of the average Allegany County farmer is found to be better than that of his counterpart in most other sections of the United States and to be improving steadily.

The local farmer, it is shown, received more for his labors, in dollars per acre, than did the average farmer elsewhere. His gross production for 1949, the year covered by the census, amounted to $57 per acre.

This compares most favorably with the average farm returns for the country as a whole, approximately $23 an acre. The national figure is based on data tabulated for most, but not all, of the 3,000 counties.

The total yield of farms in Allegany County in the five-year period showed a marked dollar increase, going from $874,897 in 1944 to $1,440,915 in 1949.

Farm Values Rise

Farm values locally rose proportionately. The years compared here are 1945 and 1950. The census figures show that the value of farm lands and buildings locally went from $35 per acre to $53 per acre in the five years.

The average value of the 974 farms in Allegany County in 1950, exclusive of livestock and equipment, is given as $8,179 per farm. This is a marked rise over 1945, when the valuation was $3,315 per farm.

Use More Machinery

Most farmers locally conducted their operations in 1950 with more mechanical aids than they had previously. The tabulation shows that there were 500 motor trucks on Allegany County farms in 1950 as compared with 311 in 1945. The account on tractors in use showed a total of 521 as against 205 recorded five years earlier.

The census data indicates that American farms had an output of about $31 billion in the year, or about a third of their total worth, including land, buildings, equipment and livestock.

Junior Symphony Orchestra To Present Concert Friday

The Allegany County Junior Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Martin Eric Weisman will present its first concert of the season Friday at 8 p. m. in Allegany High School Auditorium.

The concert, Weisman said, constitutes an entire Christmas program.

Rev. Kenneth Hayes, pastor of Second Baptist Church, will introduce the program by reading the Christmas Story from the Bible.

Rosemary Shober, soprano, will sing "O Holy Night."

During the intermission, the audience will be asked to participate in singing Christmas carols led by Robert Moreland and accompanied by Mrs. Witwer Richards at the organ.

The orchestra consists of children between the ages of eight and 15 years. Admission is free.

At a recent meeting of the junior symphony orchestra's Booster Club, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County Schools spoke on music in the school system, and pointed out the happiness children derive from its benefits. Dr .Kopp praised the Boosters Club for its effort in assisting the work of the young musicians.

Dr. Kopp said that although the orchestra is strictly a civic organization, he would lend his assistance whenever possible.

The Great A-Bomb

Brother Joined Red Party

In his restless youth Oppenheimer had toyed with the notion of joining the Communist Party. His brother did. These facts were known to Gen. Leslie R. Groves when the overall boss of Manhattan Engineering District selected Oppenheimer as chief scientist of the project. It was, and remains, Groves' belief that Oppenheimer was thoroughly loyal and the best man for the enormous job. The next best, Groves has said, would have been an alien scientist who, when the job was done, would return to a Europe threatened with Communism.

Oppenheimer promptly reported to Groves that he had been contacted by the apparatus. At first he would not name the contact, but later did with the understanding that the man would not be turned over to the F. B. I.

Adams himself was not often seen in the company of a scientist. One exception to that rule, however, was Prof. Clarence Hiskey, who was assigned to atomic work in the fall of 1942 by Prof. Harold Urey, winner of the Nobel prize for chemistry in 1934 for his isolation of heavy hydrogen.

The great majority of scientists and technicians who worked in the a-bomb effort were, of course, scrupulously honest and loyal men. Prof. Urey was one of these. He left the job of checking on Hiskey to the security forces involved—usually M. E. D., the F. B. I., and Army and Navy Intelligence. Hiskey's troubles dated from later in his employment.

When M.E.D. security officers arranged for Hiskey to be put in the Army the scientist met with Adams in Chicago, then went to Cleveland to talk to John Hitchcock Chapin, a young chemical engineer employed in important metallurgical work at the University of Chicago's atomic effort. He asked Chapin to meet with Adams, Chapin later testified, and so that Chapin would recognize Adams he (Chapin) gave Hiskey a hotel key to give to the Russian spy. In time the men did meet and the spy passed the key back to Chapin, who got cold feet and clammed up.

Hiskey Refuses To Talk

Hiskey, who is now a member of the faculty of Brooklyn Poly, was given an opportunity to explain his role in the atomic conspiracy—at a later hearing by the House committee—but refused to answer pertinent questions "on the grounds that it may tend to degrade and incriminate me."

The F.B.I. kept close tabs on Adams. One search of his room revealed information about Oak Ridge. J. Edgar Hoover's men watched Adams' American friends, too: Victoria Stone, jeweler at 510 Madison Avenue, N. Y. C.; Julius Heiman, steel importer whose daughter worked for the Russian news agency Tass; Eric Bernay, former advertising manager of the New Masses and recorder of Hanns Eisler's music, and others.

But Adams gave the F.B.I. the slip in February, 1945, five months before the test of the first a-bomb. The man crossed the country, approached to within a few feet of the gangplank of a Russian ship at Portland, Ore., recognized that he would be seized if he attempted to board, turned, spent an afternoon in a Portland movie, sped back to New York (closely followed) and then disappeared. Somehow, he got back to Russia.

He must be credited as a mastermind of the great robbery. By the time he vanished his apparatus was working perfectly. It had Dr. Klaus Fuchs and Sgt. David Greenglass inside super-secret Los Alamos, where the bomb was nearing completion. It had Julius Rosenberg and his wife working in New York. It had Harry Gold, a wistful-looking little Philadelphia chemist, running priceless information from Fuchs and Greenglass to Soviet spies in New York.

Soviets Bought Atom Materials

And Adams had also in his favor a widespread reluctance on the part of many Americans in government and science to regard Russia as anything but a courageous ally with whom we should share secrets as well as goods.

The Soviets Purchasing Commission was able openly to buy 1,300 pounds of uranium oxide and uranium nitrate in this country in 1944. The following year, before the first bomb was tested, we gave Russia 25 pounds of low-grade uranium metal and a quantity of "heavy water," which is used (or can be) in the construction of atomic reactors.

In the meantime, while Adams or his superiors pieced together threads of information picked up at Berkeley, Chicago, New York and Cleveland, Russia was gaining a picture of the a-bomb effort which could only have been of great assistance to its team of nuclear physicists headed by Dr. Peter Kapitza.

In all probability most of the information that was stolen left the U. S. in diplomatic pouches strapped to the strong wrists of accredited Soviet diplomatic couriers. The traffic in this information was steady and constructive, and it must have appeared to the Kremlin that it would never end.

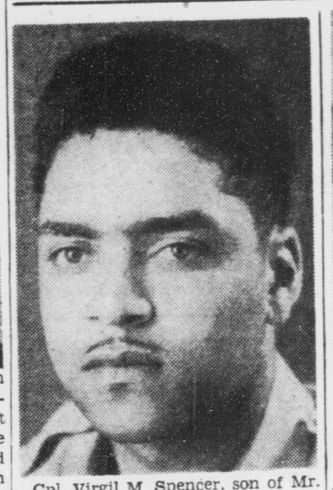

But a link in the strong chain snapped, and the link was not a spy or an unwitting accomplice. He was a bona fide Russian, a devoted Communist and Red army officer. His brush with the free air of liberty did strange things to him, and his defection from communism did much to frustrate the fantastic intrigue.

Any questions?

How can a country (Russia) which always had difficulty making a one ton truck come up with hundreds of fine jet fighters to our dozens of same?

Well, it's a long story.

When the Red army overran Peenemunde, Hitler's great scientific research center, special squads assigned to picking up German scientific brains, Nazi or otherwise, grabbed a great number of experts. We and the British, incidentally, were trying to do the same thing at the same time.

The Germans picked up were given special consideration by the Russians and put to work continuing their research and development in jet propulsion, rockets and so forth. It was a welcome addition to their work when the British unwittingly sold the Rolls Royce Nene jet engine to Russia after the war. The Germans, with some Russian help, stepped up its power for perhaps 4,000 pounds thrust to better than 6,000. It powers the MIG-15, which cleanly outflies our best production job (the F-86 Sabre) at aititudes above 25,000 feet.

The Russians, thanks to captive labor and an iron refusal to allow strikes and anything resembling a National Labor Relations Board, or laws that have to do with wages and hours, probably can build a dozen MIG-15s for the price of one F-86. Besides, they started earlier on the '15 than we did on the '86.

It takes us at least four years to produce a plane. Four years ago we were in the midst of an economy program which was felt severely in the Air Force. It was given a certain amount of money, far below its needs, and it used most of it to build B-36s — which can fly 10,000 miles with an a-bomb. It felt that since it could not have all it wanted, it could best protect the taxpayers by putting the money into a machine that would deter aggression. P.S.—It didn't.

The Russians concentrated on fighters, and apparently have a big lead. Such victories as our fliers score in Korea, against sometimes overwhelming odds, are scored only because our pilots are better trained.

If you're surprised by the statement that it takes four or five years to produce a plane in this country please remember that no plane designed after Pearl Harbor was bombed saw service in World War II.

The next time our spokesmen in UN veto Russia's efforts to gain a seat in that organization for Red China they should be more explicit. They should say that China today is in the iron grip of vile barbarians, scum we could not possibly have at the same council tables.

And we should quote such things as the massacre of American prisoners of war, and the mob-trial of the Canadian Catholic nuns who were condemned last week in an orgy of sadism which saw 6,000 hopped-up Reds sitting as "judge." The nuns, all members of Canton's Sacred Infant Orphanage, had worked for years among abandoned Chinese children with the love and devotion which only they can summon. But they were not permitted to speak in their defense, were not given legal counsel, and the mobs that followed them as they were prodded through the streets after their conviction cursed them at gun-point.

How can a country (Russia) which always had difficulty making a one ton truck come up with hundreds of fine jet fighters to our dozens of same?

Well, it's a long story.

When the Red army overran Peenemunde, Hitler's great scientific research center, special squads assigned to picking up German scientific brains, Nazi or otherwise, grabbed a great number of experts. We and the British, incidentally, were trying to do the same thing at the same time.

The Germans picked up were given special consideration by the Russians and put to work continuing their research and development in jet propulsion, rockets and so forth. It was a welcome addition to their work when the British unwittingly sold the Rolls Royce Nene jet engine to Russia after the war. The Germans, with some Russian help, stepped up its power for perhaps 4,000 pounds thrust to better than 6,000. It powers the MIG-15, which cleanly outflies our best production job (the F-86 Sabre) at altitudes above 25,000 feet.

The Russians, thanks to captive labor and an iron refusal to allow strikes and anything resembling a National Labor Relations Board, or laws that have to do with wages and hours, probably can build a dozen MIG-15s for the price of one F-86. Besides, they started earlier on the '15 than we did on the '86.

It takes us at least four years to produce a plane. Four years ago we were in the midst of an economy program which was felt severely in the Air Force. It was given a certain amount of money, far below its needs, and it used most of it to build B-36s — which can fly 10,000 miles with an a-bomb. It felt that since it could not have all it wanted, it could best protect the taxpayers by putting the money into a machine that would deter aggression. P.S.—It didn't.

The Russians concentrated on fighters, and apparently have a big lead. Such victories as our fliers score in Korea, against sometimes overwhelming odds, are scored only because our pilots are better trained.

If you're surprised by the statement that it takes four or five years to produce a plane in this country please remember that no plane designed after Pearl Harbor was bombed saw service in World War II.

The next time our spokesmen in UN veto Russia's efforts to gain a seat in that organization for Red China they should be more explicit. They should say that China today is in the iron grip of vile barbarians, scum we could not possibly have at the same council tables.

And we should quote such things as the massacre of American prisoners of war, and the mob-trial of the Canadian Catholic nuns who were condemned last week in an orgy of sadism which saw 6,000 hopped-up Reds sitting as "judge." The nuns, all members of Canton's Sacred Infant Orphanage, had worked for years among abandoned Chinese children with the love and devotion which only they can summon. But they were not permitted to speak in their defense, were not given legal counsel, and the mobs that followed them as they were prodded through the streets after their conviction cursed them at gun-point.

Allegany County Farmers Are In Favored Position

The lot of the average Allegany County farmer is found to be better than that of his counterpart in most other sections of the United States and to be improving steadily.

The local farmer, it is shown, received more for his labors, in dollars per acre, than did the average farmer elsewhere. His gross production for 1949, the year covered by the census, amounted to $57 per acre.

This compares most favorably with the average farm returns for the country as a whole, approximately $23 an acre. The national figure is based on data tabulated for most, but not all, of the 3,000 counties.

The total yield of farms in Allegany County in the five-year period showed a marked dollar increase, going from $874,897 in 1944 to $1,440,915 in 1949.

Farm Values Rise

Farm values locally rose proportionately. The years compared here are 1945 and 1950. The census figures show that the value of farm lands and buildings locally went from $35 per acre to $53 per acre in the five years.

The average value of the 974 farms in Allegany County in 1950, exclusive of livestock and equipment, is given as $8,179 per farm. This is a marked rise over 1945, when the valuation was $3,315 per farm.

Use More Machinery

Most farmers locally conducted their operations in 1950 with more mechanical aids than they had previously. The tabulation shows that there were 500 motor trucks on Allegany County farms in 1950 as compared with 311 in 1945. The account on tractors in use showed a total of 521 as against 205 recorded five years earlier.

The census data indicates that American farms had an output of about $31 billion in the year, or about a third of their total worth, including land, buildings, equipment and livestock.

Junior Symphony Orchestra To Present Concert Friday

The Allegany County Junior Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Martin Eric Weisman will present its first concert of the season Friday at 8 p. m. in Allegany High School Auditorium.

The concert, Weisman said, constitutes an entire Christmas program.

Rev. Kenneth Hayes, pastor of Second Baptist Church, will introduce the program by reading the Christmas Story from the Bible.

Rosemary Shober, soprano, will sing "O Holy Night."

During the intermission, the audience will be asked to participate in singing Christmas carols led by Robert Moreland and accompanied by Mrs. Witwer Richards at the organ.

The orchestra consists of children between the ages of eight and 15 years. Admission is free.

At a recent meeting of the junior symphony orchestra's Booster Club, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany County Schools spoke on music in the school system, and pointed out the happiness children derive from its benefits. Dr .Kopp praised the Boosters Club for its effort in assisting the work of the young musicians.

Dr. Kopp said that although the orchestra is strictly a civic organization, he would lend his assistance whenever possible.

Brother Joined Red Party

In his restless youth Oppenheimer had toyed with the notion of joining the Communist Party. His brother did. These facts were known to Gen. Leslie R. Groves when the overall boss of Manhattan Engineering District selected Oppenheimer as chief scientist of the project. It was, and remains, Groves' belief that Oppenheimer was thoroughly loyal and the best man for the enormous job. The next best, Groves has said, would have been an alien scientist who, when the job was done, would return to a Europe threatened with Communism.

Oppenheimer promptly reported to Groves that he had been contacted by the apparatus. At first he would not name the contact, but later did with the understanding that the man would not be turned over to the F. B. I.

Adams himself was not often seen in the company of a scientist. One exception to that rule, however, was Prof. Clarence Hiskey, who was assigned to atomic work in the fall of 1942 by Prof. Harold Urey, winner of the Nobel prize for chemistry in 1934 for his isolation of heavy hydrogen.

The great majority of scientists and technicians who worked in the a-bomb effort were, of course, scrupulously honest and loyal men. Prof. Urey was one of these. He left the job of checking on Hiskey to the security forces involved—usually M. E. D., the F. B. I., and Army and Navy Intelligence. Hiskey's troubles dated from later in his employment.

When M.E.D. security officers arranged for Hiskey to be put in the Army the scientist met with Adams in Chicago, then went to Cleveland to talk to John Hitchcock Chapin, a young chemical engineer employed in important metallurgical work at the University of Chicago's atomic effort. He asked Chapin to meet with Adams, Chapin later testified, and so that Chapin would recognize Adams he (Chapin) gave Hiskey a hotel key to give to the Russian spy. In time the men did meet and the spy passed the key back to Chapin, who got cold feet and clammed up.

Hiskey Refuses To Talk

Hiskey, who is now a member of the faculty of Brooklyn Poly, was given an opportunity to explain his role in the atomic conspiracy—at a later hearing by the House committee—but refused to answer pertinent questions "on the grounds that it may tend to degrade and incriminate me."

The F.B.I. kept close tabs on Adams. One search of his room revealed information about Oak Ridge. J. Edgar Hoover's men watched Adams' American friends, too: Victoria Stone, jeweler at 510 Madison Avenue, N. Y. C.; Julius Heiman, steel importer whose daughter worked for the Russian news agency Tass; Eric Bernay, former advertising manager of the New Masses and recorder of Hanns Eisler's music, and others.

But Adams gave the F.B.I. the slip in February, 1945, five months before the test of the first a-bomb. The man crossed the country, approached to within a few feet of the gangplank of a Russian ship at Portland, Ore., recognized that he would be seized if he attempted to board, turned, spent an afternoon in a Portland movie, sped back to New York (closely followed) and then disappeared. Somehow, he got back to Russia.

He must be credited as a mastermind of the great robbery. By the time he vanished his apparatus was working perfectly. It had Dr. Klaus Fuchs and Sgt. David Greenglass inside super-secret Los Alamos, where the bomb was nearing completion. It had Julius Rosenberg and his wife working in New York. It had Harry Gold, a wistful-looking little Philadelphia chemist, running priceless information from Fuchs and Greenglass to Soviet spies in New York.

Soviets Bought Atom Materials

And Adams had also in his favor a widespread reluctance on the part of many Americans in government and science to regard Russia as anything but a courageous ally with whom we should share secrets as well as goods.

The Soviets Purchasing Commission was able openly to buy 1,300 pounds of uranium oxide and uranium nitrate in this country in 1944. The following year, before the first bomb was tested, we gave Russia 25 pounds of low-grade uranium metal and a quantity of "heavy water," which is used (or can be) in the construction of atomic reactors.

In the meantime, while Adams or his superiors pieced together threads of information picked up at Berkeley, Chicago, New York and Cleveland, Russia was gaining a picture of the a-bomb effort which could only have been of great assistance to its team of nuclear physicists headed by Dr. Peter Kapitza.

In all probability most of the information that was stolen left the U. S. in diplomatic pouches strapped to the strong wrists of accredited Soviet diplomatic couriers. The traffic in this information was steady and constructive, and it must have appeared to the Kremlin that it would never end.

But a link in the strong chain snapped, and the link was not a spy or an unwitting accomplice. He was a bona fide Russian, a devoted Communist and Red army officer. His brush with the free air of liberty did strange things to him, and his defection from communism did much to frustrate the fantastic intrigue.

Baering Down On The News

Republicans opened their 1952 campaign with a hundred-dollar-a-plate dinner. Here's hoping they don't have to wash the dishes again.

It has been so long since the GOP has been in the driver's seat the boys are liable to come up with buggy whips.

It's a lot of money for a dinner. Even the speaker of the evening couldn't talk himself out of it.

At the usual rate of tip, the waiter gets ten dollars. And he could be a Democrat.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — (INS) — A man who knows a lot about atomic energy and those who developed it into a history-changing weapon told me the other day that Dr. Klaus Fuchs, the convicted spy, is co-holder of the chief patent related to the H-bomb, a monstrous thing (yet to be tested) which might be a thousand times more devastating than the a-bomb.

I wired my good friend Dr. Ralph Carlisle Smith, of Los Alamos, who has been in charge of patents pertaining to work in the atomic field, and now have a reply:

"There are no patents issued on any nuclear weapons. The actual nature of work in this field which might lead to patent applications is classified."

Cleveland Defeats Steelers, 28-0, Cop Conference Title

NFL Champs Capture 10th Game In Row

Graham Tosses 15th Touchdown Pass In Rout Of Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9 (INS) — Those perennial champion Cleveland Browns stormed to their second straight American Conference title today by thrashing the Pittsburgh Steelers, 28 to 0, before 24,229 fans.

The defending National Football League kingpins wrapped up their division honors with their tenth win of the season. The Browns, beaten only once, have one more game to play.

Then they will meet the National Conference winner in the pro league title game Dec. 23.

Pittsburgh's stonewall line managed to thwart the Browns in the opening period but the power-packed Clevelanders broke through for three touchdowns in the second period and a fourth in the last period.

Ken Carpenter started the scoring parade with a 24-yard steam roller in which he blasted his way through four Steeler defenders. A poor Pittsburgh kick, which went out of bounds on the Steeler 21, set up the second score, an eight-yard bull by Marion Motley.

Just before the half ended Otto Graham passed eight yards to Dante Lavelli for a third touchdown. It was Graham's 15th touchdown heave of the season.

Carl Taseff rambled around end for three yards and the final Cleveland score in the last period.

Price Gains 171 Yards For Winners

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9. (INS)—The New York Giants won the battle but lost the war to the Cleveland Browns today as they defeated the Philadelphia Eagles, 23 to 7, in a National Football League game at Shibe Park before 19,322 fans.

Big guns in the Giants win over the Eagles were Ray Poole and Eddie Price. Poole booted three field goals (41 yards, 31 yards and 14 yards) and two extra points to account for eleven points.

Price, who gobbled up 171 yards in 27 attempts to set a new Giant offensive mark for a season, electrified the crowd in the second period with a brilliant 80-yard touchdown jaunt.

Philadelphia had gone into a 7-0 lead just previously. An interception by Pete Pihos set the Eagles up on the New York 47. Adrian Burk's pass to Pihos put the Eagles on the three and Steve Van Buren bulled over from the one yard line. Bob Walston converted.

Poole's conversion and subsequent 41-yard three-pointer gave the Giants a halftime margin of 10-7.

Forty-Niners Rally To Beat Packers

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9. (INS)—A pair of fourth period touchdowns gave the San Francisco 49ers a 31 to 19 win today over the Green Bay Packers.

The crowd of 18,621 at Kezar Stadium sat through an afternoon of near-freezing temperatures to see the 49ers keep alive a slim mathematical chance for a tie in the National Conference of the National Football League.

For the 49ers to get a tie they must beat the Lions next Sunday and at the same time the Rams must lose to the Packers—and the Chicago Bears must drop their final tilt next Sunday to the Chicago Cardinals.

McGeady's 600 Is High For Year In K-C Loop

Tom McGeady posted a season's record of 600 for three games in the Knights of Columbus Bowling League yesterday as the Chancellors swept three games from the Recorders in the Club Recreation alleys.

McGeady's total included a 224 single game, who was also high for the day.

Collegiate Cage Powers Triumph Over Week-end

Irish, Duke, Kansas, Kentucky Are Victors

By RIP WATSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Basketballs bounded all over the country last night as the college cage season swung into high gear with more than 200 games played.

St. John's of Brooklyn, Kentucky, Duke, Notre Dame, St. Louis, Kansas, Kansas State and the Big 10 powers, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa — who threaten to make a Three-I league out of the conference race—all won impressively.

Scores ranged from Houston's 38-29 victory over Texas A & M to Taylor's 99-56 win over Huntington in an Indiana game. Close behind Taylor in scoring were Kentucky's defending NCAA champions, who rolled over poor Washington & Lee, 96-46, in their opening game.

Spivey Misses Game

Playing without All-America Bill Spivey, the Wildcats built up a 47-17 advantage at the half and let the subs coast in from there. Lou Tsioropoulos led the scorers with 22 points.

Some 13,467 fans turned out to see St. John's chalk up its third straight with a 69-52 workout over Washington & Jefferson and NYU win its sixth straight by downing Temple, 87-63.

The Violets restricted Temple's Bill Mlkvy, who averaged 29 points a game last year, to only 11 and were in command after piling in 18 points in five minutes for a 36-24 lead in the second quarter.

A faulty clock, which allowed for an extra-long first quarter, helped build up the score in Villanova's 94-86 victory over St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., before 3,326 at the Philadelphia Palestra. But it was freshman Bob Schaffer who helped Villanova most of all. Schaffer entered the game in the second quarter with the Wildcats faltering and set the pace the rest of the way, winding up with 25 points.

Penn edged Maryland, 53-52, in the second game after gaining a 49-48 advantage on Tom Holt's foul and holding the lead.

At Buffalo's Auditorium, Texas Christian fast broke Canisius into a 67-55 defeat and Brigham Young bounced back from its St. John's loss to defeat Niagara, 53-48. TCU sprinted to a 23-9 early lead and was never headed, while BYU finished strong after being tied at 22-all at the half.

Groat Scores 25 Points

Dick Groat continued to set a hot scoring pace, flipping in 25 points as the Blue Devils walloped Bradley, 87-69, before 6,000 at Durham, N. C. Besides his scoring, which included 13 points in the decisive fourth quarter, Groat had 11 assists on teammates' baskets.

Kansas State ended Arizona's home court winning streak at 81 with a 76-57 triumph to hand the Westerners their first home loss since 1945. Iowa, however, stretched its home court winning record against non-conference foes to 53 by whipping Depauw, 69-53. Chuck Darling, 6-8 center, dropped in 16 points playing only half the game as the Hawkeyes used 18 players.

Indiana, meanwhile, got rolling in the second half to defeat Xavier of Cincinnati, 92-69, and Illinois, defending Big 10 champs, won its opening game over Butler, 68-57. Don Schlundt, Indiana's 6-9 freshman, made 16 points in eight minutes, and Illinois' Bob Peterson, an inch shorter, made four out of six field goal tries and four out of five foul shots during the Illini second quarter. He wound up with 14 for the game.

Aggies Hard Pressed

Oklahoma A & M and Holy Cross never did get rolling. The Aggies had to come from behind to tie New Mexico A & M, 41-all at the end of the regulation game. They hung on for a 45-43 double overtime win. Holy Cross had almost as much trouble solving American International's zone defense before penetrating it often enough in the last five minutes for a 61-40 victory.

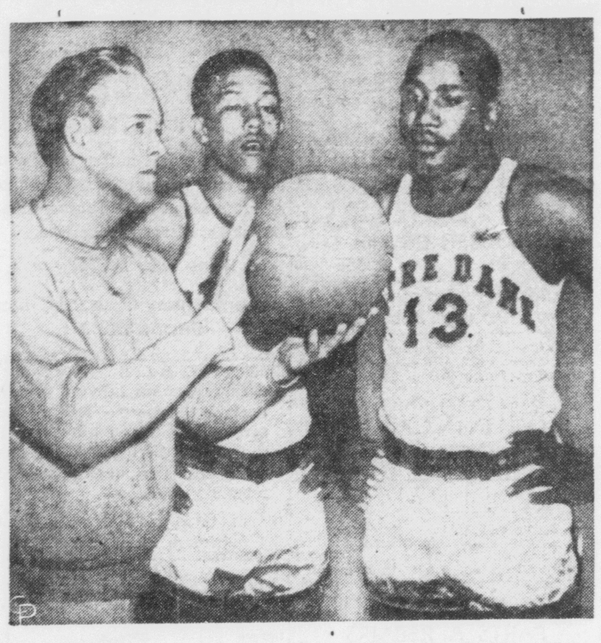

The St. Louis Billikens used 19 players in a 74-45 hiding of Southern Methodist before 7,278 St. Louis fans. The Billiken first stringers left the game with a 46-23 margin.

Notre Dame looked good in its 63-53 win over Wisconsin, controlling the backboards and passing smoothly, and Kansas was just as impressive in rolling over Denver, 84-53 for a new school scoring record. Clyde Lovellette, the Jayhawks' 6-9 center, dumped in 24 points, but Dale Toft, Denver's center, broke away from him for baskets several times and wound up with 19 points before fouling out with about seven minutes to go.

The most exciting finish was staged in Toledo's 45-44 win over Cincinnati in the finals of the Mid-America conference tourney. John Pazdzior let fly with the winning set shot 11 seconds before the end.

Nationally Known Badminton Stars Will Give Exhibition Here Tonight

Public Is Invited To Fort Hill Gym

Four nationally known badminton players will give a free exhibition and clinic tonight, at 8 o'clock, in the Fort Hill School gymnasium, under the auspices of the Cumberland badminton Association and the Frostburg Badminton club.

Among the four players will be Mrs. Clinton "Patsy" Stephens, one of the leading women players in the United States. She has held national championships, including the New York, New Jersey, Ohio, and Maryland state titles.

Mrs. Stephens and her husband a few years ago won the world's mixed doubles championship in a badminton tournament held in the Harringway Arena, London, England.

Mr. Stephens who has held many national singles titles may not be able to be here tonight with his wife. If not, two other well known Baltimore players will be here along with Mr. Frank Roberts, the "Father of Maryland Badminton", who has held numerous titles and given many exhibitions and clinics in the United States and Canada.

The public is invited to the exhibition and to take advantage of the expert coaching and demonstrations as to the best way to play the game.

Dudley's Field Goal Margin Of Victory

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (INS) — Bill Dudley kicked an 18-yard field goal in the last 15 seconds of play today and handed the Washington Redskins a 20 to 17 victory over the Chicago Cardinals.

Dudley's second three-pointer in the National Football League game in Chicago broke a 17 to 17 deadlock in a hardfought battle before 9,459 fans at Comiskey Park. The Cards had tied the game on a fourth quarter 17-yard field goal by Cliff Patton.

Chicago led at the half, 14 to 10. The Cards marched 41 yards for their first touchdown in the first quarter, with Don Paul running for the score from the Redskins' 14-yard marker.

Dudley gave Washington three points when he kicked a 36-yard field goal in the same period.

The Redskins went ahead, 10 to 7, late in the quarter when the veteran Sammy Baugh passed for an eight-yard touchdown to Joe Tereshinski.

Then in the second period Jim Hardy passed to Fran Polsfoot for another Cardinal touchdown.

On the first play of the fourth period the Redskins' Bob Goode, the league's leading ground gainer, ploughed over for a touchdown from the three. Goode picked up 108 yards in 23 carries and now has a season total of 844 yards.

Post-Season Games Banned By Big Seven

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 9 (AP)—In a drastic, far-reaching move the big seven conference today placed a ban on all post-season athletic events and applied new restrictions aimed at removing overemphasis from intercollegiate sports.

The announcement of the actions came shortly after noon here today after two and a half days of deliberations which included the university presidents and athletic directors.

The ban on post-season competition of the seven member schools will become effective September 1, 1952. In other words, the current school year is not affected. The Big Seven has no team in a football bowl this time, but does have a chance of landing a representative in the N.C.A.A. basketball play-offs next March.

As it stands the ruling would affect even the N.C.A.A. events such as basketball, track, or any event occurring after the close of the regular season. It is believed, however, that the Big Seven faculty might amend its restriction later on. The N.C.A.A. currently is conducting a study of all post-season events, including its own, and probably will make a report at the national meeting in Cincinnati next month.

Thorpe Gets $1,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (INS)—Jim Thorpe, former great Indian athlete who has been down on his luck, today received a check for $1,000 from George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues. The check is part of the proceeds being raised in a worldwide appeal on Thorpe's behalf.

Trautman forwarded to Thorpe $300 last week, followed with the $1000 today and said money is coming in from everywhere since a "let's everybody chip in a dollar" campaign was started.

Charles Passarell's lay-up shot in the closing minutes of an overtime period enabled St. Michael's of Frostburg to score its fifth consecutive win of the season over SS. Peter and Paul yesterday in the Mountain City. The score was 32-30.

The victory gave Coach Father Regis Larkin's quint a lead of two full games in the Knights of Columbus Youth Basketball League's first half championship race. Four more games remain on the schedule.

SS. Peter and Paul held a 9-4 lead at the quarter and was in front 16-15 at intermission. The score was knotted at 21-all when the third period ended.

Proud meshed one of two free throws, tying the score at 27-27 as the regulation game ended. In the overtime period, Passarell's goal and Roberts' free throw gave St. Michael's a 30-27 advantage. After Fair tossed in a fielder and foul to tie it up at 30-30, Passarell shot the winning basket.

Mike Collins of SS. Peter and Paul paced the scorers with 14 points while Passarell led St. Michael's with an even dozen. Jimmy Struntz played an outstanding floor game.

In a Sunday game on SS. Peter and Paul court, St. Patrick's took the measure of St. Mary's by the score of 32-27. Buzzard was the leading scorer, accounting for 19 of the winners' points. Lineups:

Starkey Whips One Of 13 Martinezes

There are thirteen Martinezes boxing professionally, according to Nat Fleischer's "Ring Record Book" and Randall "Skeets" Starkey, Wiley Ford, W. Va., light-heavy, whipped one of them Friday night in a six-round prelim at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Starkey, scaling 172, decisioned Angel Martinez, 177½, of Newark, N. J., on the Paddy DeMarco-Sandy Saddler card before a disappointing crowd of 5,635. It was "Skeets" first outing since he was kayoed by Harold Sampson, of New Jersey, last June at Penn Avenue Field.

Martinez, who has been fighting since 1948, has engaged in 23 bouts in the past three years, winning nine and losing 14.

Six Caught Dressing Doe, Pay Fines Totaling $600

Nabbed By Garrett Wardens; 879 Bucks Die In Region No. 1

Apprehended while dressing a doe in the woods near Harrington Manor in Garrett county, Saturday night, six men—two from Frederick and four from Oakland—were convicted and fined $100 and costs each by Trial Magistrate W. O. Bitzer at Oakland, it was announced yesterday by Joseph A. Minke, Regional game warden.

Minke stated that the arrests were made by Game Wardens Leo Friend and Arden Ricketts.

Sextet Pays $600

The sextet who paid fines totaling $600 were Henry J. Bourgeinos and John Landis, Jr., Frederick; Harold E. Edge, John O'Haver, Henry Uphold and Robert King, all of Oakland.

Two others charged with killing illegal deer will be arraigned in Allegany county and one in Washington county within the next few days, Minke said.

Seven have been charged with having loaded guns in their cars and a few Washingtonians have been charged with hunting with improper licenses.

Considering the fact that 10,000 or more hunters were in the woods in Region No. 1 during the six-day deer season, which ended Saturday, the violation score was considered light. Less than 40 illegal deer kills were reported over the entire Western Maryland area.

Past Records Shattered

The deer kill for Region No. 1 totaled 879 which is an all-time record, according to the regional game warden. New marks were established in all three counties in the district.

Garrett led with 566 kills which is 49 better than the previous record of 517 set in 1946. Allegany county's total was 207, which tipped the former record of 201 set in 1948 by six. Washington county's 106 was eight above the record 98 of 1950.

The small game season which was suspended during the deer season will be resumed today and will continue through Monday, December 31.

Snead Wins Miami Open Golf Title

Sammy Posts 268 And Earns $2,000

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 9 (AP) —Slammin' Sammy Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., pro, won the $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament today with a brilliant five-stroke victory over Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va.

Snead, who carded 268, was one stroke behind Harper at the start of the final 18 holes of the four-day 72-hole tournament.

"I guess I was very lucky," Snead said. "I started out fine and then slumped a bit, but a 40-foot putt on the 10th turned the tide."

Snead was 12 under par for the four days of play over the 6,510-yard Miami Springs Municipal Golf Course.

Snead's 40-foot putt on the 10th really turned the tide. Harper posted a one over par five on the hole and then slumped badly. He completed the back nine in 39, four over par, while Snead was two under.

Harper Ties Harrison

They had been all even at the end of the first nine holes today.

Harper's 273 gave him a second place tie with E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, of St. Andrews, Ill., who also posted 273.

The victory was the second straight in this tournament for Snead, who has a home in Miami. He won last year with 267.

A record crowd, estimated at 9,000 packed the municipal course. Admittance was free for the first time since the tournament started 26 years ago.

Earnings Hit $15,072.50

The $2,000 first prize money brought Snead's PGA earnings this year to $15,072.50, to make him the sixth highest money winning pro in the nation. Harper and Harrison each received $1,200.

Snead's score for the four-day tournament was 64-68-68-68—268 compared to Harper's 69-64-74—273.

Slammin' Sammy outdrove Harper off the tees and when his putter started working properly on the back nine he was unbeatable.

Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., came in fourth with 274.

Doug Ford, Harrison, N. Y., and Al Brosh, Garden City, N. Y., posted 277.

Charles, Maxim, Cartier, Gavilan Fight This Week

Bouts Set Wednesday And Friday Nights

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—The fifth chapter in the Ezzard Charles-Joey Maxim saga and a meeting of two aspiring middleweights with long victory strings, welterweight champ Kid Gavilan and Walter Cartier, highlight this week's boxing program.

The Charles-Maxim series, which began in 1942 and ranks as one of the oldest in ring annals in point of time, will be enacted this time in San Francisco over 12 rounds. It is their first meeting since last May 30, when Charles, the then heavyweight champ, won his fourth straight decision over the Cleveland light heavyweight champion.

Maxim's light heavy crown will not be at stake in the Wednesday bout, which will be broadcast and telecast by CBS (10 p. m., EST).

Both Gavilan and Cartier regard their Friday night date at Madison Square Garden as a chance to sew up a middleweight title bout against Sugar Ray Robinson.

Gavilan, with 14 straight bouts, without a defeat, still wants a chance to reverse Robinson's 1949 decision over him for the welterweight crown. Cartier, who'll be going after his 21st successive win, is unbeaten since 1948 and has made his best fights this year, including a victory over Eugene Hairston when he got up off the floor to win. The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC.

Two high-ranking contenders to Maxim's light heavy crown also see action this week. Archie Moore of Cleveland meets Harold Johnson of Philadelphia in a Milwaukee 10-rounder Monday night, and Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle takes on heavyweight Art Henri of New York in a 10-round bout at Omaha. Matthews started a heavyweight campaign last week with a victory over Danny Nardico of Tampa, Fla.

Walker's Pass Gives Detroit 24-22 Victory

Win In Final Minute; Waterfield Boots 5 Field Goals For Rams

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9. (INS)—Doak Walker, the Texas phantom, threw a clutch 22-yard touchdown pass to end Leon Hart with two minutes left to play to give the Detroit Lions a hectic 24 to 22 victory over the Los Angeles Rams today.

A crowd of 67,892 rocked Memorial Colesium when, with time running out, Walker threw his only pass of the game and connected with the elephantine Hart in the end zone.

The Lions' victory spurted them into first place in the National Conference of the National Football League and put them in a nice spot to enter the playoffs against the tough Cleveland Brown club.

The Rams dropped the crucial tilt despite a fantastic kicking exhibition by Quarterback Bob Waterfield, who established a new league record with five field goals, breaking Paddy Driscoll's old mark of four. Driscoll drop kicked his three pointers in 1925.

Waterfield's kicks were 17, 40, 39, 20 and 25 yards.

The Rams' other scoring came on a two-yard plunge by Dan Towler and a conversion by Waterfield.

The Lions broke into the scoring column when Pat Harder kicked a 33-yard field goal in the second quarter. Other Lion scoring came on a three-yard touchdown plunge by Harder in the second quarter and on an 11-yard dash by Walker in the third period. Walker converted after each of the Lions' three touchdowns.

Chicago Keeps Slim Title Hopes Alive

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (INS) —The Chicago Bears kept their slim National Conference hopes alive today when they blasted the New York Yanks, 45 to 21, before 9,855 fans at Yankee Stadium.

Johnny Lujack paced the Chicago attack, racking up three of their six touchdowns on quarterback sneaks. Two of these came in the second period when Chicago clinched the game with three td's, after George Blanda had booted a field goal for the only points of the first period.

Lujack also completed 11 of 20 passes for 126 yards, including one touchdown heave.

Bob Celeri of the Yanks completed 11 of 22 passes for 202 yards, two for touchdowns.

The Bears gained 339 yards on the ground and were led by Julie Rykovich, who gained 95 yards in 13 attempts.

Cleveland Defeats Steelers, 28-0, Cop Conference Title

NFL Champs Capture 10th Game In Row

Graham Tosses 15th Touchdown Pass In Rout Of Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9 (INS) — Those perennial champion Cleveland Browns stormed to their second straight American Conference title today by thrashing the Pittsburgh Steelers, 28 to 0, before 24,229 fans.

The defending National Football League kingpins wrapped up their division honors with their tenth win of the season. The Browns, beaten only once, have one more game to play.

Then they will meet the National Conference winner in the pro league title game Dec. 23.

Pittsburgh's stonewall line managed to thwart the Browns in the opening period but the power-packed Clevelanders broke through for three touchdowns in the second period and a fourth in the last period.

Ken Carpenter started the scoring parade with a 24-yard steam roller in which he blasted his way through four Steeler defenders. A poor Pittsburgh kick, which went out of bounds on the Steeler 21, set up the second score, an eight-yard bull by Marion Motley.

Just before the half ended Otto Graham passed eight yards to Dante Lavelli for a third touchdown. It was Graham's 15th touchdown heave of the season.

Carl Taseff rambled around end for three yards and the final Cleveland score in the last period.

Price Gains 171 Yards For Winners

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9. (INS)—The New York Giants won the battle but lost the war to the Cleveland Browns today as they defeated the Philadelphia Eagles, 23 to 7, in a National Football League game at Shibe Park before 19,322 fans.

Big guns in the Giants win over the Eagles were Ray Poole and Eddie Price. Poole booted three field goals (41 yards, 31 yards and 14 yards) and two extra points to account for eleven points.

Price, who gobbled up 171 yards in 27 attempts to set a new Giant offensive mark for a season, electrified the crowd in the second period with a brilliant 80-yard touchdown jaunt.

Philadelphia had gone into a 7-0 lead just previously. An interception by Pete Pihos set the Eagles up on the New York 47. Adrian Burk's pass to Pihos put the Eagles on the three and Steve Van Buren bulled over from the one yard line. Bob Walston converted.

Poole's conversion and subsequent 41-yard three-pointer gave the Giants a halftime margin of 10-7.

Forty-Niners Rally To Beat Packers

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9. (INS)—A pair of fourth period touchdowns gave the San Francisco 49ers a 31 to 19 win today over the Green Bay Packers.

The crowd of 18,621 at Kezar Stadium sat through an afternoon of near-freezing temperatures to see the 49ers keep alive a slim mathematical chance for a tie in the National Conference of the National Football League.

For the 49ers to get a tie they must beat the Lions next Sunday and at the same time the Rams must lose to the Packers—and the Chicago Bears must drop their final tilt next Sunday to the Chicago Cardinals.

Collegiate Cage Powers Triumph Over Week-end

Irish, Duke, Kansas, Kentucky Are Victors

By RIP WATSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Basketballs bounded all over the country last night as the college cage season swung into high gear with more than 200 games played.

St. John's of Brooklyn, Kentucky, Duke, Notre Dame, St. Louis, Kansas, Kansas State and the Big 10 powers, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa — who threaten to make a Three-I league out of the conference race—all won impressively.

Scores ranged from Houston's 38-29 victory over Texas A & M to Taylor's 99-56 win over Huntington in an Indiana game. Close behind Taylor in scoring were Kentucky's defending NCAA champions, who rolled over poor Washington & Lee, 96-46, in their opening game.

Spivey Misses Game

Playing without All-America Bill Spivey, the Wildcats built up a 47-17 advantage at the half and let the subs coast in from there. Lou Tsioropoulos led the scorers with 22 points.

Some 13,467 fans turned out to see St. John's chalk up its third straight with a 69-52 workout over Washington & Jefferson and NYU win its sixth straight by downing Temple, 87-63.

The Violets restricted Temple's Bill Mlkvy, who averaged 29 points a game last year, to only 11 and were in command after piling in 18 points in five minutes for a 36-24 lead in the second quarter.

A faulty clock, which allowed for an extra-long first quarter, helped build up the score in Villanova's 94-86 victory over St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., before 3,326 at the Philadelphia Palestra. But it was freshman Bob Schaffer who helped Villanova most of all. Schaffer entered the game in the second quarter with the Wildcats faltering and set the pace the rest of the way, winding up with 25 points.

Penn edged Maryland, 53-52, in the second game after gaining a 49-48 advantage on Tom Holt's foul and holding the lead.

At Buffalo's Auditorium, Texas Christian fast broke Canisius into a 67-55 defeat and Brigham Young bounced back from its St. John's loss to defeat Niagara, 53-48. TCU sprinted to a 23-9 early lead and was never headed, while BYU finished strong after being tied at 22-all at the half.

Groat Scores 25 Points

Dick Groat continued to set a hot scoring pace, flipping in 25 points as the Blue Devils walloped Bradley, 87-69, before 6,000 at Durham, N. C. Besides his scoring, which included 13 points in the decisive fourth quarter, Groat had 11 assists on teammates' baskets.

Kansas State ended Arizona's home court winning streak at 81 with a 76-57 triumph to hand the Westerners their first home loss since 1945. Iowa, however, stretched its home court winning record against non-conference foes to 53 by whipping Depauw, 69-53. Chuck Darling, 6-8 center, dropped in 16 points playing only half the game as the Hawkeyes used 18 players.

Indiana, meanwhile, got rolling in the second half to defeat Xavier of Cincinnati, 92-69, and Illinois, defending Big 10 champs, won its opening game over Butler, 68-57. Don Schlundt, Indiana's 6-9 freshman, made 16 points in eight minutes, and Illinois' Bob Peterson, an inch shorter, made four out of six field goal tries and four out of five foul shots during the Illini second quarter. He wound up with 14 for the game.

Aggies Hard Pressed

Oklahoma A & M and Holy Cross never did get rolling. The Aggies had to come from behind to tie New Mexico A & M, 41-all at the end of the regulation game. They hung on for a 45-43 double overtime win. Holy Cross had almost as much trouble solving American International's zone defense before penetrating it often enough in the last five minutes for a 61-40 victory.

The St. Louis Billikens used 19 players in a 74-45 hiding of Southern Methodist before 7,278 St. Louis fans. The Billiken first stringers left the game with a 46-23 margin.

Notre Dame looked good in its 63-53 win over Wisconsin, controlling the backboards and passing smoothly, and Kansas was just as impressive in rolling over Denver, 84-53 for a new school scoring record. Clyde Lovellette, the Jayhawks' 6-9 center, dumped in 24 points, but Dale Toft, Denver's center, broke away from him for baskets several times and wound up with 19 points before fouling out with about seven minutes to go.

The most exciting finish was staged in Toledo's 45-44 win over Cincinnati in the finals of the Mid-America conference tourney. John Pazdzior let fly with the winning set shot 11 seconds before the end.

Nationally Known Badminton Stars Will Give Exhibition Here Tonight

Public Is Invited To Fort Hill Gym

Four nationally known badminton players will give a free exhibition and clinic tonight, at 8 o'clock, in the Fort Hill School gymnasium, under the auspices of the Cumberland badminton Association and the Frostburg Badminton club.

Among the four players will be Mrs. Clinton "Patsy" Stephens, one of the leading women players in the United States. She has held national championships, including the New York, New Jersey, Ohio, and Maryland state titles.

Mrs. Stephens and her husband a few years ago won the world's mixed doubles championship in a badminton tournament held in the Harringway Arena, London, England.

Mr. Stephens who has held many national singles titles may not be able to be here tonight with his wife. If not, two other well known Baltimore players will be here along with Mr. Frank Roberts, the "Father of Maryland Badminton", who has held numerous titles and given many exhibitions and clinics in the United States and Canada.

The public is invited to the exhibition and to take advantage of the expert coaching and demonstrations as to the best way to play the game.

Redskins Top Cards, 20-17

Dudley's Field Goal Margin Of Victory

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (INS) — Bill Dudley kicked an 18-yard field goal in the last 15 seconds of play today and handed the Washington Redskins a 20 to 17 victory over the Chicago Cardinals.

Dudley's second three-pointer in the National Football League game in Chicago broke a 17 to 17 deadlock in a hardfought battle before 9,459 fans at Comiskey Park. The Cards had tied the game on a fourth quarter 17-yard field goal by Cliff Patton.

Chicago led at the half, 14 to 10. The Cards marched 41 yards for their first touchdown in the first quarter, with Don Paul running for the score from the Redskins' 14-yard marker.

Dudley gave Washington three points when he kicked a 36-yard field goal in the same period.

The Redskins went ahead, 10 to 7, late in the quarter when the veteran Sammy Baugh passed for an eight-yard touchdown to Joe Tereshinski.

Then in the second period Jim Hardy passed to Fran Polsfoot for another Cardinal touchdown.

On the first play of the fourth period the Redskins' Bob Goode, the league's leading ground gainer, ploughed over for a touchdown from the three. Goode picked up 108 yards in 23 carries and now has a season total of 844 yards.

Post-Season Games Banned By Big Seven

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 9 (AP)—In a drastic, far-reaching move the big seven conference today placed a ban on all post-season athletic events and applied new restrictions aimed at removing overemphasis from intercollegiate sports.

The announcement of the actions came shortly after noon here today after two and a half days of deliberations which included the university presidents and athletic directors.

The ban on post-season competition of the seven member schools will become effective September 1, 1952. In other words, the current school year is not affected. The Big Seven has no team in a football bowl this time, but does have a chance of landing a representative in the N.C.A.A. basketball play-offs next March.

As it stands the ruling would affect even the N.C.A.A. events such as basketball, track, or any event occurring after the close of the regular season. It is believed, however, that the Big Seven faculty might amend its restriction later on. The N.C.A.A. currently is conducting a study of all post-season events, including its own, and probably will make a report at the national meeting in Cincinnati next month.

Thorpe Gets $1,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (INS)—Jim Thorpe, former great Indian athlete who has been down on his luck, today received a check for $1,000 from George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues. The check is part of the proceeds being raised in a worldwide appeal on Thorpe's behalf.

Trautman forwarded to Thorpe $300 last week, followed with the $1000 today and said money is coming in from everywhere since a "let's everybody chip in a dollar" campaign was started.

Charles Passarell's lay-up shot in the closing minutes of an overtime period enabled St. Michael's of Frostburg to score its fifth consecutive win of the season over SS. Peter and Paul yesterday in the Mountain City. The score was 32-30.

The victory gave Coach Father Regis Larkin's quint a lead of two full games in the Knights of Columbus Youth Basketball League's first half championship race. Four more games remain on the schedule.

SS. Peter and Paul held a 9-4 lead at the quarter and was in front 16-15 at intermission. The score was knotted at 21-all when the third period ended.

Proud meshed one of two free throws, tying the score at 27-27 as the regulation game ended. In the overtime period, Passarell's goal and Roberts' free throw gave St. Michael's a 30-27 advantage. After Fair tossed in a fielder and foul to tie it up at 30-30, Passarell shot the winning basket.

Mike Collins of SS. Peter and Paul paced the scorers with 14 points while Passarell led St. Michael's with an even dozen. Jimmy Struntz played an outstanding floor game.

In a Sunday game on SS. Peter and Paul court, St. Patrick's took the measure of St. Mary's by the score of 32-27. Buzzard was the leading scorer, accounting for 19 of the winners' points. Lineups:

Starkey Whips One Of 13 Martinezes

There are thirteen Martinezes boxing professionally, according to Nat Fleischer's "Ring Record Book" and Randall "Skeets" Starkey, Wiley Ford, W. Va., light-heavy, whipped one of them Friday night in a six-round prelim at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Starkey, scaling 172, decisioned Angel Martinez, 177½, of Newark, N. J., on the Paddy DeMarco-Sandy Saddler card before a disappointing crowd of 5,635. It was "Skeets" first outing since he was kayoed by Harold Sampson, of New Jersey, last June at Penn Avenue Field.

Martinez, who has been fighting since 1948, has engaged in 23 bouts in the past three years, winning nine and losing 14.

Thursday: 8:00 — Cumberland Legion vs. Elks. 9:00 — Ridgeley Legion vs. C.&P. Telephone Company.

Nabbed By Garrett Wardens; 879 Bucks Die In Region No. 1

Apprehended while dressing a doe in the woods near Harrington Manor in Garrett county, Saturday night, six men—two from Frederick and four from Oakland—were convicted and fined $100 and costs each by Trial Magistrate W. O. Bitzer at Oakland, it was announced yesterday by Joseph A. Minke, Regional game warden.

Minke stated that the arrests were made by Game Wardens Leo Friend and Arden Ricketts.

Sextet Pays $600

The sextet who paid fines totaling $600 were Henry J. Bourgeinos and John Landis, Jr., Frederick; Harold E. Edge, John O'Haver, Henry Uphold and Robert King, all of Oakland.

Two others charged with killing illegal deer will be arraigned in Allegany county and one in Washington county within the next few days, Minke said.

Seven have been charged with having loaded guns in their cars and a few Washingtonians have been charged with hunting with improper licenses.

Considering the fact that 10,000 or more hunters were in the woods in Region No. 1 during the six-day deer season, which ended Saturday, the violation score was considered light. Less than 40 illegal deer kills were reported over the entire Western Maryland area.

Past Records Shattered

The deer kill for Region No. 1 totaled 879 which is an all-time record, according to the regional game warden. New marks were established in all three counties in the district.

Garrett led with 566 kills which is 49 better than the previous record of 517 set in 1946. Allegany county's total was 207, which tipped the former record of 201 set in 1948 by six. Washington county's 106 was eight above the record 98 of 1950.

The small game season which was suspended during the deer season will be resumed today and will continue through Monday, December 31.

Snead Wins Miami Open Golf Title

Sammy Posts 268 And Earns $2,000

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 9 (AP) —Slammin' Sammy Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., pro, won the $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament today with a brilliant five-stroke victory over Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va.

Snead, who carded 268, was one stroke behind Harper at the start of the final 18 holes of the four-day 72-hole tournament.

"I guess I was very lucky," Snead said. "I started out fine and then slumped a bit, but a 40-foot putt on the 10th turned the tide."

Snead was 12 under par for the four days of play over the 6,510-yard Miami Springs Municipal Golf Course.

Snead's 40-foot putt on the 10th really turned the tide. Harper posted a one over par five on the hole and then slumped badly. He completed the back nine in 39, four over par, while Snead was two under.

Harper Ties Harrison

They had been all even at the end of the first nine holes today.

Harper's 273 gave him a second place tie with E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, of St. Andrews, Ill., who also posted 273.

The victory was the second straight in this tournament for Snead, who has a home in Miami. He won last year with 267.

A record crowd, estimated at 9,000 packed the municipal course. Admittance was free for the first time since the tournament started 26 years ago.

Earnings Hit $15,072.50

The $2,000 first prize money brought Snead's PGA earnings this year to $15,072.50, to make him the sixth highest money winning pro in the nation. Harper and Harrison each received $1,200.

Snead's score for the four-day tournament was 64-68-68-68—268 compared to Harper's 69-64-74—273.

Slammin' Sammy outdrove Harper off the tees and when his putter started working properly on the back nine he was unbeatable.

Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., came in fourth with 274.

Doug Ford, Harrison, N. Y., and Al Brosh, Garden City, N. Y., posted 277.

Mounties Play G.W.U.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 9—Two clubs that have yet to taste defeat in the young season, West Virginia and George Washington, clash Tuesday night at Uline Arena in Washington, D. C.

George Washington edged Virginia 62-60 in its opener last Friday night, while the Mountaineers handily defeated Wesleyan 72-41 and Virginia Tech 78-53.

Charles, Maxim, Cartier, Gavilan Fight This Week

Bouts Set Wednesday And Friday Nights

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—The fifth chapter in the Ezzard Charles-Joey Maxim saga and a meeting of two aspiring middleweights with long victory strings, welterweight champ Kid Gavilan and Walter Cartier, highlight this week's boxing program.

The Charles-Maxim series, which began in 1942 and ranks as one of the oldest in ring annals in point of time, will be enacted this time in San Francisco over 12 rounds. It is their first meeting since last May 30, when Charles, the then heavyweight champ, won his fourth straight decision over the Cleveland light heavyweight champion.

Maxim's light heavy crown will not be at stake in the Wednesday bout, which will be broadcast and telecast by CBS (10 p. m., EST).

Both Gavilan and Cartier regard their Friday night date at Madison Square Garden as a chance to sew up a middleweight title bout against Sugar Ray Robinson.

Gavilan, with 14 straight bouts, without a defeat, still wants a chance to reverse Robinson's 1949 decision over him for the welterweight crown. Cartier, who'll be going after his 21st successive win, is unbeaten since 1948 and has made his best fights this year, including a victory over Eugene Hairston when he got up off the floor to win. The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC.

Two high-ranking contenders to Maxim's light heavy crown also see action this week. Archie Moore of Cleveland meets Harold Johnson of Philadelphia in a Milwaukee 10-rounder Monday night, and Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle takes on heavyweight Art Henri of New York in a 10-round bout at Omaha. Matthews started a heavyweight campaign last week with a victory over Danny Nardico of Tampa, Fla.

Walker's Pass Gives Detroit 24-22 Victory

Win In Final Minute; Waterfield Boots 5 Field Goals For Rams

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9. (INS)—Doak Walker, the Texas phantom, threw a clutch 22-yard touchdown pass to end Leon Hart with two minutes left to play to give the Detroit Lions a hectic 24 to 22 victory over the Los Angeles Rams today.

A crowd of 67,892 rocked Memorial Colesium when, with time running out, Walker threw his only pass of the game and connected with the elephantine Hart in the end zone.

The Lions' victory spurted them into first place in the National Conference of the National Football League and put them in a nice spot to enter the playoffs against the tough Cleveland Brown club.

The Rams dropped the crucial tilt despite a fantastic kicking exhibition by Quarterback Bob Waterfield, who established a new league record with five field goals, breaking Paddy Driscoll's old mark of four. Driscoll drop kicked his three pointers in 1925.

Waterfield's kicks were 17, 40, 39, 20 and 25 yards.

The Rams' other scoring came on a two-yard plunge by Dan Towler and a conversion by Waterfield.

The Lions broke into the scoring column when Pat Harder kicked a 33-yard field goal in the second quarter. Other Lion scoring came on a three-yard touchdown plunge by Harder in the second quarter and on an 11-yard dash by Walker in the third period. Walker converted after each of the Lions' three touchdowns.

Chicago Keeps Slim Title Hopes Alive

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (INS) —The Chicago Bears kept their slim National Conference hopes alive today when they blasted the New York Yanks, 45 to 21, before 9,855 fans at Yankee Stadium.

Johnny Lujack paced the Chicago attack, racking up three of their six touchdowns on quarterback sneaks. Two of these came in the second period when Chicago clinched the game with three td's, after George Blanda had booted a field goal for the only points of the first period.

Lujack also completed 11 of 20 passes for 126 yards, including one touchdown heave.

Bob Celeri of the Yanks completed 11 of 22 passes for 202 yards, two for touchdowns.

The Bears gained 339 yards on the ground and were led by Julie Rykovich, who gained 95 yards in 13 attempts.

Cleveland Defeats Steelers, 28-0, Cop Conference Title

NFL Champs Capture 10th Game In Row

Graham Tosses 15th Touchdown Pass In Rout Of Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9 (INS) — Those perennial champion Cleveland Browns stormed to their second straight American Conference title today by thrashing the Pittsburgh Steelers, 28 to 0, before 24,229 fans.

The defending National Football League kingpins wrapped up their division honors with their tenth win of the season. The Browns, beaten only once, have one more game to play.

Then they will meet the National Conference winner in the pro league title game Dec. 23.

Pittsburgh's stonewall line managed to thwart the Browns in the opening period but the power-packed Clevelanders broke through for three touchdowns in the second period and a fourth in the last period.

Ken Carpenter started the scoring parade with a 24-yard steam roller in which he blasted his way through four Steeler defenders. A poor Pittsburgh kick, which went out of bounds on the Steeler 21, set up the second score, an eight-yard bull by Marion Motley.

Just before the half ended Otto Graham passed eight yards to Dante Lavelli for a third touchdown. It was Graham's 15th touchdown heave of the season.

Carl Taseff rambled around end for three yards and the final Cleveland score in the last period.

Price Gains 171 Yards For Winners

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9. (INS)—The New York Giants won the battle but lost the war to the Cleveland Browns today as they defeated the Philadelphia Eagles, 23 to 7, in a National Football League game at Shibe Park before 19,322 fans.

Big guns in the Giants win over the Eagles were Ray Poole and Eddie Price. Poole booted three field goals (41 yards, 31 yards and 14 yards) and two extra points to account for eleven points.

Price, who gobbled up 171 yards in 27 attempts to set a new Giant offensive mark for a season, electrified the crowd in the second period with a brilliant 80-yard touchdown jaunt.

Philadelphia had gone into a 7-0 lead just previously. An interception by Pete Pihos set the Eagles up on the New York 47. Adrian Burk's pass to Pihos put the Eagles on the three and Steve Van Buren bulled over from the one yard line. Bob Walston converted.

Poole's conversion and subsequent 41-yard three-pointer gave the Giants a halftime margin of 10-7.

Forty-Niners Rally To Beat Packers

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9. (INS)—A pair of fourth period touchdowns gave the San Francisco 49ers a 31 to 19 win today over the Green Bay Packers.

The crowd of 18,621 at Kezar Stadium sat through an afternoon of near-freezing temperatures to see the 49ers keep alive a slim mathematical chance for a tie in the National Conference of the National Football League.

For the 49ers to get a tie they must beat the Lions next Sunday and at the same time the Rams must lose to the Packers—and the Chicago Bears must drop their final tilt next Sunday to the Chicago Cardinals.

McGeady's 600 Is High For Year In K-C Loop

Tom McGeady posted a season's record of 600 for three games in the Knights of Columbus Bowling League yesterday as the Chancellors swept three games from the Recorders in the Club Recreation alleys.

McGeady's total included a 224 single game, who was also high for the day.

Collegiate Cage Powers Triumph Over Week-end

Irish, Duke, Kansas, Kentucky Are Victors

By RIP WATSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—Basketballs bounded all over the country last night as the college cage season swung into high gear with more than 200 games played.

St. John's of Brooklyn, Kentucky, Duke, Notre Dame, St. Louis, Kansas, Kansas State and the Big 10 powers, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa — who threaten to make a Three-I league out of the conference race—all won impressively.

Scores ranged from Houston's 38-29 victory over Texas A & M to Taylor's 99-56 win over Huntington in an Indiana game. Close behind Taylor in scoring were Kentucky's defending NCAA champions, who rolled over poor Washington & Lee, 96-46, in their opening game.

Spivey Misses Game

Playing without All-America Bill Spivey, the Wildcats built up a 47-17 advantage at the half and let the subs coast in from there. Lou Tsioropoulos led the scorers with 22 points.

Some 13,467 fans turned out to see St. John's chalk up its third straight with a 69-52 workout over Washington & Jefferson and NYU win its sixth straight by downing Temple, 87-63.

The Violets restricted Temple's Bill Mlkvy, who averaged 29 points a game last year, to only 11 and were in command after piling in 18 points in five minutes for a 36-24 lead in the second quarter.

A faulty clock, which allowed for an extra-long first quarter, helped build up the score in Villanova's 94-86 victory over St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., before 3,326 at the Philadelphia Palestra. But it was freshman Bob Schaffer who helped Villanova most of all. Schaffer entered the game in the second quarter with the Wildcats faltering and set the pace the rest of the way, winding up with 25 points.

Penn edged Maryland, 53-52, in the second game after gaining a 49-48 advantage on Tom Holt's foul and holding the lead.

At Buffalo's Auditorium, Texas Christian fast broke Canisius into a 67-55 defeat and Brigham Young bounced back from its St. John's loss to defeat Niagara, 53-48. TCU sprinted to a 23-9 early lead and was never headed, while BYU finished strong after being tied at 22-all at the half.

Groat Scores 25 Points

Dick Groat continued to set a hot scoring pace, flipping in 25 points as the Blue Devils walloped Bradley, 87-69, before 6,000 at Durham, N. C. Besides his scoring, which included 13 points in the decisive fourth quarter, Groat had 11 assists on teammates' baskets.

Kansas State ended Arizona's home court winning streak at 81 with a 76-57 triumph to hand the Westerners their first home loss since 1945. Iowa, however, stretched its home court winning record against non-conference foes to 53 by whipping Depauw, 69-53. Chuck Darling, 6-8 center, dropped in 16 points playing only half the game as the Hawkeyes used 18 players.

Indiana, meanwhile, got rolling in the second half to defeat Xavier of Cincinnati, 92-69, and Illinois, defending Big 10 champs, won its opening game over Butler, 68-57. Don Schlundt, Indiana's 6-9 freshman, made 16 points in eight minutes, and Illinois' Bob Peterson, an inch shorter, made four out of six field goal tries and four out of five foul shots during the Illini second quarter. He wound up with 14 for the game.

Aggies Hard Pressed

Oklahoma A & M and Holy Cross never did get rolling. The Aggies had to come from behind to tie New Mexico A & M, 41-all at the end of the regulation game. They hung on for a 45-43 double overtime win. Holy Cross had almost as much trouble solving American International's zone defense before penetrating it often enough in the last five minutes for a 61-40 victory.

The St. Louis Billikens used 19 players in a 74-45 hiding of Southern Methodist before 7,278 St. Louis fans. The Billiken first stringers left the game with a 46-23 margin.

Notre Dame looked good in its 63-53 win over Wisconsin, controlling the backboards and passing smoothly, and Kansas was just as impressive in rolling over Denver, 84-53 for a new school scoring record. Clyde Lovellette, the Jayhawks' 6-9 center, dumped in 24 points, but Dale Toft, Denver's center, broke away from him for baskets several times and wound up with 19 points before fouling out with about seven minutes to go.

The most exciting finish was staged in Toledo's 45-44 win over Cincinnati in the finals of the Mid-America conference tourney. John Pazdzior let fly with the winning set shot 11 seconds before the end.

Nationally Known Badminton Stars Will Give Exhibition Here Tonight

Public Is Invited To Fort Hill Gym

Four nationally known badminton players will give a free exhibition and clinic tonight, at 8 o'clock, in the Fort Hill School gymnasium, under the auspices of the Cumberland badminton Association and the Frostburg Badminton club.

Among the four players will be Mrs. Clinton "Patsy" Stephens, one of the leading women players in the United States. She has held national championships, including the New York, New Jersey, Ohio, and Maryland state titles.

Mrs. Stephens and her husband a few years ago won the world's mixed doubles championship in a badminton tournament held in the Harringway Arena, London, England.

Mr. Stephens who has held many national singles titles may not be able to be here tonight with his wife. If not, two other well known Baltimore players will be here along with Mr. Frank Roberts, the "Father of Maryland Badminton", who has held numerous titles and given many exhibitions and clinics in the United States and Canada.

The public is invited to the exhibition and to take advantage of the expert coaching and demonstrations as to the best way to play the game.

Redskins Top Cards, 20-17

Dudley's Field Goal Margin Of Victory

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (INS) — Bill Dudley kicked an 18-yard field goal in the last 15 seconds of play today and handed the Washington Redskins a 20 to 17 victory over the Chicago Cardinals.

Dudley's second three-pointer in the National Football League game in Chicago broke a 17 to 17 deadlock in a hardfought battle before 9,459 fans at Comiskey Park. The Cards had tied the game on a fourth quarter 17-yard field goal by Cliff Patton.

Chicago led at the half, 14 to 10. The Cards marched 41 yards for their first touchdown in the first quarter, with Don Paul running for the score from the Redskins' 14-yard marker.

Dudley gave Washington three points when he kicked a 36-yard field goal in the same period.

The Redskins went ahead, 10 to 7, late in the quarter when the veteran Sammy Baugh passed for an eight-yard touchdown to Joe Tereshinski.

Then in the second period Jim Hardy passed to Fran Polsfoot for another Cardinal touchdown.

On the first play of the fourth period the Redskins' Bob Goode, the league's leading ground gainer, ploughed over for a touchdown from the three. Goode picked up 108 yards in 23 carries and now has a season total of 844 yards.

Post-Season Games Banned By Big Seven

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 9 (AP)—In a drastic, far-reaching move the big seven conference today placed a ban on all post-season athletic events and applied new restrictions aimed at removing overemphasis from intercollegiate sports.

The announcement of the actions came shortly after noon here today after two and a half days of deliberations which included the university presidents and athletic directors.

The ban on post-season competition of the seven member schools will become effective September 1, 1952. In other words, the current school year is not affected. The Big Seven has no team in a football bowl this time, but does have a chance of landing a representative in the N.C.A.A. basketball play-offs next March.

As it stands the ruling would affect even the N.C.A.A. events such as basketball, track, or any event occurring after the close of the regular season. It is believed, however, that the Big Seven faculty might amend its restriction later on. The N.C.A.A. currently is conducting a study of all post-season events, including its own, and probably will make a report at the national meeting in Cincinnati next month.

Thorpe Gets $1,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (INS)—Jim Thorpe, former great Indian athlete who has been down on his luck, today received a check for $1,000 from George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues. The check is part of the proceeds being raised in a worldwide appeal on Thorpe's behalf.

Trautman forwarded to Thorpe $300 last week, followed with the $1000 today and said money is coming in from everywhere since a "let's everybody chip in a dollar" campaign was started.

Charles Passarell's lay-up shot in the closing minutes of an overtime period enabled St. Michael's of Frostburg to score its fifth consecutive win of the season over SS. Peter and Paul yesterday in the Mountain City. The score was 32-30.

The victory gave Coach Father Regis Larkin's quint a lead of two full games in the Knights of Columbus Youth Basketball League's first half championship race. Four more games remain on the schedule.

SS. Peter and Paul held a 9-4 lead at the quarter and was in front 16-15 at intermission. The score was knotted at 21-all when the third period ended.

Proud meshed one of two free throws, tying the score at 27-27 as the regulation game ended. In the overtime period, Passarell's goal and Roberts' free throw gave St. Michael's a 30-27 advantage. After Fair tossed in a fielder and foul to tie it up at 30-30, Passarell shot the winning basket.

Mike Collins of SS. Peter and Paul paced the scorers with 14 points while Passarell led St. Michael's with an even dozen. Jimmy Struntz played an outstanding floor game.

In a Sunday game on SS. Peter and Paul court, St. Patrick's took the measure of St. Mary's by the score of 32-27. Buzzard was the leading scorer, accounting for 19 of the winners' points. Lineups:

Starkey Whips One Of 13 Martinezes

There are thirteen Martinezes boxing professionally, according to Nat Fleischer's "Ring Record Book" and Randall "Skeets" Starkey, Wiley Ford, W. Va., light-heavy, whipped one of them Friday night in a six-round prelim at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Starkey, scaling 172, decisioned Angel Martinez, 177½, of Newark, N. J., on the Paddy DeMarco-Sandy Saddler card before a disappointing crowd of 5,635. It was "Skeets" first outing since he was kayoed by Harold Sampson, of New Jersey, last June at Penn Avenue Field.

Martinez, who has been fighting since 1948, has engaged in 23 bouts in the past three years, winning nine and losing 14.

Legion Plays 40 & 8 For YMCA Loop Lead

First place in the YMCA Senior Men's Basketball League will be at stake tonight when the Forty and Eight Club, defending champions, battle the Cumberland Legion in the second game of a twin bill on the "Y" court at 8 p. m.

Each team has won two games and lost none.

In the opener, the B.P.O. Elks play the Ridgeley Legion at 8 o'clock.

Other games this week are:

Wednesday: 8:30 — Forty and Eight vs. C.&P. Telephone Company. 9:30—Cumberland Legion vs. Ridgeley Legion.

Thursday: 8:00 — Cumberland Legion vs. Elks. 9:00 — Ridgeley Legion vs. C.&P. Telephone Company.

Nabbed By Garrett Wardens; 879 Bucks Die In Region No. 1

Apprehended while dressing a doe in the woods near Harrington Manor in Garrett county, Saturday night, six men—two from Frederick and four from Oakland—were convicted and fined $100 and costs each by Trial Magistrate W. O. Bitzer at Oakland, it was announced yesterday by Joseph A. Minke, Regional game warden.

Minke stated that the arrests were made by Game Wardens Leo Friend and Arden Ricketts.

Sextet Pays $600

The sextet who paid fines totaling $600 were Henry J. Bourgeinos and John Landis, Jr., Frederick; Harold E. Edge, John O'Haver, Henry Uphold and Robert King, all of Oakland.

Two others charged with killing illegal deer will be arraigned in Allegany county and one in Washington county within the next few days, Minke said.

Seven have been charged with having loaded guns in their cars and a few Washingtonians have been charged with hunting with improper licenses.

Considering the fact that 10,000 or more hunters were in the woods in Region No. 1 during the six-day deer season, which ended Saturday, the violation score was considered light. Less than 40 illegal deer kills were reported over the entire Western Maryland area.

Past Records Shattered

The deer kill for Region No. 1 totaled 879 which is an all-time record, according to the regional game warden. New marks were established in all three counties in the district.

Garrett led with 566 kills which is 49 better than the previous record of 517 set in 1946. Allegany county's total was 207, which tipped the former record of 201 set in 1948 by six. Washington county's 106 was eight above the record 98 of 1950.

The small game season which was suspended during the deer season will be resumed today and will continue through Monday, December 31.

Snead Wins Miami Open Golf Title

Sammy Posts 268 And Earns $2,000

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 9 (AP) —Slammin' Sammy Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., pro, won the $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament today with a brilliant five-stroke victory over Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va.

Snead, who carded 268, was one stroke behind Harper at the start of the final 18 holes of the four-day 72-hole tournament.

"I guess I was very lucky," Snead said. "I started out fine and then slumped a bit, but a 40-foot putt on the 10th turned the tide."

Snead was 12 under par for the four days of play over the 6,510-yard Miami Springs Municipal Golf Course.

Snead's 40-foot putt on the 10th really turned the tide. Harper posted a one over par five on the hole and then slumped badly. He completed the back nine in 39, four over par, while Snead was two under.

Harper Ties Harrison

They had been all even at the end of the first nine holes today.

Harper's 273 gave him a second place tie with E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, of St. Andrews, Ill., who also posted 273.

The victory was the second straight in this tournament for Snead, who has a home in Miami. He won last year with 267.

A record crowd, estimated at 9,000 packed the municipal course. Admittance was free for the first time since the tournament started 26 years ago.

Earnings Hit $15,072.50

The $2,000 first prize money brought Snead's PGA earnings this year to $15,072.50, to make him the sixth highest money winning pro in the nation. Harper and Harrison each received $1,200.

Snead's score for the four-day tournament was 64-68-68-68—268 compared to Harper's 69-64-74—273.

Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., came in fourth with 274.

Al Besselinck of Mt. Clemens, Mich., and Joe Taylor, Bristol, Tenn., shared fifth place with 275.

Doug Ford, Harrison, N. Y., and Al Brosh, Garden City, N. Y., posted 277.

Mounties Play G.W.U.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 9—Two clubs that have yet to taste defeat in the young season, West Virginia and George Washington, clash Tuesday night at Uline Arena in Washington, D. C.

George Washington edged Virginia 62-60 in its opener last Friday night, while the Mountaineers handily defeated Wesleyan 72-41 and Virginia Tech 78-53.

Walker's Pass Gives Detroit 24-22 Victory

Win In Final Minute; Waterfield Boots 5 Field Goals For Rams

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9, (INS)—Doak Walker, the Texas phantom, threw a clutch 22-yard touchdown pass to end Leon Hart with two minutes left to play to give the Detroit Lions a hectic 24 to 22 victory over the Los Angeles Rams today.

A crowd of 67,892 rocked Memorial Colesium when, with time running out, Walker threw his only pass of the game and connected with the elephantine Hart in the end zone.

The Lions' victory spurted them into first place in the National Conference of the National Football League and put them in a nice spot to enter the playoffs against the tough Cleveland Brown club.

The Rams dropped the crucial tilt despite a fantastic kicking exhibition by Quarterback Bob Waterfield, who established a new league record with five field goals, breaking Paddy Driscoll's old mark of four. Driscoll drop kicked his three pointers in 1925.

Waterfield's kicks were 17, 40, 39, 20 and 25 yards.

The Rams' other scoring came on a two-yard plunge by Dan Towler and a conversion by Waterfield.

The Lions broke into the scoring column when Pat Harder kicked a 33-yard field goal in the second quarter. Other Lion scoring came on a three-yard touchdown plunge by Harder in the second quarter and on an 11-yard dash by Walker in the third period. Walker converted after each of the Lions' three touchdowns.

Charles, Maxim, Cartier, Gavilan Fight This Week

Bouts Set Wednesday And Friday Nights

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP)—The fifth chapter in the Ezzard Charles-Joey Maxim saga and a meeting of two aspiring middleweights with long victory strings, welterweight champ Kid Gavilan and Walter Cartier, highlight this week's boxing program.

The Charles-Maxim series, which began in 1942 and ranks as one of the oldest in ring annals in point of time, will be enacted this time in San Francisco over 12 rounds. It is their first meeting since last May 30, when Charles, the then heavyweight champ, won his fourth straight decision over the Cleveland light heavyweight champion.

Maxim's light heavy crown will not be at stake in the Wednesday bout, which will be broadcast and telecast by CBS (10 p. m., EST).

Both Gavilan and Cartier regard their Friday night date at Madison Square Garden as a chance to sew up a middleweight title bout against Sugar Ray Robinson.

Gavilan, with 14 straight bouts, without a defeat, still wants a chance to reverse Robinson's 1949 decision over him for the welterweight crown. Cartier, who'll be going after his 21st successive win, is unbeaten since 1948 and has made his best fights this year, including a victory over Eugene Hairston when he got up off the floor to win. The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC.

Two high-ranking contenders to Maxim's light heavy crown also see action this week. Archie Moore of Cleveland meets Harold Johnson of Philadelphia in a Milwaukee 10-rounder Monday night, and Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle takes on heavyweight Art Henri of New York in a 10-round bout at Omaha. Matthews started a heavyweight campaign last week with a victory over Danny Nardico of Tampa, Fla.

The bald eagle was adopted as our national emblem by the Congress on June 20, 1782.

Bears Wallop Yanks, 45-21

Chicago Keeps Slim Title Hopes Alive

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (INS) —The Chicago Bears kept their slim National Conference hopes alive today when they blasted the New York Yanks, 45 to 21, before 9,855 fans at Yankee Stadium.

Johnny Lujack paced the Chicago attack, racking up three of their six touchdowns on quarterback sneaks. Two of these came in the second period when Chicago clinched the game with three td's, after George Blanda had booted a field goal for the only points of the first period.

Lujack also completed 11 of 20 passes for 126 yards, including one touchdown heave.

Bob Celeri of the Yanks completed 11 of 22 passes for 202 yards, two for touchdowns.

The Bears gained 339 yards on the ground and were led by Julie Rykovich, who gained 95 yards in 13 attempts.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Dell Irons, who departed this life 5 years ago today, December 10th, 1946.

What is home without a mother,
Of one so dearly loved by all,
But when we lost you, dearest Mother,
We lost our one and all.

A Wonderful mother, woman, and aid,
One who was better, God never made.
A wonderful worker—so loyal and true,
One in a million, that Mother was you.

For us she always did her best;
Now, Dear God, grant her eternal rest.

Sadly missed by
HER CHILDREN.

In loving memory of our dear husband and Father, Albert W. Middleton, who passed away December 10, 1948.

Though your smile has gone forever,
Your hands we cannot touch,
We will always keep the memory
Of you, Father, we loved so much.

Sadly missed by his family,
MRS. ALBERT W. MIDDLETON & FAMILY

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Dell Irons, who departed this life 5 years ago today, December 10th, 1946.

What is home without a mother,
Of one so dearly loved by all,
But when we lost you, dearest Mother,
We lost our one and all.

A Wonderful mother, woman, and aid,
One who was better, God never made.
A wonderful worker—so loyal and true,
One in a million, that Mother was you.

For us she always did her best;
Now, Dear God, grant her eternal rest.

Sadly missed by
HER CHILDREN.

In loving memory of our dear husband and Father, Albert W. Middleton, who passed away December 10, 1948.

Though your smile has gone forever,
Your hands we cannot touch,
We will always keep the memory
Of you, Father, we loved so much.

Sadly missed by his family,
MRS. ALBERT W. MIDDLETON & FAMILY

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Dell Irons, who departed this life 5 years ago today, December 10th, 1946.

What is home without a mother,
Of one so dearly loved by all,
But when we lost you, dearest Mother,
We lost our one and all.

A Wonderful mother, woman, and aid,
One who was better, God never made.
A wonderful worker—so loyal and true,
One in a million, that Mother was you.

For us she always did her best;
Now, Dear God, grant her eternal rest.

Sadly missed by
HER CHILDREN.

In loving memory of our dear husband and Father, Albert W. Middleton, who passed away December 10, 1948.

Though your smile has gone forever,
Your hands we cannot touch,
We will always keep the memory
Of you, Father, we loved so much.

Sadly missed by his family,
MRS. ALBERT W. MIDDLETON & FAMILY

QUESTIONS

1—In what sport did Thomas Stokes, R. E. Strawbridge, Eric Pedley, Stewart Iglehart and Winston Guest star?

2—Is the tug o'war considered a real sport?

HOOHEE?

HE was a star catcher for the old Baltimore Orioles and later managed a National league club to two pennants. Noted for his handling of aging pitchers, he gained the nickname of "Uncle." What was his real name?

ANSWERS

3—American.
2—Yes. It is part of the program of the Amateur Athletic Union.
1—Polo.

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (INS)—Various champions of the year already have been named and have duly received medals, plaques, cups or other bric-a-bac to attest to their skill.

There hasn't been much objection to most of the selections, except in football, in which it would be virtually impossible to get a majority of fans to agree on any one player.

One disgruntled writer gave us an idea when he wrote that "none of these bums could compare with the old timers." So we thought it might be interesting to list the various champions of 1951 with some of the oldtimers and let you draw your own conclusions.

1951 Champion: Horse—Counterpoint; Old Timers: Man O'War, Terminator, Gallant Fox.

Taken as a group, you would have to admit that the current champions can't compare with any of the old-timers.

But one of the current crop—Ben Hogan—surely is as good as any of the oldsters ever was and most golf experts agree that he is better than they ever were.

Another—Stan Musial, the Cardinals' great ace, is generally rated by baseball men, as the greatest player in the game today. Perhaps Musial is not so great as Cobb, Ruth, or Hornsby, but he would have rated right up there with them.

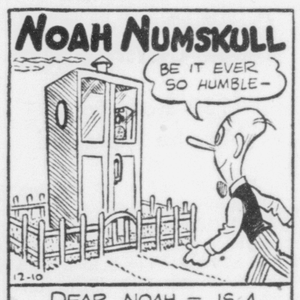

Joe Walcott, of course, can't begin to rate with any of the oldtimers. In fact, he never would have been considered more than a second-rate trial horse when Dempsey was in his prime.

The one fighter today who would have rated at least the equal of any old time champion in his class is Ray Robinson. And he did not receive the award.

Savitt is an excellent tennis player, a star in his own right, but a Tilden, Budge or Vines would have blazed him off the court.

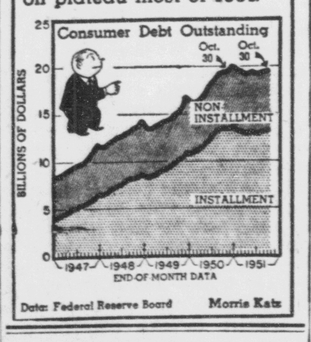

Counterpoint, king of the thoroughbreds, is a grand horse. But would you care to bet on him against Man O'War, Exterminator or Gallant Fox? At any distance? Or over any kind of a track? When you answer that, you have an easy answer.

As for Dick Kazmaier, he is undoubtedly a great player. But you can get a million dissenters if you say he is the best today. There are too many great players. As for the oldtimers, we'd still string with a Thorpe or a Nevers if we had to choose.

Davis High Wins Over Hillsboro

Tucker County Team Takes Opener, 63-36

PARSONS, W. Va., Dec. 9 — Davis High School's basketball team invaded Pocahontas county on Saturday night and opened its season with a 63-36 victory over the floormen of Hillsboro High School.

Davis, making its first start under Coach Emery Anderson, piled up a 16-4 lead in the first period and stayed in front the remainder of the game. The score was 36-12 at halftime and 55-26 at the close of the third period.

Kermit Burger and Bill Shure paced the Davis High scorers with 17 and 16 points while Raese tossed in an even dozen tallies. K. Rose accounted for 19 of the losing team's 36 markers.

Davis will play host to Bayard High School on Tuesday night. Lineups:

Washington County Legion Clubs Raided

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 9. (AP)—Raiding State Police hit the jackpot in four Washington County clubs today and drew blanks in four others as they swept the county in search of gambling violations.

The gambling raids were made at the request of State's Attorney John Holliday, of Washington County.

Police reported they found a total of 16 slot machines in American Legion clubs at Williamsport, Funkstown, Cascade and Hancock.

They found no evidences of gambling at Legion clubs in Boonsboro, Clear Spring and Sharpsburg, and the Red Men's Club at Williamsport, it was reported.

Edward Jenner, a British physician, was the discoverer of vaccination.

Diamonds Gain In City League

Take Second Place; Club Juniors Win

The Diamonds swept three games from Harbaugh's yesterday in the Men's City Bowling League to take over second place in the eight-team circuit as the league-leading Club Juniors topped the Club 2-1.

Savoy Juniors climbed out of the cellar with three victories over Tommy's, dropping the latter into the eighth slot. The fourth-place Savoy and Pepsi-Cola postponed their match.

F. Oss' 211 single game and V. Wade's 527 set paced the Diamond crew to their triumph while John Harbaugh had 203-433 for the losers.

Other high scorers were Cecil Grimes' 522 and B. King's 223 single for Club Juniors; Eddie McKay's 526 for Club; C. Miller's 197-508 for Savoy Juniors and A. Campbell's 417 and F. Kreiger's 165 for Tommy's. The standings:

1,064 Deer Slain

[By The Associated Press]

Sportsmen took advantage of an enlarged deer hunting area in Maryland this year to set a record number of kills.

As of late yesterday (Sunday), checking stations throughout the 10 counties had reported a total of 1,064, or 61 more than the previous high taken in 1948. The bag for the six day season which ended Saturday undoubtedly will go higher when complete returns are in.

Majors Reject Player Limit, Ban On Recall

Minor League High School Rule Adopted

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — The major leagues turned thumbs down on the 23 player limit and the ban on the 24-hour recall today in a joint meeting but approved the new open classification for the Pacific Coast League.

A new high school rule was adopted similar to that passed last week at Columbus by the minor leagues. The minors also approved the 24-hour recall and 23-player limit regulations.

All-Star Game July 8

Philadelphia was selected as the site of the 1952 all-star game on July 8 and it was voted to hold the major league draft in conjunction with the minor league winter meetings.

Commissioner Ford Frick, presiding over his first joint meeting, passed the decisive vote against cutting players limits from 25 to 23 men. The clubs were deadlocked at eight-eight.

The National League rule for playing off suspended games was adopted by both circuits.

Each league decided to retain its own system on playoffs of ties at the end of the season. The American now plays only one game while the National decides its pennant on the basis of best of three series.

Cleveland's proposal to require waivers in both major leagues before a player could be transferred between June 15 and Sept. 1 was defeated, 10-6.

The leagues appropriated $50,000 to the American Legion to underwrite the Legion's junior baseball program. Another $50,000 was given to the Association of Professional Ball Players of America—a benevolent organization.

Apply For Open Status

Clarence Rowland, president of the Pacific Coast League, said he will apply for open classification as soon as possible in line with the majors' action. The minors already have approved an open classification.

Rowland expects the coast circuit to operate as an open league in 1952. The open classification is a start toward elimination of the player draft, which ultimately may bring major league ball to the west coast.

If the ban on the 24-hour recall had been adopted, an optioned player would have remained in the minors for the duration of the season in which he was sent down.

Potomac, Frostburg Drop Weekend Tilts

Potomac State's Catamounts dropped an 88-64 drubbing at the hands of West Virginia Tech and Frostburg State's Bobcats were edged 58-52 by Gallaudet in games played Saturday. The losses were the second for both teams who have yet to win.

Bill Solomon sparked the Tech aggregation with 25 points in encounter at Keyser while Potomac was paced by Tom Blackwood who garnered scoring honors for the night with 30 tallies.

At Washington, Jimmy Hicks, former Fort Hill star, poured 17 points through the hoops for Frostburg but the State team was unable to overcome an early Gallaudet lead. Caswell tallied 20 markers for the winners.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can your mind make you "catch cold"?

Answer: Not unless you are exposed to the infection that causes your nose to run, your eyes to water and your spirits to sink. Arctic explorers are completely free from colds until they get back to "civilization." But the average city dweller is exposed to cold infection more or less continuously and the answer to the question of why you "catch cold" at one time rather than another seems to lie at least partly in the state of your mind. If you are overworked and "sorry for yourself," or if you are facing something which unconsciously you would like to get out of, your resistance is likely to weaken and another cold to "come on."

May sleeping pills intoxicate you?

Answer: What they call "chronic barbiturism" creates symptoms much like those of chronic alcoholism, report members of the staff of the U. S. Public Service Hospital in Lexington, Ky., a national drug addiction center. Experiments with former morphine addicts who were given enough seconal or amytal to produce "mild to severe intoxication" showed that the withdrawal of the drugs produced a psychosis similar to delirium tremens ("D. T.'s"). But the brain-wave changes brought on by the drugs lasted no more than thirty days after the patients got well, and left no visible sign of lasting damage.

Will a psychiatrist ask others about you?

Answer: That depends upon the nature of the problem for which you consult him and the type of treatment he plans. Where serious mental illness is involved, he may need to obtain a family history and get the reports of relatives. But where the problem is a personal one, and especially if you are to be psychoanalyzed, the therapist may prefer to know nothing at all about you except what he learns from his own contacts with you. Recently a psychoanalyst I know refused to treat a patient because, although he had never met him he had "heard too much about him from another patient to be able to approach him without preconceived ideas."

QUESTIONS

1—In what sport did Thomas Stokes, R. E. Strawbridge, Eric Pedley, Stewart Iglehart and Winston Guest star?

2—Is the tug o'war considered a real sport?

HOOHEE?

HE was a star catcher for the old Baltimore Orioles and later managed a National league club to two pennants. Noted for his handling of aging pitchers, he gained the nickname of "Uncle." What was his real name?

ANSWERS

3—American.
2—Yes. It is part of the program of the Amateur Athletic Union.
1—Polo.

SPORTS GRILL

by
Pat Robinson
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (INS)—Various champions of the year already have been named and have duly received medals, plaques, cups or other bric-a-bac to attest to their skill.

There hasn't been much objection to most of the selections, except in football, in which it would be virtually impossible to get a majority of fans to agree on any one player.

One disgruntled writer gave us an idea when he wrote that "none of these bums could compare with the old timers." So we thought it might be interesting to list the various champions of 1951 with some of the oldtimers and let you draw your own conclusions.

1951 Champion: Horse—Counterpoint; Old Timers: Man O'War, Terminator, Gallant Fox.

Taken as a group, you would have to admit that the current champions can't compare with any of the old-timers.

But one of the current crop—Ben Hogan—surely is as good as any of the oldsters ever was and most golf experts agree that he is better than they ever were.

Another—Stan Musial, the Cardinals' great ace, is generally rated by baseball men, as the greatest player in the game today. Perhaps Musial is not so great as Cobb, Ruth, or Hornsby, but he would have rated right up there with them.

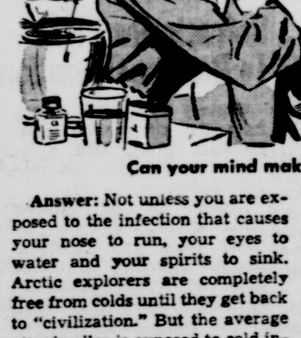

Joe Walcott, of course, can't begin to rate with any of the oldtimers. In fact, he never would have been considered more than a second-rate trial horse when Dempsey was in his prime.

The one fighter today who would have rated at least the equal of any old time champion in his class is Ray Robinson. And he did not receive the award.

Savitt is an excellent tennis player, a star in his own right, but a Tilden, Budge or Vines would have blazed him off the court.

Counterpoint, king of the thoroughbreds, is a grand horse. But would you care to bet on him against Man O'War, Exterminator or Gallant Fox? At any distance? Or over any kind of a track? When you answer that, you have an easy answer.

As for Dick Kazmaier, he is undoubtedly a great player. But you can get a million dissenters if you say he is the best today. There are too many great players. As for the oldtimers, we'd still string with a Thorpe or a Nevers if we had to choose.

Davis High Wins Over Hillsboro

Tucker County Team Takes Opener, 63-36

PARSONS, W. Va., Dec. 9 — Davis High School's basketball team invaded Pocahontas county on Saturday night and opened its season with a 63-36 victory over the floormen of Hillsboro High School.

Davis, making its first start under Coach Emery Anderson, piled up a 16-4 lead in the first period and stayed in front the remainder of the game. The score was 36-12 at halftime and 55-26 at the close of the third period.

Kermit Burger and Bill Shure paced the Davis High scorers with 17 and 16 points while Raese tossed in an even dozen tallies. K. Rose accounted for 19 of the losing team's 36 markers.

Davis will play host to Bayard High School on Tuesday night. Lineups:

Washington County Legion Clubs Raided

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 9. (AP)—Raiding State Police hit the jackpot in four Washington County clubs today and drew blanks in four others as they swept the county in search of gambling violations.

The gambling raids were made at the request of State's Attorney John Holliday, of Washington County.

Police reported they found a total of 16 slot machines in American Legion clubs at Williamsport, Funkstown, Cascade and Hancock.

They found no evidences of gambling at Legion clubs in Boonsboro, Clear Spring and Sharpsburg, and the Red Men's Club at Williamsport, it was reported.

Edward Jenner, a British physician, was the discoverer of vaccination.

Diamonds Gain In City League

Take Second Place; Club Juniors Win

The Diamonds swept three games from Harbaugh's yesterday in the Men's City Bowling League to take over second place in the eight-team circuit as the league-leading Club Juniors topped the Club 2-1.

Savoy Juniors climbed out of the cellar with three victories over Tommy's, dropping the latter into the eighth slot. The fourth-place Savoy and Pepsi-Cola postponed their match.

F. Oss' 211 single game and V. Wade's 527 set paced the Diamond crew to their triumph while John Harbaugh had 203-433 for the losers.

Other high scorers were Cecil Grimes' 522 and B. King's 223 single for Club Juniors; Eddie McKay's 526 for Club; C. Miller's 197-508 for Savoy Juniors and A. Campbell's 417 and F. Kreiger's 165 for Tommy's. The standings:

1,064 Deer Slain

[By The Associated Press]

Sportsmen took advantage of an enlarged deer hunting area in Maryland this year to set a record number of kills.

As of late yesterday (Sunday), checking stations throughout the 10 counties had reported a total of 1,064, or 61 more than the previous high taken in 1948. The bag for the six day season which ended Saturday undoubtedly will go higher when complete returns are in.

Majors Reject Player Limit, Ban On Recall

Minor League High School Rule Adopted

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — The major leagues turned thumbs down on the 23 player limit and the ban on the 24-hour recall today in a joint meeting but approved the new open classification for the Pacific Coast League.

A new high school rule was adopted similar to that passed last week at Columbus by the minor leagues. The minors also approved the 24-hour recall and 23-player limit regulations.

All-Star Game July 8

Philadelphia was selected as the site of the 1952 all-star game on July 8 and it was voted to hold the major league draft in conjunction with the minor league winter meetings.

Commissioner Ford Frick, presiding over his first joint meeting, passed the decisive vote against cutting players limits from 25 to 23 men. The clubs were deadlocked at eight-eight.

The National League rule for playing off suspended games was adopted by both circuits.

Each league decided to retain its own system on playoffs of ties at the end of the season. The American now plays only one game while the National decides its pennant on the basis of best of three series.

Cleveland's proposal to require waivers in both major leagues before a player could be transferred between June 15 and Sept. 1 was defeated, 10-6.

The leagues appropriated $50,000 to the American Legion to underwrite the Legion's junior baseball program. Another $50,000 was given to the Association of Professional Ball Players of America—a benevolent organization.

Apply For Open Status

Clarence Rowland, president of the Pacific Coast League, said he will apply for open classification as soon as possible in line with the majors' action. The minors already have approved an open classification.

Rowland expects the coast circuit to operate as an open league in 1952. The open classification is a start toward elimination of the player draft, which ultimately may bring major league ball to the west coast.

If the ban on the 24-hour recall had been adopted, an optioned player would have remained in the minors for the duration of the season in which he was sent down.

Potomac, Frostburg Drop Weekend Tilts

Potomac State's Catamounts dropped an 88-64 drubbing at the hands of West Virginia Tech and Frostburg State's Bobcats were edged 58-52 by Gallaudet in games played Saturday. The losses were the second for both teams who have yet to win.

Bill Solomon sparked the Tech aggregation with 25 points in encounter at Keyser while Potomac was paced by Tom Blackwood who garnered scoring honors for the night with 30 tallies.

At Washington, Jimmy Hicks, former Fort Hill star, poured 17 points through the hoops for Frostburg but the State team was unable to overcome an early Gallaudet lead. Caswell tallied 20 markers for the winners.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can your mind make you "catch cold"?

Answer: Not unless you are exposed to the infection that causes your nose to run, your eyes to water and your spirits to sink. Arctic explorers are completely free from colds until they get back to "civilization." But the average city dweller is exposed to cold infection more or less continuously and the answer to the question of why you "catch cold" at one time rather than another seems to lie at least partly in the state of your mind. If you are overworked and "sorry for yourself," or if you are facing something which unconsciously you would like to get out of, your resistance is likely to weaken and another cold to "come on."

May sleeping pills intoxicate you?

Answer: What they call "chronic barbiturism" creates symptoms much like those of chronic alcoholism, report members of the staff of the U. S. Public Service Hospital in Lexington, Ky., a national drug addiction center. Experiments with former morphine addicts who were given enough seconal or amytal to produce "mild to severe intoxication" showed that the withdrawal of the drugs produced a psychosis similar to delirium tremens ("D. T.'s"). But the brain-wave changes brought on by the drugs lasted no more than thirty days after the patients got well, and left no visible sign of lasting damage.

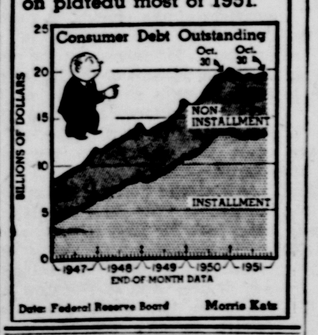

Will a psychiatrist ask others about you?

Answer: That depends upon the nature of the problem for which you consult him and the type of treatment he plans. Where serious mental illness is involved, he may need to obtain a family history and get the reports of relatives. But where the problem is a personal one, and especially if you are to be psychoanalyzed, the therapist may prefer to know nothing at all about you except what he learns from his own contacts with you. Recently a psychoanalyst I know refused to treat a patient because, although he had never met him he had "heard too much about him from another patient to be able to approach him without preconceived ideas."

QUESTIONS

1—In what sport did Thomas Stokes, R. E. Strawbridge, Eric Pedley, Stewart Iglehart and Winston Guest star?

2—Is the tug o'war considered a real sport?

HOOHEE?

HE was a star catcher for the old Baltimore Orioles and later managed a National league club to two pennants. Noted for his handling of aging pitchers, he gained the nickname of "Uncle." What was his real name?

ANSWERS

3—American.
2—Yes. It is part of the program of the Amateur Athletic Union.
1—Polo.

SPORTS GRILL

Pat Robinson
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (INS)—Various champions of the year already have been named and have duly received medals, plaques, cups or other bric-a-bac to attest to their skill.

There hasn't been much objection to most of the selections, except in football, in which it would be virtually impossible to get a majority of fans to agree on any one player.

One disgruntled writer gave us an idea when he wrote that "none of these bums could compare with the old timers." So we thought it might be interesting to list the various champions of 1951 with some of the oldtimers and let you draw your own conclusions.

1951 Champion: Horse—Counterpoint; Old Timers: Man O'War, Terminator, Gallant Fox.

Taken as a group, you would have to admit that the current champions can't compare with any of the old-timers.

But one of the current crop—Ben Hogan—surely is as good as any of the oldsters ever was and most golf experts agree that he is better than they ever were.

Another—Stan Musial, the Cardinals' great ace, is generally rated by baseball men, as the greatest player in the game today. Perhaps Musial is not so great as Cobb, Ruth, or Hornsby, but he would have rated right up there with them.

Joe Walcott, of course, can't begin to rate with any of the oldtimers. In fact, he never would have been considered more than a second-rate trial horse when Dempsey was in his prime.

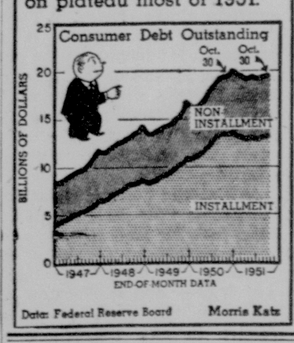

The one fighter today who would have rated at least the equal of any old time champion in his class is Ray Robinson. And he did not receive the award.

Savitt is an excellent tennis player, a star in his own right, but a Tilden, Budge or Vines would have blazed him off the court.

Counterpoint, king of the thoroughbreds, is a grand horse. But would you care to bet on him against Man O'War, Exterminator or Gallant Fox? At any distance? Or over any kind of a track? When you answer that, you have an easy answer.

As for Dick Kazmaier, he is undoubtedly a great player. But you can get a million dissenters if you say he is the best today. There are too many great players. As for the oldtimers, we'd still string with a Thorpe or a Nevers if we had to choose.

Davis High Wins Over Hillsboro

Tucker County Team Takes Opener, 63-36

PARSONS, W. Va., Dec. 9 — Davis High School's basketball team invaded Pocahontas county on Saturday night and opened its season with a 63-36 victory over the floormen of Hillsboro High School.

Davis, making its first start under Coach Emery Anderson, piled up a 16-4 lead in the first period and stayed in front the remainder of the game. The score was 36-12 at halftime and 55-26 at the close of the third period.

Kermit Burger and Bill Shure paced the Davis High scorers with 17 and 16 points while Raese tossed in an even dozen tallies. K. Rose accounted for 19 of the losing team's 36 markers.

Davis will play host to Bayard High School on Tuesday night. Lineups:

Washington County Legion Clubs Raided

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 9. (AP)—Raiding State Police hit the jackpot in four Washington County clubs today and drew blanks in four others as they swept the county in search of gambling violations.

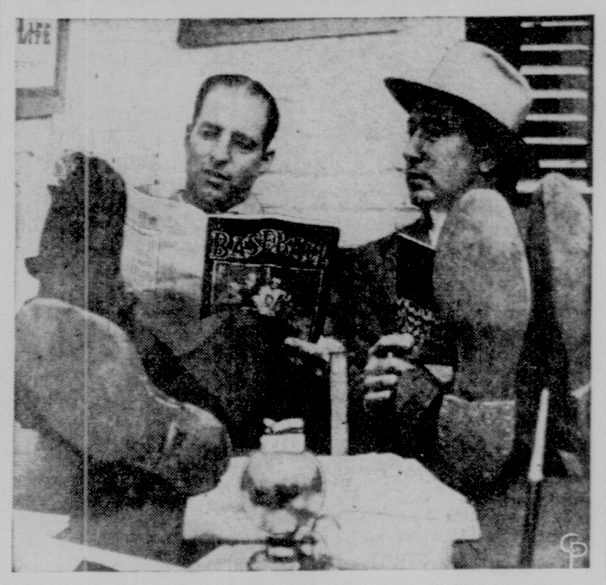

The gambling raids were made at the request of State's Attorney John Holliday, of Washington County.

Police reported they found a total of 16 slot machines in American Legion clubs at Williamsport, Funkstown, Cascade and Hancock. They found no evidences of gambling at Legion clubs in Boonsboro, Clear Spring and Sharpsburg, and the Red Men's Club at Williamsport, it was reported.

Edward Jenner, a British physician, was the discoverer of vaccination.

Diamonds Gain In City League

Take Second Place; Club Juniors Win

The Diamonds swept three games from Harbaugh's yesterday in the Men's City Bowling League to take over second place in the eight-team circuit as the league-leading Club Juniors topped the Club 2-1.

Savoy Juniors climbed out of the cellar with three victories over Tommy's, dropping the latter into the eighth slot. The fourth-place Savoy and Pepsi-Cola postponed their match.

F. Oss' 211 single game and V. Wade's 527 set paced the Diamond crew to their triumph while John Harbaugh had 203-433 for the losers.

Other high scorers were Cecil Grimes' 522 and B. King's 223 single for Club Juniors; Eddie McKay's 526 for Club; C. Miller's 197-508 for Savoy Juniors and A. Campbell's 417 and F. Kreiger's 165 for Tommy's. The standings:

1,064 Deer Slain

[By The Associated Press]

Sportsmen took advantage of an enlarged deer hunting area in Maryland this year to set a record number of kills.

As of late yesterday (Sunday), checking stations throughout the 10 counties had reported a total of 1,064, or 61 more than the previous high taken in 1948. The bag for the six day season which ended Saturday undoubtedly will go higher when complete returns are in.

Majors Reject Player Limit, Ban On Recall

Minor League High School Rule Adopted

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (AP) — The major leagues turned thumbs down on the 23 player limit and the ban on the 24-hour recall today in a joint meeting but approved the new open classification for the Pacific Coast League.

A new high school rule was adopted similar to that passed last week at Columbus by the minor leagues. The minors also approved the 24-hour recall and 23-player limit regulations.

All-Star Game July 8

Philadelphia was selected as the site of the 1952 all-star game on July 8 and it was voted to hold the major league draft in conjunction with the minor league winter meetings.

Commissioner Ford Frick, presiding over his first joint meeting, passed the decisive vote against cutting players limits from 25 to 23 men. The clubs were deadlocked at eight-eight.

The National League rule for playing off suspended games was adopted by both circuits.

Each league decided to retain its own system on playoffs of ties at the end of the season. The American now plays only one game while the National decides its pennant on the basis of best of three series.

Cleveland's proposal to require waivers in both major leagues before a player could be transferred between June 15 and Sept. 1 was defeated, 10-6.

The leagues appropriated $50,000 to the American Legion to underwrite the Legion's junior baseball program. Another $50,000 was given to the Association of Professional Ball Players of America—a benevolent organization.

Apply For Open Status

Clarence Rowland, president of the Pacific Coast League, said he will apply for open classification as soon as possible in line with the majors' action. The minors already have approved an open classification.

Rowland expects the coast circuit to operate as an open league in 1952. The open classification is a start toward elimination of the player draft, which ultimately may bring major league ball to the west coast.

If the ban on the 24-hour recall had been adopted, an optioned player would have remained in the minors for the duration of the season in which he was sent down.

Potomac, Frostburg Drop Weekend Tilts

Potomac State's Catamounts dropped an 88-64 drubbing at the hands of West Virginia Tech and Frostburg State's Bobcats were edged 58-52 by Gallaudet in games played Saturday. The losses were the second for both teams who have yet to win.

Bill Solomon sparked the Tech aggregation with 25 points in encounter at Keyser while Potomac was paced by Tom Blackwood who garnered scoring honors for the night with 30 tallies.

At Washington, Jimmy Hicks, former Fort Hill star, poured 17 points through the hoops for Frostburg but the State team was unable to overcome an early Gallaudet lead. Caswell tallied 20 markers for the winners.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can your mind make you "catch cold"?

Answer: Not unless you are exposed to the infection that causes your nose to run, your eyes to water and your spirits to sink. Arctic explorers are completely free from colds until they get back to "civilization." But the average city dweller is exposed to cold infection more or less continuously and the answer to the question of why you "catch cold" at one time rather than another seems to lie at least partly in the state of your mind. If you are overworked and "sorry for yourself," or if you are facing something which unconsciously you would like to get out of, your resistance is likely to weaken and another cold to "come on."

May sleeping pills intoxicate you?

Answer: What they call "chronic barbiturism" creates symptoms much like those of chronic alcoholism, report members of the staff of the U. S. Public Service Hospital in Lexington, Ky., a national drug addiction center. Experiments with former morphine addicts who were given enough seconal or amytal to produce "mild to severe intoxication" showed that the withdrawal of the drugs produced a psychosis similar to delirium tremens ("D. T.'s"). But the brain-wave changes brought on by the drugs lasted no more than thirty days after the patients got well, and left no visible sign of lasting damage.

Will a psychiatrist ask others about you?

Answer: That depends upon the nature of the problem for which you consult him and the type of treatment he plans. Where serious mental illness is involved, he may need to obtain a family history and get the reports of relatives. But where the problem is a personal one, and especially if you are to be psychoanalyzed, the therapist may prefer to know nothing at all about you except what he learns from his own contacts with you. Recently a psychoanalyst I know refused to treat a patient because, although he had never met him he had "heard too much about him from another patient to be able to approach him without preconceived ideas."

Traffic Control Plan In City May Be Revived

End Of Flood Work Phase Paves Way

Interest in long-range improvements in this city's traffic situation is being revived as the underground phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project closes.

Slated this week is the surfacing of Frederick Street, which has been widened to provide a 25½ foot driveway.

Within a few weeks, when all of this work is completed and Frederick Street crossing opened after it is resurfaced, the way will be clear to begin serious consideration of some of the main recommendations made by the State Road Commission following a comprehensive traffic survey of this city.

Plans Are Shelved

When the flood work began, plans made by Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, chief of the Traffic Bureau of the Cumberland Police Department, to follow out the SRC survey recommendations were shelved.

Several months ago, Lt. Lilya was made chief of the department's detective bureau. On January 1, he will become county criminal investigator.

He was succeeded on the traffic post by Lt. Raymond R. Johnston.

Detailed plans were worked out by Lt. Lilya back in 1947-48 in connection with the traffic survey recommendations.

Among the plans prepared are one way traffic for Bedford and Frederick Streets and plans to increase the attractiveness of Henderson Avenue as a route for through traffic.

Cost To Be Slight

A review of the plans for Frederick and Bedford Street indicates the cost of the work would be small, chiefly for one-way signs.

For Bedford Street, the only change would be to make it one-way for southbound, or incoming traffic on U. S. Route 220.

Frederick Street would then be designated for northbound traffic. The street is open to Fectig Avenue and only street improvement would be needed to tie in with Route 220 after ordinances were passed for enforcement of the one-way traffic.

To Speed Traffic

This plan is actually tied in with a second step, that of making Henderson Avenue more attractive by synchronizing traffic flow and eliminating several crossings.

The Traffic Survey pointed out that the many stops on the avenue keep it from being an attractive route.

Plans call for the installation of traffic lights at Frederick, Bedford and Valley Streets, the last of which has been widened during the flood control work to make it more attractive as a thoroughfare.

The traffic survey recommended the closing of Knox and Pear Street crossings to eliminate those stops.

Lt. Lilya's plans included lights on Henderson Avenue synchronized at 25 miles an hour, with automatic signals tied in with the railroad tracks to allow cars to get off the crossing before trains arrive.

Municipal Group Opposed To Fund Diversion

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 9 (AP) — An organization of city officials representing 88 Maryland cities and towns yesterday approved a resolution "opposing the diversion" to other uses of funds such as highway revenues.

The action was taken at the convention of the Maryland Municipal League here, attended by 65 mayors and city councilmen.

The resolution was passed after Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro accused Maryland's Republican Governor McKeldin of trying to balance the state budget at the expense of road improvements.

"What the Governor is trying to do is first balance the next year's budget out of anticipated surplus from the past year and, second, to sacrifice the much-needed road improvements in the subdivisions," the Democratic Mayor said.

Opposes Diversion

The League's resolution opposed "diversion of Sherbow funds," a reference to state revenues apportioned among the cities and counties. The distribution plan was drawn up by a committee headed by Judge Sherbow of Baltimore.

The General Assembly last winter, at Governor McKeldin's insistence, shifted State Police costs from general funds to motor vehicle revenues which had previously been earmarked for road building. Half the state's highway funds are divided among the counties and Baltimore city.

D'Alesandro's stand and the league action followed a move by five Democrats on the Legislative Council who supported shifting State Police costs back to the general funds.

Shatter Hope

The Governor accused them last week of wanting to "shatter x x x hope for tax relief for our overburdened taxpayers," and of trying to "raid state general funds."

Yesterday three of the council members replied to McKeldin. They were A. Gordon Boone, House Majority Leader; John C. Luber, Speaker of the House, and Del. Jerome Robinson, of Baltimore.

Their statement accused the Gov-

Rep. Beall To Seek Senate Seat On Republican Ticket

Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md) this city and Frostburg has formally announced that he will seek election to the United States Senate subject to the Republican primary in May. The Sixth District Congressman spent the weekend at his home.

He is the second Maryland Representative to announce for the seat now held by Senator O'Conor (D-Md). Rep. Sasscer (D-Md), dean of the Maryland delegation, announced early last week his candidacy for the Democratic nomination.

Beall is the third Republican candidate to announce. The others are Paul Robertson, Baltimore GOP leader, and H. Grady Gore, Bethesda, Md., business man.

Gen. D. John Markey, who ran a close race against O'Conor in 1946, is among those expected to make a try to Beall's House seat.

In a statement announcing his candidacy, Beall said that "unless some unexpected influence intervenes, this Congress will end my 10 years of service in the House."

"Short Trip" at Capitol

"It is my intention to take a short trip," he added. "I am told it is not the most expensive short trip on record, but it is also the most hazardous journey which has been charted, although it is merely 500 feet leading from the House of Representatives to the Senate of the United States."

His statement follows in full:

"Unless some unexpected influence intervenes, this Congress will end my ten years of service in the House. It is my intention to take a short trip. I am told it is not only the most expensive short trip on record, but it is also the most hazardous journey which has been charted, although it is merely 500 feet leading from the House of Representatives to the Senate of the United States.

"I have appreciated the opportunity given me to work with the various members of Congress. The years I have served have given me growth of vision and reasoning. It has been my goal to represent the best interests of my constituency and my country. While I have differed at times with some of my colleagues as to what was best, I shall not forget the lessons learned in the House dealing with patience, forebearance and understanding.

"My reason for wanting to make this journey is to better serve my own constituents, as well as all of the people of the great Free State of Maryland, and to help keep the United States of America free.

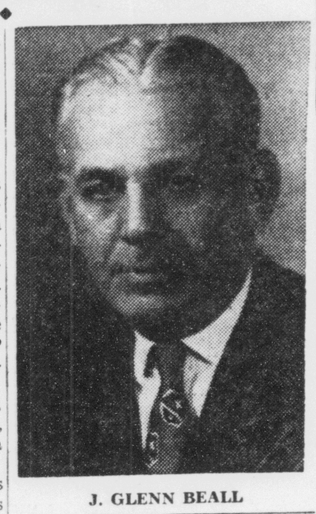

Assails Ideologies

"The ideologies held by many people in high places are contrary to our American precepts. They can call it planned economy, the Fair Deal, or social welfare—but it is still the same old Socialist baloney, any way you slice it. In my opinion planned economy costs the individual vast amounts of money and part of his freedom—it is definitely a step toward absolute Socialism.

"I am well aware of the Communist threat. I do not discount it. The dangerous spread of atheistic Communism under the present Administration in Washington is well known. I will continue to fight it relentlessly. But there is another threat almost as dangerous but more difficult to recognize. It is the threat presented to our free institutions by that group of cynical men who, under the guise of providing political panaceas for certain social and economic problems, are selling the American birthright for a mess of political pottage.

"Slowly but surely they are chipping away the freedoms which are essential to the survival of a healthy, strong and productive nation.

"If nominated and elected to the U. S. Senate I mean to continue my public service on the same basic principles which have motivated my actions throughout my political career."

Maryland Ranks 14th In Military Contracts

Maryland ranks 14th among the 48 states in the dollar volume of prime military contracts, according to John Weber, district manager of the Baltimore office of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

During the fiscal year which began July 1, 1950, and ended June 30, 1951, the Maryland total dollar value of defense contracts amounted to $596,184,000, or 2 per cent of the national total. Of this dollar volume the Army let $129,445,000, the Navy $212,402,000, the Air Force $254,189,000 and the Armed Services Petroleum Agency $148,000.

Police Records Show Mishaps Anticipated

One person will die and 26 will be injured on Allegany County highways during the first quarter of 1952, if State Police statistical records for last year hold true.

The Traffic Collision Statistical Bureau releases figures every three months on accidents in the corresponding quarter of the previous year to show motorists what can be expected.

This year the one fatal accident in the first three months of 1951 occurred in the daytime. But 17 of the 26 persons injured were hurt in 13 accidents which took place at night. The other nine were hurt in four daylight accidents.

Route 36 proved to be the most dangerous road in the county last winter. Of a total of 50 accidents of all types on four highways in the county, 21 took place on Route 36.

Eighteen accidents took place on busy Route 40, the National High way east and west of Cumberland. Route 220, the McMullen Highway, accounted for nine, Route 35 for two.

In Garrett County there were four accidents on Route 40, and one each on Routes 41 and 135. The only fatal accident occurred at night on Route 135. Four of a total of six injuries occurred on the same road.

Essay Contest Closes Dec. 15

The state essay contest sponsored by the Governor's Committee to Promote Employment of The Physically Handicapped is scheduled to close Saturday, according to J. Leo Delaney, chairman of the local committee.

Delaney reminded that all manuscripts should be in before midnight on Saturday, and should be addressed to Governor's Committee to Promote Employment of the Physically Handicapped, 6, North Liberty Street, Baltimore 1, Md.

Much local attention has been focused on the contest which began October 15, Delaney said, because last year's state winner was Margaret Ann Dilfer, then a senior at Central High School, Lonaconing. Miss Dilfer, now a freshman at Frostburg State Teachers College, aso won fifth prize in the national contest.

The contest is open to all 11th and 12th grade students in Maryland public, private and parochial high schools. Essays should be a maximum of 1,200 words. Four state prizes in savings bonds, totaling $250 will be awarded.

Delaney said informational material may be obtained at the local State Employment Service office, the office of the State Vocational Rehabilitation Service in the Union Street County Building and the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Dr. Hodges To Speak

Dr. W. Royce Hodges, local physician, will speak on "Impressions From a Flying Glimpse of Europe" at the meeting of the Cumberland Lions Club at 12:15 p. m Wednesday in Central YMCA.

Local 26 Awaits WSB Decision On Wage Hike

Local 26, Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers Union of America (CIO), is awaiting official notice of Wage Stabilization Board approval of a 13 cent increase negotiated in a pact with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, R. C. Burkhart, president, said yesterday.

He said approval of the increase is being handled by the Richmond, Va., regional WSB on the basis of a tandem relationship with Goodyear, a member of rubber's "Big Four".

The board announced recently that similar boosts had been approved for the "Big Four" companies, but declined to grant all retroactive pay provided in the contracts with the firms. The WCB said seven cents of the boost might be effective on the contract date, with the other six cents retroactive to October 16.

The URCLPWA-CIO, however, informed local unions it is attempting to explore all the possibilities of obtaining payment of the six cents for all hours covered by agreements back to August.

"It is our opinion," the union said, that some technique, other than asking WSB reconsideration, may be devised.

The international pointed out it believes companies have an obligation to pay the retroactive wages back to the contract date and that it will try to find a legal method for securing the funds.

At the Kelly plant, the 13 cent boost awaiting WSB sanction is retroactive to September 10 under the contract.

The Rubber Local moved into its new building at 152-4 North Mechanic Street this week but the offices are still being prepared.

Burkhart said a program will be planned to mark the official opening of the building.

Police Probe Oldtown Road Motor Mishap

State Police today will continue its investigation of an auto mishap one-half mile south of Cumberland on Route 5, Oldtown Road, which occurred late Friday night sending two local youths to Memorial Hospital.

State Trooper Jack Browning, investigating officer, reported that the car driven by James Taylor McClellan, 19, Greene Street, overturned after McClellan lost control of his auto and hit an embankment.

Hits Auto

Another car, driven by Richard Lee Blake, 32, Browning Street, was traveling toward the McClellan car at the time of the accident, and Blake stopped his car in front of McClellan's auto, Browning reported.

After turning over, the McClellan machine rolled into the front of Blake's car. The Blake car received damages of less than $100, and the other auto was completely wrecked.

Riding with McClellan were Ronnie Steele, Greene Street; and Fred Lee Wandless, 13, Paca Street, who were taken to Memorial Hospital.

Two Injured

Steele suffered a concussion of the brain and chest injuries while Wandless suffered a fractured left thigh bone. Steele recovered from the concussion shortly after admittance to the hospital where the boys were reported much improved last night.

Also riding with McClellan were Jo Ann Wilson, 15, Paca Street, who was treated at Memorial Hospital for minor injuries, and Walter Simpson, 20, Patterson Avenue, who was uninjured.

Blake and his son riding with him in the other car were also not hurt.

Reported in "good" condition last night in Allegany Hospital was Walter Floyd Welsh, 32, RFD 4, Hazen Road, who was admitted Friday night after he was struck by a car at the intersection of Baltimore and Liberty Streets.

Welsh suffered a compound fracture of the left leg. Police listed the driver as John T. Stegmaier, 16, RFD 4, and charged him with violating a state motor law. No date has been set for the trial.

Immediate Yule Mailing Urged By Post Office

First Class Posting Advantages Listed

Thomas F. Conlon, local postmaster, yesterday warned local residents that Santa Claus may come and go before their Christmas cards and gift boxes arrive.

"Too many people are still in the envelope-addressing and package-wrapping stage," he explained.

"To assure delivery before Christmas Day," he said, "all parcel post should be in the mail by tomorrow. If the packages are not ready by then, you should send them by Air Parcel Post. Christmas cards for distant states should be posted before this Saturday. Greetings for local delivery should be mailed at least a week before December 25."

Mail First Class

Conlon particularly stressed the importance of sending all Christmas cards with three-cent stamps as first class mail. Actually, you save very little by sending your greetings in the unsealed envelopes, because the rate for third class mail has been increased to two cents, Conlon stated.

Also, Conlon listed these advantages by mailing first class: (1) Your cards may carry written messages. (2) They are dispatched and delivered first. (3) If necessary, they are forwarded to new addresses without additional charge. And (4) If undeliverable, they are returned if the sender's address is on the envelope.

Postal regulations, moreover, require minimum postage of three cents on envelopes smaller than two and three quarter by four inches, or larger than nine by 12 inches whether sealed or unsealed.

Facilities Over Taxed

The next few days are especially critical, Conlon pointed out. Reports from out-of-town indicate that post office facilities are overtaxed all over the country with many thousands of packages due to arrive here the week before Christmas.

"Holiday headaches are nothing new to post office employes," Conlon continued. "But we will be very grateful if people will tie their Christmas cards in bundles with all stamps in the upper right hand corner and all envelopes facing the same way."

This speeds up the cancellation process, he explained. Correct addresses, clearly written or printed, and complete, down to the zone number are also a great help. Postal workers are frequently delayed by hand writing that is nearly impossible to read.

Every package and Christmas card that is undeliverable means a big disappointment to someone, Conlon said.

$140,000 Raised In Christmas Seal Campaign

1950 State Total May Be Exceeded

With 21 out of 23 counties and Baltimore City reporting, the Maryland Tuberculosis Association announced yesterday that over $140,000 had been raised since the beginning of the 1951 Christmas Seal Sale.

According to William H. Staub, president of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, $74,464.27 has been raised to date in the counties and $66,347.36 in Baltimore City for a total of $140,811.63. During the same period of last year's campaign $122,094.93 had been raised throughout the state.

Staub pointed out that no goals had been set by the State Association for the county affiliated associations, but added that present returns indicated that last year's Christmas Seal Sale of $343,105 would be exceeded this year.

Adding that Maryland has the fifth highest death rate from tuberculosis in the United States Staub stated there were 827 deaths from TB in Maryland in 1950. It is estimated that there are about ten unknown cases of TB for every death.

Funds raised during this annual seal sale provide a year-round program of chest X-ray surveys, chest clinics, health education, medical research, and rehabilitation and social service to tuberculosis patients.

Refractories Plant To Resume Operations

Workers at the Big Savage Refractories Corporation plant at Zihlman, who staged a walkout Thursday afternoon, will return to work today.

Howard Winfield, president of Local 190, Brick and Clay Workers Union, said an agreement was reached Saturday on the dispute which led to the stoppage and that the men will go back to work today.

The plant employs about 200 workers.

Minor Fires Noted

South End Fire Company quenched a flue fire at the home of Mrs. Frances Clay, 54 Boone Street, yesterday afternoon.

A short circuit in a car parked near Central Fire Company was quenched yesterday morning after a passer-by noticed smoke coming from the vehicle. Firemen said damage was minor.

Local Soldier Returns After Long Tour Of Duty In East

Home after 59 months duty in the Far East Command, Sergeant First Class Donald H. Gosgrove, son of Herman Cosgrove, 607 Sylvan Avenue says, "It's good to be back in Cumberland."

Sgt. Cosgrove left LaSalle High School where he was a cheerleader for two years and enlisted in the Army in September 1946. After a brief tour of duty for basic training at Camp Polk, La., he left the States in November of that year for Okinawa.

He returned to this country for 21 days leave in November 1949 and then went to Japan. He was sent to Korea in May of this year and ended his tour of duty in the Far East last October 21.

When he left Korea, he was a member of the Second Medical Battalion of the Second Infantry Division, but most of his time in the Army has seen him in radio work.

Sgt. Cosgrove has probably talked to more GIs than any other GI in the Army. As a radio announcer, newscaster, program director and station operator for the Armed Forces Radio Service, the young soldier has gained wide experience in this field.

On Okinawa, he announced programs, interviewed visiting dignitaries, arranged recorded and live talent shows, and remained at this station longer than any other serviceman.

Sent To Korea

In Tokyo, he was assigned to the AFRS Network and was assigned to Korea when the new Korean network of five stations was created there. Each station had a code name. Cosgrove was with 'Homesteader."

After his leave at home terminates, he will report to Camp Kilmer, N J. on January 3, 1952 for reassignment. He hopes for attachment to the AFRS in either New York or San Francisco.

Cosgrove said he was trained for radio work by the Army because of his aptitude and liking for it. Men selected for this work are trained by civilians hired by the Army as instructors, he explained.

After his enlistment expires, he plans to spend sometime in radio schools and also to take basic and advanced courses in television.

SFC. DONALD H. COSGROVE

Then, Donald says, unless some attractive position opens to him, he wants to return to the Army, get back into radio there and complete 20 years service.

Morale Stays High

Sgt. Cosgrove says he saw many sick and wounded men in Korea. Fighting there has been the most rugged American soldiers have ever endured, he declared, but the troops are giving a good account of themselves.

Like all men returning from long tours of duty abroad, Sgt. Cosgrove can't understand the apparent apathy in America over the war. "With the exception of Cumberland and a few other places," he said, "industry and business seem to be booming and there is a decided defense effort shaping up. But people seem to be more or less indifferent about the boys in Korea. It's really bad over there," he added, "the country, terrain, climate and everything makes a bad situation."

Cosgrove said the morale of the troops in Korea is high and believes the Army is doing a good job through its radio in keeping the men informed and entertained. "But the men need many things which the civilians at home can supply, such as books, stationery and most of all, letters from home."

Today's Sermonette

In times past the word of God came to our fathers in different ways. Hebrews 1:1.

By REV. RAYMOND M. CROWE

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Dawson and Cresaptown Methodist Churches by Rev. Raymond M. Crowe, pastor of Rawlings Methodist Charge. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Word Of God—The Bible

In his introduction in the Epistle to the Hebrews, the author says that of old God revealed himself to the fathers, but that revelation was not complete and final. So now God has given a direct revelation in the person of His Son.

Rev. Crowe

We call the Bible the word of God. To no other book can that title be properly applied. The Hebrew and Christian Scriptures are permeated by a spirit that entitles them to be called the word of God.

The holy books of other religions have had in them some part of the revelation of God. It is not necessary to deny this in order to be loyal to the Christian religion. The Bible is never so convincing as when it is compared with other sacred books.

The Bible is a human book with a divine message. Its writers lived in different periods and under varying conditions, and during a period of over a thousand years. They were men of different temperaments and training.

Some of the Bible writers were the greatest spiritual leaders of the world. The life of God was in them in an unique degree. They embodied the very spirit of God. As the text declares, in varying ways and degrees they spoke for God.

The value of the Bible is found, not in its claims, but in its content. And in the results which it produces. The Bible offers us motives and constrains us to adopt them. It comes to us not only clothed in light but armed with power.

A Brahmin said to a missionary, "What is it that makes the Bible have such power over the lives of those who embrace it? Our Vedas has no such power." It was an heathen opponent of Christianity who said, "In all our sacred books there is nothing to compare with the Bible for goodness and purity, and holiness and love, and for motives of action."

The Bible is the guide and inspiration of the church. It records the words and activities of the prophets. It furnishes the only authentic account of the life of our Lord. It gives a narrative of the work and utterance of the first interpreters of Christianity. It records the customs of the early Christian church.

As Professor Curry of Union Seminary said: "The Bible remains the basic book for high religion, and a unique medium for introducing each oncoming generation to the highest way of life." And as Woodrow Wilson said: "No great nation can survive its own temptations and its own follies that does not indoctrinate its children in the word of God . . . The righteousness of nations, like the righteousness of men, must take its source from these foundations of inspiration."

The Bible is the Book of life. No one who has felt its divine beauty and power, would exchange this one volume for all the literature in the world. We will never know the extent of the good influence of the Bible. The word of God "was made flesh and dwelt among us." The Bible is all divine and yet all human from the beginning to the end. The divine and the human in the Bible sustain a like relation to each other. As in the person of Jesus, they are unmixed, yet inseparably united and constitute but one life, which kindles life in the heart of the believer.

Looking at the Bible from merely a literary point of view, we find that it embraces works of about 40 authors, representing the extremes of society from the throne of the king to the boat of a fisherman. It describes the intervening stages in the revelation of God and the spiritual development of man.

What an unspeakable blessing the Bible is for us! The inexhaustible treasure of divine truth and comfort of the Bible is accessible to all who are willing to believe in God and read His word. Thanks be to God for the coming of His word—the Bible!

Guide Dogs Need No Special Help

Friends and relatives of blind persons accompanied by specially-trained lead dogs emphasized yesterday that the helpful and kindly-intentioned public often constitutes a greater hazard to these dogs than the traffic of New York City's Times Square.

"The public, even though realizing that the dog is capably and efficiently taught, interferes constantly with its efficiency by attempting to lead blind graduates of the school across streets, intersections and even around obstructions on the sidewalks," according to an official of one of the schools for training dogs.

"Specially-trained dogs are competent to guide blind people who have been educated to use them in all kinds of traffic. However, the dogs cannot be expected to watch for speeding automobiles and at the same time cope with interference of some persons who may have taken their master's arms and be pushing or pulling in an opposite direction, or who may be shouting words of warning.

"While these dogs normally ignore pedestrians, they cannot help being distracted when affectionate pats or caresses are offered by many strangers. The public can be most helpful by allowing the dog and its blind master to meet and solve problems of traffic as they were taught at school," the spokesman concluded.

These dogs are taught to go to the curb and await a command

City Recreation Board To Meet Job Applicants

Five Interviews Scheduled Friday

Clifton Van Roby, chairman of the Recreation Board, said invitations were sent to five recreation leaders to attend the meeting slated Friday at 1 p. m. in City Hall.

The bids were sent to the possible applicants, all of them now in the recreation field, after a meeting Friday afternoon with J. W. Faust, New York area field director of the National Recreation Association.

Faust made the trip here at the request of Edmund F. Hoey, who has resigned as city recreation director, effective December 31, to accept a recreation post in Baltimore County.

Roby said Faust discussed qualifications of most of the eight men listed as possible applicants for new jobs. Also recommended as a possibility was one man who had not indicated he might be interested in a change, Roby said.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, under whose department recreation falls, also attended the meeting.

Faust said Cumberland will have to "sell the job" to get the recreation director it wants since "the kind of man wanted here already has a job."

The Recreation Board will also meet tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in Central YMCA to compile information on possible applicants for the job and to discuss future board policies.

Sobeloff Says Group Aims For Better Budget

Would Insure Proper Fund Use

Taking the mystery out of Maryland's confused budget system and making it plain enough for every State legislator and taxpayer to grasp is the initial goal of the Commission on Administrative Organization, according to Simon E. Sobeloff, commission chairman.

Appointed In March

A former United States District Attorney, Sobeloff was appointed last March by Governor McKeldin to head a commission to revamp the State's business procedures.

Leading law-makers, administrators and business men of the State all admit that Maryland's budget system — once a model for other states—fails to meet present-day needs. This is because State-performed services and State-administered funds have both increased vastly since 1920, when the budget system was installed.

Unified Budget

One unified budget, instead of the several budgets in use today; a clear-cut statement of the purposes for which taxpayers' money will be spent; improved control of performance and purchasing, are among the recommendations made by the Sobeloff Commission. They are included in the Commission's initial report, just completed and submitted for action to the General Assembly in its forthcoming session.

J. Theodore Wolfe, executive vice president of Baltimore's Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Co., heads the Committee which drafted the Commission's budget proposals. He states that the job was undertaken in a strictly nonpartisan spirit, with economy to the taxpayer its prime purpose. "Commission members, both Democrats and Republicans, voted unanimously to approve the budget report. They hope their recommendations will receive similar non-partisan treatment from the public and the legislature," Wolfe says.

The new budget plan is slated for discussion, he said, at a 6 p. m. dinner meeting at the Algonquin Hotel in Cumberland Wednesday, December 12. The State Legislators, Officials, and Civic Leaders of Allegany Garrett and Washington Counties have signified their intentions of attending. David Kauffman, of Cumberland, and Charles M. Bandiere, of Baltimore County, both members of the Commission, are scheduled to address the meeting.

Virginian Faces Check Charge

J. T. Stonebraker, 46, Gore, Va., was taken to Allegany County Jail last night to face two charges of passing bad checks in Westernport.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir went to Winchester, Va., jail yesterday to get Stonebraker, who had been picked up by police in that city for authorities here. Sheriff Muir said that Stonebraker passed two bad checks on a Westernport merchant last April. One was for $26 and the other for $21.

The Virginian told Sheriff Muir that he had written the Westernport man that he was planning to come there tomorrow to reimburse him for the checks. The sheriff added that Stonebraker has the necessary funds with him to cover the checks.

Traffic Control Plan In City May Be Revived

End Of Flood Work Phase Paves Way

Interest in long-range improvements in this city's traffic situation is being revived as the underground phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project closes.

Slated this week is the surfacing of Frederick Street, which has been widened to provide a 25½ foot driveway.

Within a few weeks, when all of this work is completed and Frederick Street crossing opened after it is resurfaced, the way will be clear to begin serious consideration of some of the main recommendations made by the State Road Commission following a comprehensive traffic survey of this city.

Plans Are Shelved

When the flood work began, plans made by Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, chief of the Traffic Bureau of the Cumberland Police Department, to follow out the SRC survey recommendations were shelved.

Several months ago, Lt. Lilya was made chief of the department's detective bureau. On January 1, he will become county criminal investigator.

He was succeeded on the traffic post by Lt. Raymond R. Johnston.

Detailed plans were worked out by Lt. Lilya back in 1947-48 in connection with the traffic survey recommendations.

Among the plans prepared are one way traffic for Bedford and Frederick Streets and plans to increase the attractiveness of Henderson Avenue as a route for through traffic.

Cost To Be Slight

A review of the plans for Frederick and Bedford Street indicates the cost of the work would be small, chiefly for one-way signs.

For Bedford Street, the only change would be to make it one-way for southbound, or incoming traffic on U. S. Route 220.

Frederick Street would then be designated for northbound traffic. The street is open to Fectig Avenue and only street improvement would be needed to tie in with Route 220 after ordinances were passed for enforcement of the one-way traffic.

To Speed Traffic

This plan is actually tied in with a second step, that of making Henderson Avenue more attractive by synchronizing traffic flow and eliminating several crossings.

The Traffic Survey pointed out that the many stops on the avenue keep it from being an attractive route.

Plans call for the installation of traffic lights at Frederick, Bedford and Valley Streets, the last of which has been widened during the flood control work to make it more attractive as a thoroughfare.

Lt. Lilya's plans included lights on Henderson Avenue synchronized at 25 miles an hour, with automatic signals tied in with the railroad tracks to allow cars to get off the crossing before trains arrive.

Rep. Beall To Seek Senate Seat On Republican Ticket

Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md) this city and Frostburg has formally announced that he will seek election to the United States Senate subject to the Republican primary in May. The Sixth District Congressman spent the weekend at his home.

He is the second Maryland Representative to announce for the seat now held by Senator O'Conor (D-Md). Rep. Sasscer (D-Md), dean of the Maryland delegation, announced early last week his candidacy for the Democratic nomination.

Beall is the third Republican candidate to announce. The others are Paul Robertson, Baltimore GOP leader, and H. Grady Gore, Bethesda, Md., business man.

Gen. D. John Markey, who ran a close race against O'Conor in 1946, is among those expected to make a try to Beall's House seat.

In a statement announcing his candidacy, Beall said that "unless some unexpected influence intervenes, this Congress will end my 10 years of service in the House."

"Short Trip" at Capitol

"It is my intention to take a short trip," he added. "I am told it is not the most expensive short trip on record, but it is also the most hazardous journey which has been charted, although it is merely 500 feet leading from the House of Representatives to the Senate of the United States."

His statement follows in full:

"Unless some unexpected influence intervenes, this Congress will end my ten years of service in the House. It is my intention to take a short trip. I am told it is not only the most expensive short trip on record, but it is also the most hazardous journey which has been charted, although it is merely 500 feet leading from the House of Representatives to the Senate of the United States.

"I have appreciated the opportunity given me to work with the various members of Congress. The years I have served have given me growth of vision and reasoning. It has been my goal to represent the best interests of my constituency and my country. While I have differed at times with some of my colleagues as to what was best, I shall not forget the lessons learned in the House dealing with patience, forebearance and understanding.

"My reason for wanting to make this journey is to better serve my own constituents, as well as all of the people of the great Free State of Maryland, and to help keep the United States of America free.

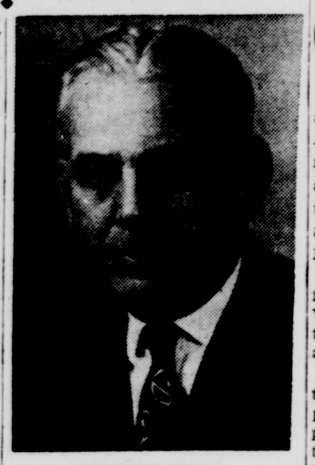

Assails Ideologies

"The ideologies held by many people in high places are contrary to our American precepts. They can call it planned economy, the Fair Deal, or social welfare—but it is still the same old Socialist baloney, any way you slice it. In my opinion planned economy costs the individual vast amounts of money and part of his freedom—it is definitely a step toward absolute Socialism.

"I am well aware of the Communist threat. I do not discount it. The dangerous spread of atheistic Communism under the present Administration in Washington is well known. I will continue to fight it relentlessly. But there is another threat almost as dangerous but more difficult to recognize. It is the threat presented to our free institutions by that group of cynical men who, under the guise of providing political panaceas for certain social and economic problems, are selling the American birthright for a mess of political pottage.

"Slowly but surely they are chipping away the freedoms which are essential to the survival of a healthy, strong and productive nation.

"If nominated and elected to the U. S. Senate I mean to continue my public service on the same basic principles which have motivated my actions throughout my political career."

Immediate Yule Mailing Urged By Post Office

First Class Posting Advantages Listed

Thomas F. Conlon, local postmaster, yesterday warned local residents that Santa Claus may come and go before their Christmas cards and gift boxes arrive.

"Too many people are still in the envelope - addressing and package-wrapping stage," he explained.

"To assure delivery before Christmas Day," he said, "all parcel post should be in the mail by tomorrow. If the packages are not ready by then, you should send them by Air Parcel Post. Christmas cards for distant states should be posted before this Saturday. Greetings for local delivery should be mailed at least a week before December 25."

Mail First Class

Conlon particularly stressed the importance of sending all Christmas cards with three-cent stamps as first class mail. Actually, you save very little by sending your greetings in the unsealed envelopes, because the rate for third class mail has been increased to two cents, Conlon stated.

Also, Conlon listed these advantages by mailing first class: (1) Your cards may carry written messages. (2) They are dispatched and delivered first. (3) If necessary, they are forwarded to new addresses without additional charge. And (4) If undeliverable, they are returned if the sender's address is on the envelope.

Postal regulations, moreover, require minimum postage of three cents on envelopes smaller than two and three quarter by four inches, or larger than nine by 12 inches whether sealed or unsealed.

Facilities Over Taxed

The next few days are especially critical, Conlon pointed out. Reports from out - of - town indicate that post office facilities are overtaxed all over the country with many thousands of packages due to arrive here the week before Christmas.

"Holiday headaches are nothing new to post office employes," Conlon continued. "But we will be very grateful if people will tie their Christmas cards in bundles with all stamps in the upper right hand corner and all envelopes facing the same way."

This speeds up the cancellation process, he explained. Correct addresses, clearly written or printed, and complete, down to the zone number are also a great help. Postal workers are frequently delayed by hand writing that is nearly impossible to read.

Every package and Christmas card that is undeliverable means a big disappointment to someone, Conlon said.

1950 State Total May Be Exceeded

With 21 out of 23 counties and Baltimore City reporting, the Maryland Tuberculosis Association announced yesterday that over $140,000 had been raised since the beginning of the 1951 Christmas Seal Sale.

According to William H. Staub, president of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, $74,464.27 has been raised to date in the counties and $66,347.36 in Baltimore City for a total of $140,811.63. During the same period of last year's campaign $122,094.93 had been raised throughout the state.

Staub pointed out that no goals had been set by the State Association for the county affiliated associations, but added that present returns indicated that last year's Christmas Seal Sale of $343,105 would be exceeded this year.

Adding that Maryland has the fifth highest death rate from tuberculosis in the United States Staub stated there were 827 deaths from TB in Maryland in 1950. It is estimated that there are about ten unknown cases of TB for every death.

Funds raised during this annual seal sale provide a year-round program of chest X-ray surveys, chest clinics, health education, medical research, and rehabilitation and social service to tuberculosis patients.

Refractories Plant To Resume Operations

Workers at the Big Savage Refractories Corporation plant at Zihlman, who staged a walkout Thursday afternoon, will return to work today.

Howard Winfield, president of Local 190, Brick and Clay Workers Union, said an agreement was reached Saturday on the dispute which led to the stoppage and that the men will go back to work today.

The plant employs about 200 workers.

Minor Fires Noted

South End Fire Company quenched a flue fire at the home of Mrs. Frances Clay, 54 Boone Street, yesterday afternoon.

A short circuit in a car parked near Central Fire Company was quenched yesterday morning after a passer-by noticed smoke coming from the vehicle. Firemen said damage was minor.

Local Soldier Returns After Long Tour Of Duty In East

Home after 59 months duty in the Far East Command, Sergeant First Class Donald H. Gosgrove, son of Herman Cosgrove, 607 Sylvan Avenue says, "It's good to be back in Cumberland."

Sgt. Cosgrove left LaSalle High School where he was a cheerleader for two years and enlisted in the Army in September 1946. After a brief tour of duty for basic training at Camp Polk, La., he left the States in November of that year for Okinawa.

He returned to this country for 21 days leave in November 1949 and then went to Japan. He was sent to Korea in May of this year and ended his tour of duty in the Far East last October 21.

When he left Korea, he was a member of the Second Medical Battalion of the Second Infantry Division, but most of his time in the Army has seen him in radio work.

Sgt. Cosgrove has probably talked to more GIs than any other GI in the Army. As a radio announcer, newscaster, program director and station operator for the Armed Forces Radio Service, the young soldier has gained wide experience in this field.

On Okinawa, he announced programs, interviewed visiting dignitaries, arranged recorded and live talent shows, and remained at this station longer than any other serviceman.

Sent To Korea

In Tokyo, he was assigned to the AFRS Network and was assigned to Korea when the new Korean network of five stations was created there. Each station had a code name. Cosgrove was with 'Homesteader."

After his leave at home terminates, he will report to Camp Kilmer, N J. on January 3, 1952 for reassignment. He hopes for attachment to the AFRS in either New York or San Francisco.

Cosgrove said he was trained for radio work by the Army because of his aptitude and liking for it. Men selected for this work are trained by civilians hired by the Army as instructors, he explained.

After his enlistment expires, he plans to spend sometime in radio schools and also to take basic and advanced courses in television.

SFC. DONALD H. COSGROVE

Then, Donald says, unless some attractive position opens to him, he wants to return to the Army, get back into radio there and complete 20 years service.

Morale Stays High

Sgt. Cosgrove says he saw many sick and wounded men in Korea. Fighting there has been the most rugged American soldiers have ever endured, he declared, but the troops are giving a good account of themselves.

Like all men returning from long tours of duty abroad, Sgt. Cosgrove can't understand the apparent apathy in America over the war. "With the exception of Cumberland and a few other places," he said, "industry and business seem to be booming and there is a decided defense effort shaping up. But people seem to be more or less indifferent about the boys in Korea. It's really bad over there," he added, "the country, terrain, climate and everything makes a bad situation."

Cosgrove said the morale of the troops in Korea is high and believes the Army is doing a good job through its radio in keeping the men informed and entertained. "But the men need many things which the civilians at home can supply, such as books, stationery and most of all, letters from home."

Today's Sermonette

By REV. RAYMOND M. CROWE

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Dawson and Cresaptown Methodist Churches by Rev. Raymond M. Crowe, pastor of Rawlings Methodist Charge. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Word Of God— The Bible

In his introduction in the Epistle to the Hebrews, the author says that of old God revealed himself to the fathers, but that revelation was not complete and final. So now God has given a direct revelation in the person of His Son.

Rev. Crowe

We call the Bible the word of God. To no other book can that title be properly applied. The Hebrew and Christian Scriptures are permeated by a spirit that entitles them to be called the word of God.

The holy books of other religions have had in them some part of the revelation of God. It is not necessary to deny this in order to be loyal to the Christian religion. The Bible is never so convincing as when it is compared with other sacred books.

The Bible is a human book with a divine message. Its writers lived in different periods and under varying conditions, and during a period of over a thousand years. They were men of different temperaments and training.

Some of the Bible writers were the greatest spiritual leaders of the world. The life of God was in them in an unique degree. They embodied the very spirit of God. As the text declares, in varying ways and degrees they spoke for God.

The value of the Bible is found, not in its claims, but in its content. And in the results which it produces. The Bible offers us motives and constrains us to adopt them. It comes to us not only clothed in light but armed with power.

A Brahmin said to a missionary, "What is it that makes the Bible have such power over the lives of those who embrace it? Our Vedas has no such power." It was an heathen opponent of Christianity who said, "In all our sacred books there is nothing to compare with the Bible for goodness and purity, and holiness and love, and for motives of action."

The Bible is the guide and inspiration of the church. It records the words and activities of the prophets. It furnishes the only authentic account of the life of our Lord. It gives a narrative of the work and utterance of the first interpreters of Christianity. It records the customs of the early Christian church.

As Professor Curry of Union Seminary said: "The Bible remains the basic book for high religion, and a unique medium for introducing each oncoming generation to the highest way of life." And as Woodrow Wilson said: "No great nation can survive its own temptations and its own follies that does not indoctrinate its children in the word of God . . . The righteousness of nations, like the righteousness of men, must take its source from these foundations of inspiration."

The Bible is the Book of life. No one who has felt its divine beauty and power, would exchange this one volume for all the literature in the world. We will never know the extent of the good influence of the Bible. The word of God "was made flesh and dwelt among us." The Bible is all divine and yet all human from the beginning to the end. The divine and the human in the Bible sustain a like relation to each other. As in the person of Jesus, they are unmixed, yet inseparably united and constitute but one life, which kindles life in the heart of the believer.

Looking at the Bible from merely a literary point of view, we find that it embraces works of about 40 authors, representing the extremes of society from the throne of the king to the boat of a fisherman. It describes the intervening stages in the revelation of God and the spiritual development of man.

The Bible is first and last a book of religion. It presents the only true and universal religion of God, our Father.

What an unspeakable blessing the Bible is for us! The inexhaustible treasure of divine truth and comfort of the Bible is accessible to all who are willing to believe in God and read His word. Thanks be to God for the coming of His word—the Bible!

Guide Dogs Need No Special Help

Friends and relatives of blind persons accompanied by specially-trained lead dogs emphasized yesterday that the helpful and kindly-intentioned public often constitutes a greater hazard to these dogs than the traffic of New York City's Times Square.

"The public, even though realizing that the dog is capably and efficiently taught, interferes constantly with its efficiency by attempting to lead blind graduates of the school across streets, intersections and even around obstructions on the sidewalks," according to an official of one of the schools for training dogs.

"Specially-trained dogs are competent to guide blind people who have been educated to use them in all kinds of traffic. However, the dogs cannot be expected to watch for speeding automobiles and at the same time cope with interference of some persons who may have taken their master's arms and be pushing or pulling in an opposite direction, or who may be shouting words of warning.

"While these dogs normally ignore pedestrians, they cannot help being distracted when affectionate pats or caresses are offered by many strangers. The public can be most helpful by allowing the dog and its blind master to meet and solve problems of traffic as they were taught at school," the spokesman concluded.

These dogs are taught to go to the curb and await a command.

Only two local men are equipped with these dogs, but other blind men from Romney, W. Va., Meyersdale, Pa., and Johnstown, Pa., often visit here with their dog companions.

City Recreation Board To Meet Job Applicants

Five Interviews Scheduled Friday

The City Recreation Board will meet with applicants for the position of city recreation director here Friday afternoon.

Clifton Van Roby, chairman of the Recreation Board, said invitations were sent to five recreation leaders to attend the meeting slated Friday at 1 p. m. in City Hall.

The bids were sent to the possible applicants, all of them now in the recreation field, after a meeting Friday afternoon with J. W. Faust, New York area field director of the National Recreation Association.

Faust made the trip here at the request of Edmund F. Hoey, who has resigned as city recreation director, effective December 31, to accept a recreation post in Baltimore County.

Roby said Faust discussed qualifications of most of the eight men listed as possible applicants for new jobs. Also recommended as a possibility was one man who had not indicated he might be interested in a change, Roby said.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, under whose department recreation falls, also attended the meeting.

Faust said Cumberland will have to "sell the job" to get the recreation director it wants since "the kind of man wanted here already has a job."

"Cumberland," he added "is a big opportunity" for a recreation leader.

The Recreation Board will also meet tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in Central YMCA to compile information on possible applicants for the job and to discuss future board policies.

Sobeloff Says Group Aims For Better Budget

Would Insure Proper Fund Use

Taking the mystery out of Maryland's confused budget system and making it plain enough for every State legislator and taxpayer to grasp is the initial goal of the Commission on Administrative Organization, according to Simon E. Sobeloff, commission chairman.

Appointed In March

A former United States District Attorney, Sobeloff was appointed last March by Governor McKeldin to head a commission to revamp the State's business procedures.

"A single, unified, understandable budget is the only means to insure proper use and control of State funds," says Sobeloff.

Leading law-makers, administrators and business men of the State all admit that Maryland's budget system — once a model for other states—fails to meet present-day needs. This is because State-performed services and State-administered funds have both increased vastly since 1920, when the budget system was installed.

Unified Budget

One unified budget, instead of the several budgets in use today; a clear-cut statement of the purposes for which taxpayers' money will be spent; improved control of performance and purchasing, are among the recommendations made by the Sobeloff Commission. They are included in the Commission's initial report, just completed and submitted for action to the General Assembly in its forthcoming session.

J. Theodore Wolfe, executive vice president of Baltimore's Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Co., heads the Committee which drafted the Commission's budget proposals. He states that the job was undertaken in a strictly non-partisan spirit, with economy to the taxpayer its prime purpose. "Commission members, both Democrats and Republicans, voted unanimously to approve the budget report. They hope their recommendations will receive similar non-partisan treatment from the public and the legislature," Wolfe says.

The new budget plan is slated for discussion, he said, at a 6 p. m. dinner meeting at the Algonquin Hotel in Cumberland Wednesday, December 12. The State Legislators, Officials, and Civic Leaders of Allegany Garrett and Washington Counties have signified their intentions of attending. David Kauffman, of Cumberland, and Charles M. Bandiere, of Baltimore County, both members of the Commission, are scheduled to address the meeting.

Municipal Group Opposed To Fund Diversion

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 9 (AP) — An organization of city officials representing 88 Maryland cities and towns yesterday approved a resolution "opposing the diversion" to other uses of funds such as highway revenues.

The action was taken at the convention of the Maryland Municipal League here, attended by 65 mayors and city councilmen.

The resolution was passed after Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro accused Maryland's Republican Governor McKeldin of trying to balance the state budget at the expense of road improvements.

"What the Governor is trying to do is first balance the next year's budget out of anticipated surplus from the past year and, second, to sacrifice the much-needed road improvements in the subdivisions," the Democratic Mayor said.

Opposes Diversion

The League's resolution opposed "diversion of Sherbow funds," a reference to state revenues apportioned among the cities and counties. The distribution plan was drawn up by a committee headed by Judge Sherbow of Baltimore.

The General Assembly last winter, at Governor McKeldin's insistence, shifted State Police costs from general funds to motor vehicle revenues which had previously been earmarked for road building. Half the state's highway funds are divided among the counties and Baltimore city.

D'Alesandro's stand and the league action followed a move by five Democrats on the Legislative Council who supported shifting State Police costs back to the general funds.

Shatter Hope

The Governor accused them last week of wanting to "shatter x x x hope for tax relief for our overburdened taxpayers," and of trying to "raid state general funds."

Yesterday three of the council members replied to McKeldin. They were A. Gordon Boone, House Majority Leader; John C. Luber, Speaker of the House, and Del. Jerome Robinson, of Baltimore.

Their statement accused the Gov-

Maryland Ranks 14th In Military Contracts

Maryland ranks 14th among the 48 states in the dollar volume of prime military contracts, according to John Weber, district manager of the Baltimore office of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

During the fiscal year which began July 1, 1950, and ended June 30, 1951, the Maryland total dollar value of defense contracts amounted to $596,184,000, or 2 per cent of the national total. Of this dollar volume the Army let $129,445,000, the Navy $212,402,000, the Air Force $254,189,000 and the Armed Services Petroleum Agency $148,000.

Essay Contest Closes Dec. 15

The state essay contest sponsored by the Governor's Committee to Promote Employment of The Physically Handicapped is scheduled to close Saturday, according to J. Leo Delaney, chairman of the local committee.

Delaney reminded that all manuscripts should be in before midnight on Saturday, and should be addressed to Governor's Committee to Promote Employment of the Physically Handicapped, 6, North Liberty Street, Baltimore 1, Md.

Much local attention has been focused on the contest which began October 15, Delaney said, because last year's state winner was Margaret Ann Dilfer, then a senior at Central High School, Lonaconing. Miss Dilfer, now a freshman at Frostburg State Teachers College, aso won fifth prize in the national contest.

The contest is open to all 11th and 12th grade students in Maryland public, private and parochial high schools. Essays should be a maximum of 1,200 words. Four state prizes in savings bonds, totaling $250 will be awarded.

Delaney said informational material may be obtained at the local State Employment Service office, the office of the State Vocational Rehabilitation Service in the Union Street County Building and the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Dr. Hodges To Speak

Dr. W. Royce Hodges, local physician, will speak on "Impressions From a Flying Glimpse of Europe" at the meeting of the Cumberland Lions Club at 12:15 p. m Wednesday in Central YMCA.

Virginian Faces Check Charge

J. T. Stonebraker, 46, Gore, Va., was taken to Allegany County Jail last night to face two charges of passing bad checks in Westernport.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir went to Winchester, Va., jail yesterday to get Stonebraker, who had been picked up by police in that city for authorities here. Sheriff Muir said that Stonebraker passed two bad checks on a Westernport merchant last April. One was for $26 and the other for $21.

The Virginian told Sheriff Muir that he had written the Westernport man that he was planning to come there tomorrow to reimburse him for the checks. The sheriff added that Stonebraker has the necessary funds with him to cover the checks.

Traffic Control Plan In City May Be Revived

End Of Flood Work Phase Paves Way

Interest in long-range improvements in this city's traffic situation is being revived as the underground phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project closes.

Slated this week is the surfacing of Frederick Street, which has been widened to provide a 25½ foot driveway.

Within a few weeks, when all of this work is completed and Frederick Street crossing opened after it is resurfaced, the way will be clear to begin serious consideration of some of the main recommendations made by the State Road Commission following a comprehensive traffic survey of this city.

Plans Are Shelved

When the flood work began, plans made by Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, chief of the Traffic Bureau of the Cumberland Police Department, to follow out the SRC survey recommendations were shelved.

Several months ago, Lt. Lilya was made chief of the department's detective bureau. On January 1, he will become county criminal investigator.

He was succeeded on the traffic post by Lt. Raymond R. Johnston.

Detailed plans were worked out by Lt. Lilya back in 1947-48 in connection with the traffic survey recommendations.

Among the plans prepared are one way traffic for Bedford and Frederick Streets and plans to increase the attractiveness of Henderson Avenue as a route for through traffic.

Cost To Be Slight

A review of the plans for Frederick and Bedford Street indicates the cost of the work would be small, chiefly for one-way signs.

For Bedford Street, the only change would be to make it one-way for southbound, or incoming traffic on U. S. Route 220.

Frederick Street would then be designated for northbound traffic. The street is open to Fectig Avenue and only street improvement would be needed to tie in with Route 220 after ordinances were passed for enforcement of the one-way traffic.

To Speed Traffic

This plan is actually tied in with a second step, that of making Henderson Avenue more attractive by synchronizing traffic flow and eliminating several crossings.

The Traffic Survey pointed out that the many stops on the avenue keep it from being an attractive route.

Plans call for the installation of traffic lights at Frederick, Bedford and Valley Streets, the last of which has been widened during the flood control work to make it more attractive as a thoroughfare.

The traffic survey recommended the closing of Knox and Pear Street crossings to eliminate those stops.

Lt. Lilya's plans included lights on Henderson Avenue synchronized at 25 miles an hour, with automatic signals tied in with the railroad tracks to allow cars to get off the crossing before trains arrive.

Rep. Beall To Seek Senate Seat On Republican Ticket

Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md) this city and Frostburg has formally announced that he will seek election to the United States Senate subject to the Republican primary in May. The Sixth District Congressman spent the weekend at his home.

He is the second Maryland Representative to announce for the seat now held by Senator O'Conor (D-Md). Rep. Sasscer (D-Md), dean of the Maryland delegation, announced early last week his candidacy for the Democratic nomination.

Beall is the third Republican candidate to announce. The others are Paul Robertson, Baltimore GOP leader, and H. Grady Gore, Bethesda, Md., business man.

Gen. D. John Markey, who ran a close race against O'Conor in 1946, is among those expected to make a try to Beall's House seat.

In a statement announcing his candidacy, Beall said that "unless some unexpected influence intervenes, this Congress will end my 10 years of service in the House."

"Short Trip" at Capitol

"It is my intention to take a short trip," he added. "I am told it is not the most expensive short trip on record, but it is also the most hazardous journey which has been charted, although it is merely 500 feet leading from the House of Representatives to the Senate of the United States."

His statement follows in full:

"Unless some unexpected influence intervenes, this Congress will end my ten years of service in the House. It is my intention to take a short trip. I am told it is not only the most expensive short trip on record, but it is also the most hazardous journey which has been charted, although it is merely 500 feet leading from the House of Representatives to the Senate of the United States.

"I have appreciated the opportunity given me to work with the various members of Congress. The years I have served have given me growth of vision and reasoning. It has been my goal to represent the best interests of my constituency and my country. While I have differed at times with some of my colleagues as to what was best, I shall not forget the lessons learned in the House dealing with patience, forebearance and understanding.

"My reason for wanting to make this journey is to better serve my own constituents, as well as all of the people of the great Free State of Maryland, and to help keep the United States of America free.

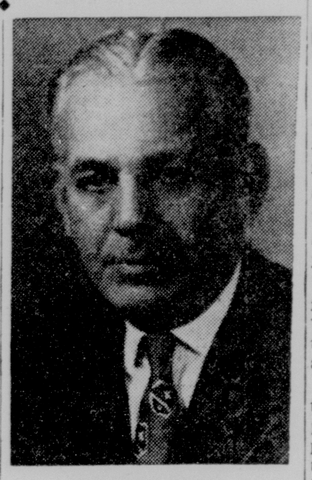

Assails Ideologies

"The ideologies held by many people in high places are contrary to our American precepts. They can call it planned economy, the Fair Deal, or social welfare—but it is still the same old Socialist baloney, any way you slice it. In my opinion planned economy costs the individual vast amounts of money and part of his freedom—it is definitely a step toward absolute Socialism.

"I am well aware of the Communist threat. I do not discount it. The dangerous spread of atheistic Communism under the present Administration in Washington is well known. I will continue to fight it relentlessly. But there is another threat almost as dangerous but more difficult to recognize. It is the threat presented to our free institutions by that group of cynical men who, under the guise of providing political panaceas for certain social and economic problems, are selling the American birthright for a mess of political pottage.

"Slowly but surely they are chipping away the freedoms which are essential to the survival of a healthy, strong and productive nation.

"If nominated and elected to the U. S. Senate I mean to continue my public service on the same basic principles which have motivated my actions throughout my political career."

Police Records Show Mishaps Anticipated

One person will die and 26 will be injured on Allegany County highways during the first quarter of 1952, if State Police statistical records for last year hold true.

The Traffic Collision Statistical Bureau releases figures every three months on accidents in the corresponding quarter of the previous year to show motorists what can be expected.

This year the one fatal accident in the first three months of 1951 occurred in the daytime. But 17 of the 26 persons injured were hurt in 13 accidents which took place at night. The other nine were hurt in four daylight accidents.

Route 36 proved to be the most dangerous road in the county last winter. Of a total of 50 accidents of all types on four highways in the county, 21 took place on Route 36.

Eighteen accidents took place on busy Route 40, the National High way east and west of Cumberland. Route 220, the McMullen Highway, accounted for nine, Route 35 for two.

In Garrett County there were four accidents on Route 40, and one each on Routes 41 and 135. The only fatal accident occurred at night on Route 135. Four of a total of six injuries occurred on the same road.

Local 26 Awaits WSB Decision On Wage Hike

Local 26, Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers Union of America (CIO), is awaiting official notice of Wage Stabilization Board approval of a 13 cent increase negotiated in a pact with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, R. C. Burkhart, president, said yesterday.

He said approval of the increase is being handled by the Richmond, Va., regional WSB on the basis of a tandem relationship with Goodyear, a member of rubber's "Big Four".

The board announced recently that similar boosts had been approved for the "Big Four" companies, but declined to grant all retroactive pay provided in the contracts with the firms. The WCB said seven cents of the boost might be effective on the contract date, with the other six cents retroactive to October 16.

The URCLPWA-CIO, however, informed local unions it is attempting to explore all the possibilities of obtaining payment of the six cents for all hours covered by agreements back to August.

"It is our opinion," the union said, that some technique, other than asking WSB reconsideration, may be devised.

The international pointed out it believes companies have an obligation to pay the retroactive wages back to the contract date and that it will try to find a legal method for securing the funds.

At the Kelly plant, the 13 cent boost awaiting WSB sanction is retroactive to September 10 under the contract.

The Rubber Local moved into its new building at 152-4 North Mechanic Street this week but the offices are still being prepared.

Burkhart said a program will be planned to mark the official opening of the building.

Police Probe Oldtown Road Motor Mishap

State Police today will continue its investigation of an auto mishap one-half mile south of Cumberland on Route 5, Oldtown Road, which occurred late Friday night sending two local youths to Memorial Hospital.

State Trooper Jack Browning, investigating officer, reported that the car driven by James Taylor McClellan, 19, Greene Street, overturned after McClellan lost control of his auto and hit an embankment.

Hits Auto

Another car, driven by Richard Lee Blake, 32, Browning Street, was traveling toward the McClellan car at the time of the accident, and Blake stopped his car in front of McClellan's auto, Browning reported.

After turning over, the McClellan machine rolled into the front of Blake's car. The Blake car received damages of less than $100, and the other auto was completely wrecked.

Riding with McClellan were Ronnie Steele, Greene Street; and Fred Lee Wandless, 13, Paca Street, who were taken to Memorial Hospital.

Two Injured

Steele suffered a concussion of the brain and chest injuries while Wandless suffered a fractured left thigh bone. Steele recovered from the concussion shortly after admittance to the hospital where the boys were reported much improved last night.

Also riding with McClellan were Jo Ann Wilson, 15, Paca Street, who was treated at Memorial Hospital for minor injuries, and Walter Simpson, 20, Patterson Avenue, who was uninjured.

Blake and his son riding with him in the other car were also not hurt.

Reported in "good" condition last night in Allegany Hospital was Walter Floyd Welsh, 32, RFD 4, Hazen Road, who was admitted Friday night after he was struck by a car at the intersection of Baltimore and Liberty Streets.

Welsh suffered a compound fracture of the left leg. Police listed the driver as John T. Stegmaier, 16, RFD 4, and charged him with violating a state motor law. No date has been set for the trial.

Immediate Yule Mailing Urged By Post Office

First Class Posting Advantages Listed

Thomas F. Conlon, local postmaster, yesterday warned local residents that Santa Claus may come and go before their Christmas cards and gift boxes arrive.

"Too many people are still in the envelope-addressing and package-wrapping stage," he explained.

"To assure delivery before Christmas Day," he said, "all parcel post should be in the mail by tomorrow. If the packages are not ready by then, you should send them by Air Parcel Post. Christmas cards for distant states should be posted before this Saturday. Greetings for local delivery should be mailed at least a week before December 25."

Mail First Class

Conlon particularly stressed the importance of sending all Christmas cards with three-cent stamps as first class mail. Actually, you save very little by sending your greetings in the unsealed envelopes, because the rate for third class mail has been increased to two cents, Conlon stated.

Also, Conlon listed these advantages by mailing first class: (1) Your cards may carry written messages. (2) They are dispatched and delivered first. (3) If necessary, they are forwarded to new addresses without additional charge. And (4) If undeliverable, they are returned if the sender's address is on the envelope.

Postal regulations, moreover, require minimum postage of three cents on envelopes smaller than two and three quarter by four inches, or larger than nine by 12 inches whether sealed or unsealed.

Facilities Over Taxed

The next few days are especially critical, Conlon pointed out. Reports from out-of-town indicate that post office facilities are overtaxed all over the country with many thousands of packages due to arrive here the week before Christmas.

"Holiday headaches are nothing new to post office employes," Conlon continued. "But we will be very grateful if people will tie their Christmas cards in bundles with all stamps in the upper right hand corner and all envelopes facing the same way."

This speeds up the cancellation process, he explained. Correct addresses, clearly written or printed, and complete, down to the zone number are also a great help. Postal workers are frequently delayed by hand writing that is nearly impossible to read.

Every package and Christmas card that is undeliverable means a big disappointment to someone, Conlon said.

$140,000 Raised In Christmas Seal Campaign

1950 State Total May Be Exceeded

With 21 out of 23 counties and Baltimore City reporting, the Maryland Tuberculosis Association announced yesterday that over $140,000 had been raised since the beginning of the 1951 Christmas Seal Sale.

According to William H. Staub, president of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, $74,464.27 has been raised to date in the counties and $66,347.36 in Baltimore City for a total of $140,811.63. During the same period of last year's campaign $122,094.93 had been raised throughout the state.

Staub pointed out that no goals had been set by the State Association for the county affiliated associations, but added that present returns indicated that last year's Christmas Seal Sale of $343,105 would be exceeded this year.

Adding that Maryland has the fifth highest death rate from tuberculosis in the United States Staub stated there were 827 deaths from TB in Maryland in 1950. It is estimated that there are about ten unknown cases of TB for every death.

Funds raised during this annual seal sale provide a year-round program of chest X-ray surveys, chest clinics, health education, medical research, and rehabilitation and social service to tuberculosis patients.

Refractories Plant To Resume Operations

Workers at the Big Savage Refractories Corporation plant at Zihlman, who staged a walkout Thursday afternoon, will return to work today.

Howard Winfield, president of Local 190, Brick and Clay Workers Union, said an agreement was reached Saturday on the dispute which led to the stoppage and that the men will go back to work today.

The plant employs about 200 workers.

Minor Fires Noted

South End Fire Company quenched a flue fire at the home of Mrs. Frances Clay, 54 Boone Street, yesterday afternoon.

A short circuit in a car parked near Central Fire Company was quenched yesterday morning after a passer-by noticed smoke coming from the vehicle. Firemen said damage was minor.

Local Soldier Returns After Long Tour Of Duty In East

Home after 59 months duty in the Far East Command, Sergeant First Class Donald H. Gosgrove, son of Herman Cosgrove, 607 Sylvan Avenue says, "It's good to be back in Cumberland."

Sgt. Cosgrove left LaSalle High School where he was a cheerleader for two years and enlisted in the Army in September 1946. After a brief tour of duty for basic training at Camp Polk, La., he left the States in November of that year for Okinawa.

He returned to this country for 21 days leave in November 1949 and then went to Japan. He was sent to Korea in May of this year and ended his tour of duty in the Far East last October 21.

When he left Korea, he was a member of the Second Medical Battalion of the Second Infantry Division, but most of his time in the Army has seen him in radio work.

Sgt. Cosgrove has probably talked to more GIs than any other GI in the Army. As a radio announcer, newscaster, program director and station operator for the Armed Forces Radio Service, the young soldier has gained wide experience in this field.

On Okinawa, he announced programs, interviewed visiting dignitaries, arranged recorded and live talent shows, and remained at this station longer than any other serviceman.

Sent To Korea

In Tokyo, he was assigned to the AFRS Network and was assigned to Korea when the new Korean network of five stations was created there. Each station had a code name. Cosgrove was with 'Homesteader."

After his leave at home terminates, he will report to Camp Kilmer, N J. on January 3, 1952 for reassignment. He hopes for attachment to the AFRS in either New York or San Francisco.

Cosgrove said he was trained for radio work by the Army because of his aptitude and liking for it. Men selected for this work are trained by civilians hired by the Army as instructors, he explained.

After his enlistment expires, he plans to spend sometime in radio schools and also to take basic and advanced courses in television.

SFC. DONALD H. COSGROVE

Then, Donald says, unless some attractive position opens to him, he wants to return to the Army, get back into radio there and complete 20 years service.

Morale Stays High

Sgt. Cosgrove says he saw many sick and wounded men in Korea. Fighting there has been the most rugged American soldiers have ever endured, he declared, but the troops are giving a good account of themselves.

Like all men returning from long tours of duty abroad, Sgt. Cosgrove can't understand the apparent apathy in America over the war. "With the exception of Cumberland and a few other places," he said, "industry and business seem to be booming and there is a decided defense effort shaping up. But people seem to be more or less indifferent about the boys in Korea. It's really bad over there," he added, "the country, terrain, climate and everything makes a bad situation."

Cosgrove said the morale of the troops in Korea is high and believes the Army is doing a good job through its radio in keeping the men informed and entertained. "But the men need many things which the civilians at home can supply, such as books, stationery and most of all, letters from home."

Today's Sermonette

By REV. RAYMOND M. CROWE

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Dawson and Cresaptown Methodist Churches by Rev. Raymond M. Crowe, pastor of Rawlings Methodist Charge. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Word Of God—The Bible

In his introduction in the Epistle to the Hebrews, the author says that of old God revealed himself to the fathers, but that revelation was not complete and final. So now God has given a direct revelation in the person of His Son.

Rev. Crowe

We call the Bible the word of God. To no other book can that title be properly applied. The Hebrew and Christian Scriptures are permeated by a spirit that entitles them to be called the word of God.

The holy books of other religions have had in them some part of the revelation of God. It is not necessary to deny this in order to be loyal to the Christian religion. The Bible is never so convincing as when it is compared with other sacred books.

The Bible is a human book with a divine message. Its writers lived in different periods and under varying conditions, and during a period of over a thousand years. They were men of different temperaments and training.

Some of the Bible writers were the greatest spiritual leaders of the world. The life of God was in them in an unique degree. They embodied the very spirit of God. As the text declares, in varying ways and degrees they spoke for God.

The value of the Bible is found, not in its claims, but in its content. And in the results which it produces. The Bible offers us motives and constrains us to adopt them. It comes to us not only clothed in light but armed with power.

A Brahmin said to a missionary, "What is it that makes the Bible have such power over the lives of those who embrace it? Our Vedas has no such power." It was an heathen opponent of Christianity who said, "In all our sacred books there is nothing to compare with the Bible for goodness and purity, and holiness and love, and for motives of action."

The Bible is the guide and inspiration of the church. It records the words and activities of the prophets. It furnishes the only authentic account of the life of our Lord. It gives a narrative of the work and utterance of the first interpreters of Christianity. It records the customs of the early Christian church.

As Professor Curry of Union Seminary said: "The Bible remains the basic book for high religion, and a unique medium for introducing each oncoming generation to the highest way of life." And as Woodrow Wilson said: "No great nation can survive its own temptations and its own follies that does not indoctrinate its children in the word of God . . . The righteousness of nations, like the righteousness of men, must take its source from these foundations of inspiration."

The Bible is the Book of life. No one who has felt its divine beauty and power, would exchange this one volume for all the literature in the world. We will never know the extent of the good influence of the Bible. The word of God "was made flesh and dwelt among us." The Bible is all divine and yet all human from the beginning to the end. The divine and the human in the Bible sustain a like relation to each other. As in the person of Jesus, they are unmixed, yet inseparably united and constitute but one life, which kindles life in the heart of the believer.

Looking at the Bible from merely a literary point of view, we find that it embraces works of about 40 authors, representing the extremes of society from the throne of the king to the boat of a fisherman. It describes the intervening stages in the revelation of God and the spiritual development of man.

The Bible is first and last a book of religion. It presents the only true and universal religion of God, our Father.

What an unspeakable blessing the Bible is for us! The inexhaustible treasure of divine truth and comfort of the Bible is accessible to all who are willing to believe in God and read His word. Thanks be to God for the coming of His word—the Bible!

Guide Dogs Need No Special Help

Friends and relatives of blind persons accompanied by specially-trained lead dogs emphasized yesterday that the helpful and kindly-intentioned public often constitutes a greater hazard to these dogs than the traffic of New York City's Times Square.

"The public, even though realizing that the dog is capably and efficiently taught, interferes constantly with its efficiency by attempting to lead blind graduates of the school across streets, intersections and even around obstructions on the sidewalks," according to an official of one of the schools for training dogs.

"Specially-trained dogs are competent to guide blind people who have been educated to use them in all kinds of traffic. However, the dogs cannot be expected to watch for speeding automobiles and at the same time cope with interference of some persons who may have taken their master's arms and be pushing or pulling in an opposite direction, or who may be shouting words of warning.

"While these dogs normally ignore pedestrians, they cannot help being distracted when affectionate pats or caresses are offered by many strangers. The public can be most helpful by allowing the dog and its blind master to meet and solve problems of traffic as they were taught at school," the spokesman concluded.

These dogs are taught to go to the curb and await a command with these dogs, but other blind men from Romney, W. Va., Meyersdale, Pa., and Johnstown, Pa., often visit here with their dog companions.

Only two local men are equipped from their masters.

City Recreation Board To Meet Job Applicants

Five Interviews Scheduled Friday

The City Recreation Board will meet with applicants for the position of city recreation director here Friday afternoon.

Clifton Van Roby, chairman of the Recreation Board, said invitations were sent to five recreation leaders to attend the meeting slated Friday at 1 p. m. in City Hall.

The bids were sent to the possible applicants, all of them now in the recreation field, after a meeting Friday afternoon with J. W. Faust, New York area field director of the National Recreation Association.

Faust made the trip here at the request of Edmund F. Hoey, who has resigned as city recreation director, effective December 31, to accept a recreation post in Baltimore County.

Roby said Faust discussed qualifications of most of the eight men listed as possible applicants for new jobs. Also recommended as a possibility was one man who had not indicated he might be interested in a change, Roby said.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, under whose department recreation falls, also attended the meeting.

Faust said Cumberland will have to "sell the job" to get the recreation director it wants since "the kind of man wanted here already has a job."

"Cumberland," he added "is a big opportunity" for a recreation leader.

The Recreation Board will also meet tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in Central YMCA to compile information on possible applicants for the job and to discuss future board policies.

Sobeloff Says Group Aims For Better Budget

Would Insure Proper Fund Use

Taking the mystery out of Maryland's confused budget system and making it plain enough for every State legislator and taxpayer to grasp is the initial goal of the Commission on Administrative Organization, according to Simon E. Sobeloff, commission chairman.

Appointed In March

A former United States District Attorney, Sobeloff was appointed last March by Governor McKeldin to head a commission to revamp the State's business procedures.

"A single, unified, understandable budget is the only means to insure proper use and control of State funds," says Sobeloff.

Leading law-makers, administrators and business men of the State all admit that Maryland's budget system — once a model for other states—fails to meet present-day needs. This is because State-performed services and State-administered funds have both increased vastly since 1920, when the budget system was installed.

Unified Budget

One unified budget, instead of the several budgets in use today; a clear-cut statement of the purposes for which taxpayers' money will be spent; improved control of performance and purchasing, are among the recommendations made by the Sobeloff Commission. They are included in the Commission's initial report, just completed and submitted for action to the General Assembly in its forthcoming session.

J. Theodore Wolfe, executive vice president of Baltimore's Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Co., heads the Committee which drafted the Commission's budget proposals. He states that the job was undertaken in a strictly non-partisan spirit, with economy to the taxpayer its prime purpose. "Commission members, both Democrats and Republicans, voted unanimously to approve the budget report. They hope their recommendations will receive similar non-partisan treatment from the public and the legislature," Wolfe says.

The new budget plan is slated for discussion, he said, at a 6 p. m. dinner meeting at the Algonquin Hotel in Cumberland Wednesday, December 12. The State Legislators, Officials, and Civic Leaders of Allegany Garrett and Washington Counties have signified their intentions of attending. David Kauffman, of Cumberland, and Charles M. Bandiere, of Baltimore County, both members of the Commission, are scheduled to address the meeting.

Municipal Group Opposed To Fund Diversion

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 9 (AP) — An organization of city officials representing 88 Maryland cities and towns yesterday approved a resolution "opposing the diversion" to other uses of funds such as highway revenues.

The resolution was passed after Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro accused Maryland's Republican Governor McKeldin of trying to balance the state budget at the expense of road improvements.

"What the Governor is trying to do is first balance the next year's budget out of anticipated surplus from the past year and, second, to sacrifice the much-needed road improvements in the subdivisions," the Democratic Mayor said.

Opposes Diversion

The League's resolution opposed "diversion of Sherbow funds," a reference to state revenues apportioned among the cities and counties. The distribution plan was drawn up by a committee headed by Judge Sherbow of Baltimore.

The General Assembly last winter, at Governor McKeldin's insistence, shifted State Police costs from general funds to motor vehicle revenues which had previously been earmarked for road building. Half the state's highway funds are divided among the counties and Baltimore city.

D'Alesandro's stand and the league action followed a move by five Democrats on the Legislative Council who supported shifting State Police costs back to the general funds.

Shatter Hope

Yesterday three of the council members replied to McKeldin. They were A. Gordon Boone, House Majority Leader; John C. Luber, Speaker of the House, and Del. Jerome Robinson, of Baltimore.

Their statement accused the Gov-

Maryland Ranks 14th In Military Contracts

Maryland ranks 14th among the 48 states in the dollar volume of prime military contracts, according to John Weber, district manager of the Baltimore office of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

During the fiscal year which began July 1, 1950, and ended June 30, 1951, the Maryland total dollar value of defense contracts amounted to $596,184,000, or 2 per cent of the national total. Of this dollar volume the Army let $129,445,000, the Navy $212,402,000, the Air Force $254,189,000 and the Armed Services Petroleum Agency $148,000.

Virginian Faces Check Charge

J. T. Stonebraker, 46, Gore, Va., was taken to Allegany County Jail last night to face two charges of passing bad checks in Westernport.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir went to Winchester, Va., jail yesterday to get Stonebraker, who had been picked up by police in that city for authorities here. Sheriff Muir said that Stonebraker passed two bad checks on a Westernport merchant last April. One was for $26 and the other for $21.

The Virginian told Sheriff Muir that he had written the Westernport man that he was planning to come there tomorrow to reimburse him for the checks. The sheriff added that Stonebraker has the necessary funds with him to cover the checks.
